Brevard's seventh annual flower show, sponsored by the Women's Civic club, will be held Friday of next week, July 27, in the vacant room adjoining the Woman's Exchange. The show will be open to the public at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and continue through the afternoon and evening. A silver offering will be taken to defray expenses of the event.

Request is made that all growers for exhibition be brought to the room, not later than 11 o'clock Friday, since the judge, Hugo Strongmiller, of the Wayside Nurseries, Butmore, will be ready to judge the entries soon after noon.

Many valuable prizes will be awarded to winners of first and second awards. It is pointed out by the garden committee in charge of the event that the flower show is open to all flower growers throughout the town and county, and all who have any kind of home grown flowers are urged to enter them in the exhibition in competition for the various prizes.

SHERIFF BURNS TWO STILLS DURING WEEK

Sheriff Tom Wood and his deputies put one illicit whiskey manufacturing plant in such condition last Sunday that no part of the outfit will again be used for turning out the fluid that inspired the "masterpiece" by Owen P. White in Collier's magazine.

Demolishing all metal parts of the still that was found in the Connecticut section, the sheriff had a huge fire built and all wooden beer vats and tubs, and the wooden trough line that was used to bring water from the small stream to the manufacturing site were reduced to ashes.

Operator of the still was "not at home," Sheriff Wood said, but his outfit will have to be rebuilt from the ground up before any further operations can be started.

Satisfied with his work on the First Day of the Week, Sheriff Wood went into the Carson Creek section Tuesday and located another illicit plant that had been in operation early Tuesday morning, and built another bonfire. No whiskey was found, but had the weather continued hot for two more days and the sheriff stayed at home, there would have been several more gallons of the famous mountain fluid ready for distribution.

BUSINESS EXECUTIVE BURIED IN NEW YORK

M. Dworetzky Had Much To Do With Development Of Industries Here

Funeral services for Morris Dworetzky, prominent business man of New York City and Brevard, were held in New York Monday, death coming to the 65-year-old business executive suddenly Saturday morning.

Mr. Dworetzky was prominently connected with business interests in Transylvania county, being president of the Toxaway Tanning company at Rosman, vice president of the Transylvania Tanning company at Brevard, vice president of the R-s-man Tanning Extract company at Rosman, and vice president of the Gloucester Lumber company at Rosman.

While the deceased spent most of his time in the New York offices of the four Transylvania county businesses, he was well known here, making frequent visits to this section, and spent considerable time here immediately following organization of the Toxaway Tanning company at Rosman by Jos. S. Silverstein and associates in 1902. In addition to his business associates and employees in the county, Mr. Dworetzky had a wide circle of warm friends here.

All four plants with which the deceased was connected were closed Monday out of respect for the executive. Mr. and Mrs. Jos. S. Silverstein attended the funeral services in New York.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Theresa Dworetzky, two sons, Morris Dworetzky, Jr., and N. P. Dworetzky of New York, both directors in the Transylvania county businesses, and one daughter, Mrs. Leonard Giles of New York City.

COUNTY FAIR TO BE STAGED AT ROSMAN

The Transylvania County Fair will very probably be held at Rosman this fall, according to action taken at the association meeting at the Brevard court house Saturday night.

It was pointed out that the permanent fair ground project for the county home property had not been gotten through the federal aid routine at Raleigh and that the interests of the season made it necessary to begin plans at once. Only buildings available in the county at this time are at Rosman, and a committee was appointed to see if these could be procured for the two day event which will probably be held the first week in October or the last week in September.

GHOULS ENTER TWO GLADY FORK GRAVES

A gruesome job was given Sheriff Tom Wood last week when he was called to investigate reports that two graves in the Gladly Fork cemetery on the North-South Carolina line above the East Fork section had been gone into.

Sheriff Wood found a skull lying on top of the ground, apparently that of a young man. There was no marker to the grave from which the skull had been taken other than a plain stone.

Another grave, that of Mrs. Mary Smith, who has been dead for 12 years, showed that it had been opened, but the remains unbothered. The sheriff stated that he had to have the graves re-opened, fearing that someone had used this ghoulish work in an effort to hide a body. However, after digging into the graves he found nothing other than sufficient evidence to bear out the reports of residents of the section that the graves had been opened. The skull of the young man was replaced.

French Broad Dam Will Not Be Built Says Engineer For Tennessee Valley

Setting at rest all mis-information among citizens of Transylvania county in regard to construction of the proposed French Broad dam by the TVA, a statement was issued last Saturday by an official of the authority to the effect that cost entailed in construction was too great.

The following story as carried in the Asheville Citizen-Times of Sunday, sets forth the facts as stated by Engineer Boek:

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 14 (Special)—Construction of a dam by the Tennessee Valley Authority on the French Broad river above Asheville is not economically justified at the present time, it was announced here today by Carl A. Boek, assistant chief engineer of the TVA.

In making the announcement, Mr. Boek said that no improvements in that region need be held up or delayed on account of the discussion of the suggested dam near Asheville.

He also said that the present North Carolina highway construction plans are entirely consistent with possible future development of reservoir sites in the French Broad region and that all highway work can proceed without delay.

