Bro. J. H. Mills, Supt. of the Thomasonville Orphanage with a class of ten children, gave a delightful exercise, consisting of recitations, dialogues, and vocal music in the Baptist church Monday. There were 8 girls and 3 boys; and their bright, beaming faces and apparel showed that they were treated kindly. The exercises closed with a large collection for the benefit of the children, amounting to $50.

Last Friday in company with W. H. Ward, we spent the day in historic Edenton. While there we spent an hour with the editor of the Fisherman and Farmer. From there we went to see that genial, whole-souled gentleman, Dr. Bogart, and for a short time we were highly entertained. After which in company with the Dr. we partook of a most excellent dinner at the Woodard House, the proprietor of which, is a man that knows how to prepare for the inner man. His servants are very polite and attentive to the guest. After dinner we strolled around the town, looking at some of the handsome residences in course of erection. Late in evening we left for home, glad that we had spent a day with the good people of Edenton.
