The United State Supreme Court has upheld the legality of prison sentences by military and naval courts martial.

New Zealand has just passed a law which requires drunkards to be photographed, their pictures labelled and placed in all saloons.

Manchester, England, is about to spend about a million to clear out some of its worst slums and erect model tenements, with trees planted and playgrounds provided.

The Supreme Court of Minnesota has rendered a decision upholding the State law granting the right of eminent domain to telephone and telegraph companies.

A Chicago newspaper employed a prominent lawyer to stay in Springfield, Ill., to examine and report on the meaning and bearing of all bills introduced into the Legislature.

San Bernardino County, California, has the villages of Cadiz, Bagdad and Siberia not far apart on the same line of railway; Delaware has Odessa and Smyrna, only fifteen miles apart, while the eastern shore of Maryland has Cordova, Bethlehem, Vienna and Berlin, all within a radius of thirty miles from the third-named place.

Although the northeastern part of New Jersey partakes strongly of the character of New York City, and the region immediately opposite Philadelphia strongly of that city, while almost the whole coast is a summer settlement of aliens, the interior of the State preserves its own character. Old family names survive, old houses are preserved, old mills and old inns are still active, and the strong, early Quaker element remains much as it was 200 years ago.

A unique exhibit at the Cotton States and International Exposition at Atlanta, Ga., will be a model jail. It will show all the latest improvements in prison construction, and will present for inspection a jail complete in sanitary equipment and absolutely safe. A prisoner incarcerated within its iron cages will be absolutely protected from without, and will find it impossible to escape, even if allowed to work for liberty with the most improved jail-breaking tools.

Lambrecht is a city in the Palatinate which manufactures cloth and has many woolen mills. In the middle ages, for some favor or privilege, Lambrecht obliged itself to send annually on the 1st of April its latest adopted citizen to the neighboring City of Deidesheim, driving a "stately and well fed" he-goat as a tribute. The man bringing the goat was, according to the documents, to be rewarded with a quart of wine and bread and cheese. This tribute has actually been sent every year, early in the morning on the 1st of April, and has been the occasion of much fun and festivity of late. This year the Lambrecht City Council elected Prince Bismarck an honorary citizen, and with horror it was discovered that he was the latest member and should by rights have driven the goat to Deidesheim this year.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

The man who hesitates is won.
Do not waste time over your grievances.

It always makes a man feel good to sneeze.

The street is full of humiliations to the proud.

So many people are actuated by pure cussedness.

What we learn with pleasure we never forget.

Some people do nothing but talk encouragingly.

Patience is the road to advancement in all lines of life.

Prosperity is a blessing to the good, a curse to the evil.

A small debt produces a debtor; a large one an enemy.

Many try but few succeed in borrowing themselves rich.

Few men are so clever as to know all the mischief they do.

A perfectly bright girl can do without a light in the parlor.

Nothing is more reasonable and cheap than good manners.

When the State is most corrupt then the laws are most multiplied.

In a great many cases a woman's faith in a man is a sort of stubbornness.

When a woman wants to laugh in her sleeve she is not cramped for lack of room.

Clothes do not make the man, but they have a good deal to do in making a woman.

A mother thinks her daughter's faithful piano practice is sweet music. That is love.

To dally much with subjects mean and low, proves that the mind is weak or makes it so.—The South-West.

A Simple Means of Transportation.

The ascent of mountains and the carrying of necessary articles up very steep inclines necessitate an enormous amount of labor and time. It is possible to put up wire rope tramways at a very small expense, and have these so arranged that loads can be brought up a minimum of the cost and trouble now involved.

A sample of this device is a wire tramway recently put up at Gibraltar. It connects the signal station at the top of the rock with the town below. There are two ropes, 320 yards long, leading to the mountain. An engine works the ropes which are able to sustain a weight of seventy tons. The transit from the town to the station occupies scarcely five minutes, where formerly it took a whole day.

On the general principle of the carriage line that delivers parcels and change in stores, an effective and rapid means of transit between the various points may be secured.

The rope tramway idea is yet in its infancy, but before another ten years have passed this invention will be utilized to connect buildings of all sorts. It would be of untold value could a single rope and basket be so arranged that one might pass from house to out-buildings, regardless of snow, storm, or rain, stepping from one sheltered entry at the house to another at the barn without coming in contact with the ground. The time and need are here, and only await the inventive genius who shall put these into practical operations.—New York Ledger.

Green No Protection to the Eyes.

The rage for green as the color which best protects the eyes is severely condemned by Professor Fuchs, of Vienna. He denies that it has any beneficial effect whatever, and that green newspapers, green glasses and green umbrellas are all a mistake. His theory is, at all events, plausible. It is that each different color tires a different set of nerves and vision, and, therefore, looking at one particular color saves one set of nerves at the expense of another. The best method, he points out, is to dim all the rays of light by smoked or gray glasses, which rest all the optic nerves.—London Globe.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

A Fine Specimen.

A certain rich man was very fond of exhibiting his pictures in an ostentatious and patronizing manner to artists of his acquaintance. One day a young painter lunched with him, and was escorted around his gallery, and the youth, wishing to curry favor with a possible patron, exclaimed after every picture exhibited:

"And a very fine specimen of that master!"

The picture owner, however, though he was rich, had a sense of humor, and, noticing his audience stifling a yawn, said:

"Now, here is a remarkably fine Salvatille, you perceive."

"And a very fine specimen of that master!" exclaimed the artist, enthusiastically.

A man is fickle if he breaks a marriage engagement, but he is dishonorable, a traitor, and a wretch if he waits until after she has seen a dress-maker.

Foul breath is a discourager of affection. It is always an indication of poor health—bad digestion. To bad digestion is traceable almost all human ills. It is the starting point of many very serious maladies. Upon the healthy action of the digestive organs, the blood depends for its richness and purity. If digestion stops, poisons matter accumulates and is forced into the blood—there is no place else for it to go.

The bad breath is a danger signal. Look out for it! If you have it, or any other symptom of indigestion, take a bottle or two of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It will straighten out the trouble, make your blood pure and healthy and full of nutriment for the tissues.

Her Romance Ended.

"Yes, I gave him up," sighed the young woman in the pink wrapper.

"Did he prove unworthy of your affection?" inquired the sympathetic young woman in the pale-green gown.

"He—he became a spelling reformer," rejoined the other with a shudder, "and signed his name 'Jorj.' It took all the poetry and romance out of the name. It was more than I could endure."

And as the hoarse night winds moaned and shrieked outside, and the lonesome and despairing cat in the back alley lifted up its voice and howled in agony of soul the two friends sat and gazed dreamily into the fire.

These stopped using soap, long ago.

This one stopped because—well, we'll have to guess why. Perhaps, because it gave him too much work to do. That's what everybody thinks, for that matter, when there's nothing but soap at hand, and there's a good deal of dirt to be removed from anything.

But this one stopped because she had found something better than soap—Pearline. Something easier, quicker, simpler, more economical. No rubbing to speak of, no wear—easy work and money saved, whether it's washing clothes, cleaning house, or any kind of washing and cleaning.
