MANY ATTEND BIBLE SCHOOL

Baptist Church Scene of Interested Group Youngsters

Over one hundred boys and girls came to the Baptist church Friday afternoon to register for the Daily Vacation Bible School. The faculty was more than pleased with the results of the first day's work. The pupils then filed out before the parade started more than 150, including the faculty, attended.

After registering, the happy group learned to make special group B. S. hats which they wore during the parade. A brief assembly was held in the church auditorium, and announcements were made. The pupils then filed out into the street where a long string of cars waited to take them to an automobile ride.

With beaming faces they piled into the automobiles and the parade proceeded down Main street, leaving part of the children behind because there was not room in the cars to hold the great number present. The sound of horns, whistles, drums, and joyous shouting of the children soon brought most of the people out of the stores and places of business to see what was happening. Flying banners attached to the automobiles and black letters the announcement that the Daily Vacation Bible School was in progress and that all Brevard children were invited to come.

When the parade was moving through the residential streets people rushed out of their houses and children quit their play to discover the cause of the excitement. After riding for 30 minutes, the parade returned to the Baptist church and the happy children went home to spread the good news to other children.

On Monday, the day of the first regular session of the school, the attendance swelled to more than 200. The enrollment continued to increase on Tuesday.

A joint worship period, in charge of Rev. Paul Hartsell, pastor of the Baptist church, was attended by the Juniors and Intermediates at 9 o'clock. Mrs. Chas. T. Henderson, of Deland, Fla., entertained the assembly with a story. Prof. Alvin Moore directed the music period in his usual splendid manner. Mrs. Dan Merrill played the march for the program.

Whitewater Has New Type Bridge

Locust Construction Is Replaced by Span Type

A new bridge, just above the famous Whitewater Falls, has been completed by the state highway forces under the supervision of Foreman Gunter, which is now capable of taking care of most any size load.

The bridge, torn away by the construction force had served the people of the Bohoney section for many years, having been built about thirty years ago, according to the best information obtainable. W. H. Hinkle of the Bohoney section had charge of construction of the bridge, using black locust timbers throughout.

An interesting feature of the old bridge was the central or main span which was 86 feet in length and was supported by six black locust stringers of that length without any auxiliary support. The stringers each measured six inches in diameter at the small end. Smaller spans connected at each end of the central one, making the bridge around 125 feet in length.

The first bridge built across this famous scenic stream was constructed by the Toxaway company, popular logs being used.

Several Churches in County Holding Series of Meetings

Revival services are in progress in several churches in the county this week, with pastors of the county and others assisting in the work.

The Rev. J. E. Burt is continuing the series of meetings at Oak Grove Baptist church which began last week. Chicken Suicide Verdict Recorded

John Kilpatrick of Brevard is authority for the story of seeing a chicken commit suicide. According to the story told by Mr. Kilpatrick, he was driving along Highway 28, near Eldo, last week, when a chicken ran across the road in front of his car, barely escaping being run down.

With a great flurry and a squawk, the chicken flew, jumped and flopped in the more or less graceful way in which chickens do these things, smack up against a fence post. Investigation of the case disclosed the fact that the chicken had broken its neck.

"Plain suicide," says John. "In the first place," he says, "the chicken did not need to cross the road at that particular time and place, and secondly, it had not been taken such a speedy, direct line for the post. Plain suicide."

Hamilton Writes 'Five-Ten' Song

Farm Movement Told of in Composition by Little River Man

"Welcome Echo from Minnesota" is fitting caption for a recent musical composition by Neal Hamilton of Little River. The song deals with the Minnesota Farm plan, known here as the Five-Ten year plan, which is being carried out by organized farmers' groups throughout Western North Carolina.

The song was presented at the Little River farm meeting held at the school house last Friday evening, interwoven into a blackface comedy sketch, with Mr. Hamilton, Judson Patterson, Miss Eltie Patterson and Deverow Hamilton making up a quartet that won acclaim of the gathering.

Musical notes by Neal Hamilton for the fitting words has been played by several musicians of note, who declare it to be of outstanding merit. Words of the song (to you have income, a regular farm income, to keep the money cup filled up? Do you know we all imported goods to take our money away that should be kept on the farm? (Chorus).

Do you have a cow, the purebred dairy type? Purebred rise will improve your herd; tests show that the scrub is a liability on the farm and his block the path to Prosperity. (Chorus).

Farm products are cheap, farm products very low. I can not tell the reason why, but this I know: We need co-operation with the business men, and get in line with the market man. (Chorus).

Upon taking over the county highway work here last year, the state highway commission found, as was the case in many counties, inadequate equipment for road building and maintenance. Transylvania county had one tractor, one road machine, one rock crusher, one power roller, and a few small tools. Included in the equipment now in use by the state highway commission are four tractors, nine trucks, five road machines, one compressor, with complete stock of small tools of approved type.

Transylvania has 226 miles of state roads. It was pointed out with 75.4 miles of state roads, including the Greenville, Pickens, No. 28, and the Boylston link, approximately 100 miles.

HOME GROWN PRODUCTS SUPPLY BREVARD MARKET

Home grown vegetables of wide assortment are now being placed on the Brevard market by farmers and truck growers of the county, all taking care of all their truck trade with products of Transylvania.

Corn, beans, peas, squash, cucumbers, carrots, tomatoes, okra, potatoes, berries, and green growing vegetables are furnished by farmers of the immediate section. Visitors who are spending their summer vacation here are loud in their praise of the quality products raised in Transylvania, and many of them call for home-grown products when buying.

No better flavor can be found than that contained in Transylvania grown vegetables, it is pointed out by customers, who special emphasis placed on Irish potatoes.

BLANTYRE BAPTISTS START WORK ON CHURCH BUILDING

Close to $50,000 Expended in Transylvania During Past Year

LARGE NUMBER OF MEN ARE EMPLOYED

Bridges Built and Repaired on Principal Roads of County

Detailed workings of the State Highway Commission in Transylvania county were given briefly by Assistant District Engineer S. E. He stated that the state highway program sponsored by Governor O. Max Gardner, figures given by Kiwanis Howard showed that Transylvania county roads, exclusive of the state highways, had received aid to the amount of over $23,000, with 45,000 miles having been paved with gravel, sand and crushed stone.

Six bridges on county projects across the French Broad river have been built during the past year, many other county bridges also being either rebuilt or improved. Two bridges on Horsepasture river, one on Whitewater, two on the Country Club road, one on Williamson Creek, and eight on the Boylston state route, are among the new constructions, with nearly $25,000 having been spent here on this one phase of the work.

A large force of men have been given employment throughout the year ending July 1, the road man pointed out, at one time last fall 112 men being employed within the county. A force of from 30 to 40 men was maintained.

Upon taking over the county highway work here last year, the state highway commission found, as was the case in many counties, inadequate equipment for road building and maintenance. Transylvania county had one tractor, one road machine, one rock crusher, one power roller, and a few small tools.
