"GOODNESS... YOU LET THE HALL LIGHT BURN ALL NIGHT!"

1c —that's all it costs the average customer to burn a 25-watt lamp for 12½ hours. So suppose you DID forget the hall light?

That penny saved the possibility of stubbed toes, barked shins, and maybe a nasty tumble over Junior's unparked toys. And did you ever hear of a night prowler that failed to give a lighted home a wide berth?

One cent! It may not buy much in other ways. You need several of them for a newspaper or to post an out-of-town letter or for a package of chewing gum.

But—because electricity is so cheap—ONE CENT SPENT ELECTRICALLY BUYS HOURS OF SERVICE! One cent, for instance, will—furnish reading light with a 75-watt bulb more than four hours... or... spot-light your face with a 25-watt bulb for more than a month of shaves... or... brighten the card table with an indirect lamp for several rubbers of bridge.

1c Keeps A 25-Watt Lamp Lighted From Dusk To Dawn (12½ Hours)
