Here's a good one for the teachers as appeared in the PATHFINDER of September 2nd:

"A certain bank made it a practice to pay out new bills whenever possible. One day when a woman appeared the paying teller apologized because he was unable to give her new clean bills and had to pay her in old dirty ones. He asked her if she was afraid of microbes on the bills. 'Microbes no!' exclaimed the woman. 'I'm a teacher and you don't think a microbe could live on my salary do you?'"

The annual "Home Coming Day" will be celebrated at Oak Grove Baptist church next Sunday week—October 8th. Everybody is invited. Come!
