NINTH GRADE PRESENTS PLAY

The ninth grade of Rosman high school presented a very humorous and interesting program on Sept. 29. Cast of characters included: Doctor Barnes, Everett Whitmire; Ted Morris, the attorney, Russell Duncan, Mary Short, the nurse, Margaret Glazener; Jack and Mandy, the colonial invalids, Charles McCall and Gertrude Breedlove; Mrs. Jones, the rheumatic patient, Millie Allison; Mrs. Yarn, with a sick baby, Inez Oates; Polly Jackson, tonsillitis patient, Laura Pharr; Bill Barton, an old friend, Leo Reid. The physician, Dr. Barnes, is called out of town for the day, leaving his attorney in charge; he also leaves some distilled water and candy pills for the patients. Dr. Barnes returns just in time for a very urgent surgical operation, and Ted, who has heart trouble, decides he needs a nurse for life.

MANY JUNIORS JOIN DURING PAST YEAR

Members of the Junior Order United American Mechanics in North Carolina now number 44,656, according to statistics compiled by Sam F. Vance of Kerneraville, state council secretary. The number includes 1,044 members of 21 new councils organized during the past year.

The North Carolina state council ranks third in the United States from the standpoint of membership. Juniors in this city number 92 the state secretary's report shows.

Under the leadership of B. C. Siske, of Pleasant Garden, the new state councilor, a determined effort to carry the membership beyond the 50,000 mark will be made. Through the operation of the field representations, the councilor plans to stress strengthening of old councils and the institution of many new ones.
