COLTRANE AND WEST SHOULD HAVE CREDIT

Two things the board of trustees did at their meeting at Brevard College on Tuesday that we think should have more than formal notice—praise of President E. J. Coltrane for his fine work in putting the college on its present outstanding basis, and the Rev. J. H. West for the part he played in renovation of the old dormitory.

The president, a prince of a fellow, with no money, no faculty, no equipment, started out early this spring to make a real institution of Brevard College, and proof of the type of service he rendered to the institution and this community can be seen in the large enrollment and the manner in which the college is going about its business in such a short time.

Preacher West, a fine fellow to start off with, and a good preacher at all times, doubled up on his pastoral duties, voluntarily adding the task of "keeping things on the go" in the matter of repairing the old dormitory. He was not altogether alone in this work. Several other people worked untiringly with the preacher in this work, and many donated time, money or materials, but the bulk of the organization work was done by Preacher West. Fitting indeed that the fine building should be named the Joseph H. West Hall.

SEND THE CHILDREN TO SCHOOL REGULARLY

Honor rolls and attendance records for the various schools of the county, published from time to time in The Transylvania Times, reveal that a school child who attends regularly has a very good chance of being on the honor roll in grades. These records also show that any child who is on the honor roll scholastically is almost certain to be a regular attendant in classes.

According to the old saying, "an idle mind is the devil's workshop," the school child, busy in his or her studies and with a multitude of clean, wholesome interests in and out of school, is less likely to become a wrong-doer than the child not in classes. And since it costs the state of North Carolina seven times more to keep an inmate in a juvenile reformatory than it does a child in school....

Send the children to school.... regularly.

COLLEGE MAKES EYES TOWN TOWARD BREVARD

Aside from the many other good things that Brevard College can and will do for Brevard and Transylvania, that of making the outside world "Brevard minded" is one of the major items.

In The Charlotte Observer, most widely read newspaper in the two Carolinas, of September 22, the following editorial appeared:

THE BREVARD COLLEGE

The newly-organized Brevard College was opened this week with an incoming group of 370 students and the whole town was celebrating the event. The nature of the welcome is indicated in the fact that the merchants of the town took four or five pages in The Transylvania Times in which to make the new-comers feel that they are "at home" in Brevard. As a matter of course, more students are coming in, but on the opening day ten states were represented. This being a Methodist institution that denomination leads in number of students, but the enrollment includes students from the various organizations of Baptist, Presbyterians, Lutherans, Episcopalians, Friends, Evangelical Reform, Christian, Associate Reformed and Catholic. The initial success of this institution indicates that when Brevard was decided upon as location for it, a wise choice was made. Incidentally, the successful opening of this college is typical of the opening of all other North Carolina colleges and schools this fall, and indicates that education in this state is on the upgrade.

By the way, wonder if anybody'd mind if we suggested that a few people would renew their subscriptions? Over a hundred paid last month, but we have to average around 150 if we stay right up to par.

Fine crowds at the two football games last week.... orderly, too.... and best of all, paid admissions—something new for Brevard.

WANTS BOOTLEGGERS' NAMES PUBLISHED

Suggestion was made at the meeting of the board of aldermen Monday night that it would be a good piece of work for The Times to publish the names of as many bootleggers as could be ascertained. Sounds easy, and maybe it would not be such a bad idea after all.

Nosing around as the staff of this newspaper does, it might not be such a hard task—fact is, the idea clicks pretty well, and would possibly be a help in several ways.

People who persist in getting a "bat wing" every so often, could, if the list of bootleggers were to be published each week, know just who to see about their toddy, and thereby save considerable time in their quest for a throat quencher. Then too, when some of these 16 year olds go home all lit to the gills, parents would know just about where to start looking for the guy who is low enough down to sell whiskey to youngsters. Then, too, when a stranger happened in town and wanted to partake of a little mountain dew, he could pick up the home paper, turn to his telephone and order up a drink.

Might not be such a bad idea after all.

Forgot to say anything about the one-way street via the post office last week and we saw one car going that way Friday.

Looks like we'll have a pretty good size criminal docket piled up for Judge Warlick when he comes here in December. Shooting, cutting, fighting—with three shooting scrapes already in the offing.

Take a day off Friday or Saturday and visit the county fair at Rosman.... better still, take the best off the place and enter as an exhibit.

Ladies of Brevard stand a good chance to win a cash prize for the excellent job of beautifying the court house lawn. Whether or no they get the cash, the whole county can justly be proud of the nice place we have in the center of town.

If there is any county in the state that Fire Prevention week should strike a responsive chord it is Transylvania. Our forests mean far more to us than the average county, not only as a fast depleting money crop, but as an added beauty to our mountain sides and valleys.

Where Ransom Money Went

New York—Here is how the full $50,000 of the Lindbergh ransom money is accounted for by Assistant District Attorney Edward F. Breslin:

Bruno Hauptmann's present assets, $16,000.
 Hauptmann's market losses, $7,000.
 Found in Hauptmann garage, $14,590.
 Ransom bills spent, $5,100—
 Supposed loan to Isadore Fisch, $7,500.
 The total comes to $50,000—with $190 to spare.

Move To Ease Credit

Washington—Twin moves to accelerate and expand credit for industry and real estate building were made Saturday by the government's two largest financial agencies—the treasury and the reconstruction corporation.

