ORIGIN OF THE CAROLISTS OF SPAIN

Charles VII, of Spain, commonly called Don Carlos, is a personage by no means to be despised in the existing emergency. Of all the countless political factions that distract the situation, the Carlists are always to be reckoned with. The pretender has been giving the world his views of the situation, but they all reduce themselves to the point that Carlos is the legitimate king of Spain, and he intends to assert his right by force at the opportune moment.

Ferdinand VII, the great-grandfather of the present pretender, laid the foundation of this Carlist claim, by the marriage of Princess Christina, of Naples. The issue of this marriage was a daughter, Isabella. Upon the death of Ferdinand, in 1830, without male issue, the constitutional succession would have been in the person of Don Carlos, the king's brother. But the queen mother of Isabella succeeded in having the legitimate king set aside and Isabella placed upon the throne.

The descendants of the brother of Ferdinand have never yielded their claim to rivals. There have been three of these pretenders. The first was Don Carlos, the brother of Ferdinand VII; the second was the son of the first Don Carlos; the third is the present, pretender, the nephew of the second Don Carlos. The pretension is based upon the unconstitutionality of the succession of Isabella in the place of the first Don Carlos. Every one of the three has made unsuccessful attempts to establish his rights by arms, and all have failed.

The Carlist claims have always been supported by powerful parties. The present Don Carlos is watching the course of Spanish events with extraordinary interest. The latest Carlist manifesto was made recently at Brussels. It is unnecessary to say that Don Carlos does not live in Spain.

I was seriously afflicted with a cough for several years, and last than ever before. I have used many remedies without receiving much relief, and being recommended to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, by a friend, who, knowing me to be a poor widow, gave it to me, I tried it, and with the most gratifying results. The first bottle relieved me very much and the second bottle has absolutely cured me. I have not had as good health for twenty years. Respectfully, MRS. MARY A. BEARD, Claremore, Ark. Sold by W. R. Shannonhouse.

Mr. P. Ketcham of Pike City Cal., says: "During my brother's late sickness from sciatic rheumatism, Chamberlain's Pain Balm was the only remedy that gave him any relief." Many others have testified to the prompt relief from pain which this liniment affords. For sale by W. R. Shannonhouse.
