Longer Evenings - More Artificial Light. DAYLIGHT CHART and TYPICAL ELECTRIC BILL. NOTICE how closely a typical customer's electric bill varied with the length of time artificial light is needed per day through the year. This is one reason why electric bills are higher during fall and winter months than during the spring and summer. More cooking is done in the winter time also—more roasted meats and baking—which makes the heating bill higher. More time is spent indoors, reading, visiting, card playing, etc., and the radio is called upon for longer hours of operation by far than in the summer time. No matter how much electricity you use, always remember that it performs a service cheaper and better than any other way than that service can be done. Electricity has never gone up in price. It is markedly lower in cost today than ever before in history. Electricity is Your Best Servant—Use it Freely. SOUTHERN PUBLIC UTILITIES CO.