AT THE CLEMSON THEATRE

Will Rogers is back again Thursday and Friday of this week at the Clemson Theatre. In the picture, "Judge Priest," Rogers presides in a Kentucky court room. Stepin Fetchit, negro star who has played the stooge in many pictures, comes before Judge Priest on charges of chicken stealing. In some manner the charge against Stepin Fetchit turns into cross-examination on what he considers best fish bait. Rogers is led into matchmaking and is disqualified as judge in a trial of the father of his nephew's sweetheart and turns up in the role of attorney for the defense. The picture ends in a parade with Rogers, a preacher, and the defendant in the trial leading the line of march.

Saturday of this week Lane Chandler comes to Brevard with his "Lawless Valley," a picture that is a whirlwind of action which includes superb horsemanship, gun fanning and fist fighting. Chandler, unlike many of the "western" stars of the screen, is a westerner born and is a graduate of Montana Wesleyan university as well as being a ranch country native. An all-star supporting cast makes "Lawless Valley" one of the best westerns that has ever come to this theatre.

Monday and Tuesday, October 8th and 9th "The Count of Monte Cristo" has the spot. A cast including Elissa Landi, Sidney Blackmer and O. P. Heggie, among other recognized stars combine with a story of excellent quality and authentic background to make this picture one that should more than please the average theatre-goer. The photography is said to be excellent and the direction worthy of praise.

Wednesday and Thursday, October 10-11th, Constance Bennett and Hubert Marshall will play in "The Outcast Lady."

GLANCING BACK AT BREVARD

Taken from the files of The Sylvan Valley News, beginning 1895, through the courtesy of Mrs. W. B. F. Wright.

(From the file of June 10, 1898)

A marriage license was issued from Register English's office June 6 for R. A. Johnson and Corrie Corn, and the ceremony is reported to have occurred yesterday. This takes from D. B. F. Corn his youngest daughter and leaves his home without a girl.

The Jenkins Brothers, with their steam sawmill in Jack's cove, are making the railroad station at Blantyre look almost as much like a lumber yard as does Brevard. They are turning out some fine lumber which is destined to command a fine price.

The Brevard literary society will meet at the court house Friday evening. Subject: "Resolved that the North has produced greater men than the South." Affirmative, W. E. Breese, Jr., Rev. I. T. Newton and Luther Smith; negative, Welch Galoway, E. S. English and Robt' Breese.

S. T. Everett, of Cleveland, Ohio, arrived at his recently purchased summer home, the Lowndes place, last week, and the remainder of his family and belongings were expected on Wednesday. The cottage and out-buildings have been thoroughly renovated and painted, and an air of thrift and comfort pervades the place. A hearty welcome from our people awaits him and his.

Mrs. Allison, of Cashiers Valley, the venerable mother of John B. Allison, is spending a few weeks with her son here. She is over 80 years of age and is as pert as many at 50.

The story is told of a Washington man of family pride who met with a surprise when caught in his own tree. This man lately became possessed of the idea of constructing a family tree, feeling assured he could produce a growth that would dwarf the giants of the California forests into insignificance. He began on one branch of his family, and soon struck Miles Standish, from whom he ran various shoots and offshoots, with many a feeling of pride. With renewed interest he went to work on another branch of his growing tree, and had gone back but four generations when he was amazed to strike a great-grandfather who had died from strangulation brought on by a rope encircling his throat, his death occurring in the presence of a large gathering of curious people, who had taken a day off during harvest time in order to see the hanging. By this time the man of family pride had become intensely disgusted with genealogical investigations, but all that his friends knew of his disappointment was the fact that he remained away from the busy haunts of his fellows for several weeks, and the family physician gave out the information that he was the victim of a severe case of nervous prostration.

The following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing Masonic year by Dunn's Rock Lodge No. 267, A. F. and A. M., at its regular communication on Friday last: W. L. Hume, W. M.; J. E. Neill, S. W.; V. B. McGaha, J. W.; W. K. Osborne, treasurer, and Wm. Maxwell, secretary. The installation will take place on St. John's Day, and all members who can do so are earnestly urged to be present.

The report that McKinley will visit this section very shortly is hardly to be credited. As commander-in-chief of the army and navy his absence from headquarters during the present trouble with Spain would hardly be tolerated by the American people.

Van Whitmire is certainly making a good record as marshal. He has introduced the element of cleanliness, and the back yards in rear of our business houses are being renovated, and unsightly piles of rubbish carted away. The improvement is both noticeable and creditable to the town authorities.

Mrs. Margaret Collins, wife of J. A. Collins, died very unexpectedly at their home in the Cathey's Creek section Monday evening, of heart failure. Mrs. Collins was the daughter of Alexander Hollingsworth, of Turkey Creek, and has a large kinship among the Allisons and other prominent families of the county. She was married to Mr. Collins near the close of the late war, and eight children, all of whom are living, have come to bless the union. The burial occurred at Davidson River cemetery on Wednesday, the services being conducted by Rev. L. A. Falls.

Air Liner Escapes

Oakland, Calif.—A big air liner and a dazzling meteor flashed through the skies dangerously close to each other east of here Monday morning, giving the 13 persons in the plane a life-time thrill.

So close did the meteor come to the plane that Archie Anderson, co-pilot, who was at the controls, swerved the ship in what he thought would be an effort to dodge the flaming visitor. The plane was not damaged.
