AT LEAST THEY STICK

Much discussion at the moment is centered around the B. E. F. or "Bonus Expeditionary Forces" who have been waging a fight for payment in full of the adjusted compensation certificate for ex-soldiers.

While Congress was in session, when there was a slim chance of the soldiers getting the adjusted compensation certificates or bonus paid in full, there was a concerted effort made by the boys themselves who pulled up stakes and went to Washington to literally "camp on the trails" of all officials in Washington who could give the movement a boost.

Then when Congress adjourned without passing the necessary legislation to satisfy the demands of the boys, thousands of them elected to stay on in Washington "until 1945 if necessary."

Undaunted, the remnants of the army moved across the river, and are now owners of a 20-acre tract of land in an adjoining city, where they avow they will maintain headquarters on property that is owned by their leader, Commander Waters.

This paper has stated previously that if there was a chance to pay the boys that they should have their pay. It has been expressed in these columns that if it were possible to find a source of revenue from which the necessary funds could be derived without crippling the government...

If there were more of the spirit of the B. E. F. being shown in this immediate community right now there would be less want, more happiness and a better feeling all around. We don't need an army encamped around the county like that camped in the neighborhood of Washington, but we do need a lot more of the aggressive spirit that is being displayed by a bunch of fellows who are battling against heavy odds in an uphill job, and at the same time we could do without a lot of the down-at-the-heel feeling that some of the business men are wont to express in a general conversation.

The fellows up in the Washington neighborhood may stay there for a long time and then not accomplish anything, but no man dare call them slackers for laying down on a job which they believe is their duty to do.

A COMMUNITY LOSS

Brevard and Transylvania county is losing one of its very best citizens in the person of Prof. J. F. Winton, for the past five years superintendent of Brevard Institute, who leaves within a few days to re-enter the minister in the Missouri Conference of the Methodist Church, South.

serting that any community can well be proud to number this fine couple as its citizens, but we express regret that it is necessary for Brevard to lose people of such calibre.

Not only have Prof. Winton and Mrs. Winton been acceptable leaders of the Brevard Institute, but they have taken an active part in all church and community activities, giving of their time, talent and their means for the furtherance of any worthy spiritual or civic cause.

GLAD YOU MISSED IT

Last week's Times was delivered one day late due to delay caused by an electrical storm damaging power lines which pull the machinery on which The Times is assembled and printed, and we are glad in a way that it happened—numbers of people called over the phone Thursday afternoon to ask why they had not received the paper, and many others called by the office both Thursday afternoon and Friday morning, thus proving conclusively that The Times is looked forward to each week.

Through the mail we have received a wonderful poster labeled "Our Job," which sets forth several ways to kill the depression. Among the suggestions offered is, "WE MUST BRING BACK PROSPERITY—and the only way to do it is TO FORGET POLITICS AND LET BUSINESS DO THE JOB!"

THE VIEWS OF OTHER EDITORS

THE RAILROADS

Announced determination of the leading railroads of the country, as voiced following a meeting of rail executives Wednesday in New York to "take all available measures to secure the utmost in operating efficiency" is heartening evidence that the railroad managements of the country are working energetically and intelligently to adjust railroad affairs to existing conditions and make the roads paying enterprises despite the new forms of competition which they have to meet.

Although newer forms of transportation have developed on an extensive scale in the last decade, the country cannot yet get along without railroads. They are indispensable agencies of transportation. If they could not exist as genuinely profitable enterprises, the government would have to operate them in order that the country might be served in its transportation needs.

However, the people of this country who are faced with the ultimate alternative of taking the railroads over as a government enterprise, if they cannot maintain themselves on a profitable basis, will find reason for a sympathetic attitude toward the request which the railroads make of the government for a basis of equality with competing forms of competition. The railroads declare that they are quite able to take care of themselves if given that equality.

MORRISON'S NEXT FIGHT

It was not so much a "swan song" as a bugle call that Senator Morrison sounded when he made his last speech in the United States senate.

GLANCING BACK AT BREVARD

Taken from the files of The Sylvan Valley News, beginning with the courtesy of Mrs. W. B. F. Wright.

The opportunity to buy ice, either for sickness or cooling purposes, has been a great accommodation to every people this summer.

A gentleman who was in Transylvania county yesterday says the finest corn in the state is in the Davidson River section.

Deputy Collector George W. Tilson was here from Asheville making a survey of the Merrill and Landford distillery on Carozon creek.

Dr. F. B. Pite and family, of Mooresville, and W. C. Patton and wife, of Vinita, Indian Territory, are stopping for the summer with R. E. Patton, Ecusta, Mr. W. C. Patton has bought property and is planning to build a summer residence.

Thomas W. Mason, Democratic candidate for District 22, and Locke Craig, Democratic elector at large, will address the people of Transylvania county at Brevard, Thursday, August 27.

Prosperity seems to have perched on the banners of Transylvania so far as summer visitors are concerned. The trade in merchandise has increased there.

Misses Mary and Minnie Dalton, of Asheville, cousins of Miss Mattie Lankford, are visiting friends here.

Miss Maxwell, of Asheville, will do dressmaking with Miss Juanita Gash, after September 1. Cutting and fitting done by the newest system.

We are only able to find three men in town who will acknowledge that they were at the Foderstad picnic Monday, P. L. Clark and J. L. Aiken with their "nigger babies," and Jim Aiken with his portfolio of ice water and fried chicken.

A somewhat unique wedding occurred in the Round Top section Tuesday evening. Thomas Russell had procured a license to marry Miss Carrie Neil, daughter of G. E. Neil, but the nuptials were opposed by parental authority.

While other sections of this broad land of ours are suffering with an extended heated term and drought, our mountain climate has been kept cool by almost daily showers.