Part of Statement

Mr. Boek's statement in full is as follows:

"The Tennessee Valley Authority has been importuned by many people to prepare designs for a water power dam and regulating reservoir on the French Broad just above Asheville. The topography of this site affords a natural reservoir basin which, considered from its physical aspects alone, is one of the best such sites in the Tennessee Valley. However, the preliminary data available at the present time regarding this proposed project appear to indicate that the cost of water power produced there would be so much greater than the cost of similar power produced at other locations, that we are forced to the conclusion that the construction of a dam at this site is not economically justified at the present time.

"The authority is at present having carried out a topographic survey of the whole valley and it is possible that there may ultimately be discovered one or more sites in this locality where it will be profitable at some future time to construct a hydroelectric plant or storage reservoir.

Road Plans Are Consistent

"In the meantime, no improvement of any kind need be held up or delayed on account of the discussion of the suggested Asheville dam. A conference with the North Carolina State Highway officials has developed that the present highway construction plans are entirely consistent with possible future development of reservoir sites in this region and that highway work can proceed without delay.

"The TVA will continue to keep in close touch with highway plans and other major projects that may need coordination with the best economic development of our water resources, and will continue to promote the development of these resources so far as it is able by the compilation of records of stream flow and other data and surveys."

Mr. Boek's statement was made public by W. L. Sturdevant, information director of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

STROKE IS FATAL TO LOCAL YOUNG MAN

Ernest Miller Dies Suddenly
Wednesday While Engaged at Swimming Pool

Ernest Miller, 39-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Miller, died from apoplectic stroke Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, death coming almost instantly to the popular young man while he was engaged in supervising construction work in the Brevard Municipal park.

Mr. Miller had been sitting beside Coach Ernest Tilson and Dr. Jimmie Cobb on the edge of the pool for several minutes, and had just gotten up to speak to one of the laborers when he sank to the ground.

Charles Tracy, of Miami, Florida, who has been connected with the city ambulance service there for three years, and who was in the swimming pool at the time Mr. Miller fell, applied artificial respiration to the heart, keeping the stricken man alive for several minutes but stated that in his opinion the stroke was so severe that no treatment that could have been used would have been effective in restoring life. Dr. E. S. English was immediately summoned and arrived only a few moments after Mr. Miller had passed away.

Mr. Miller has been in charge of construction work in the park here, being an experienced construction man. He was a member of the Brevard Methodist church, and took an active part in veteran's affairs, he having served 9 months overseas in the World War.

Funeral arrangements had not been made late Wednesday afternoon, but it is expected that the Masonic Order, of which Mr. Miller was an active member, will have charge.

GREENVILLE PEOPLE PLEASED WITH VISIT

Several letters have been received by Brevard officials and citizens from members of the Retail Merchants Bureau of Greenville, expressing that body's appreciation of the courtesies extended to the large group that held their annual outing in this section on Wednesday of last week.

Around 125 members of the bureau, led by a coterie of highway patrolmen and the fine Greenville municipal band visited several places of interest in the county on their trip "to the mountains," stopping at Rockbrook Camp for Girls, Camp Sapphire for Boys and in Brevard, where a band concert was given.

Following the band concert on the court house lawn the group, accompanied by several Brevard people, retired to the Franklin Hotel where an exceptionally fine banquet was served.

Major Heyward Mahon presided at the banquet and in his inimitable manner expressed the appreciation of Greenville for Brevard courtesies. Ralph H. Ramsey welcomed the Greenville people on the part of Brevard, while several other local people briefly added their welcome and invited the bureau members to return often.

LOCAL REAL ESTATE ON UPWARD TREND

New life is expected to be taken on in the real estate field in Transylvania with announcement by the Tennessee Valley Authority that the Bent Creek dam on the French Broad is not considered feasible on account of vast cost entailed.

For several months an air of uncertainty by prospective purchasers has been evident, but this is expected to be cleared out immediately and new interest taken in Transylvania properties. Judson McCrary, in the realty and insurance business here for years, stated Tuesday that he had a number of inquires already since an announcement was made Sunday by the TVA that there would be no dam built, and that he anticipates a steady increase in this line.

COACH JAMES WILL HAVE GOOD ELEVEN

Local Citizens Asked To Help
Repair Athletic Field
—To Use Cans

Ralph E. James Weaver College coach, who will direct physical education and coach the athletic teams of Brevard College when it opens this fall was in Brevard last week perfecting definite plans for the school's first football season.

With the assurance of forty candidates for his first season's grid squad already in view, Coach James foresees a promising schedule with junior college elevens. He is mapping out plans and filling his schedule card now.

Present plans indicate that the athletic field will be located near the school administration building on the site formerly used by the Brevard Institute between the intersection of French Broad street and North Broad. It will be necessary that a ditch which runs the complete length of this field be covered before it can be used as an athletic ground. James plans to thwart the situation created by a lack of funds for athletic equipment and support by piping the ditch with metal oil drums, which if properly placed will prove serviceable for from five to eight years. All supporters of the college and athletic enthusiasts are urged by Coach James to contribute oil drums for this purpose and thus keep the expense account to a minimum.

Citizens who will cooperate in this regard are urged to get in touch with college officials or Harry Patton at once.
