CLINT CARTER FOUND AFTER 2-YEAR HUNT

Negro Who Made "War of His Own" Will Be Tried Here at December Court

The long arm of the law reached out after two years and two weeks, and last Tuesday afternoon brought Clint Carter, former Glade Creek negro back from South Carolina and placed him in the Transylvania county jail.

Carter will be tried at the December term of Superior court here for assault with deadly weapon with intent to kill two people. The negro was arrested near Greer, S. C., by deputies from Sheriff Tom Wood's office.

Check up on files of The Transylvania Times after Sheriff Wood had reported capture of the negro revealed that Carter was an alleged "bad man of the mountains," having taken it upon himself two years ago, election day, to shoot Canton Red, former Brevard negro athlete, through the leg and later taking a pot shot at Buster Walker, another Glade Creek negro, through the shoulder. Buckshot was used in both instances.

Carter is said to have immediately fled the scene of the shootings and had his wife to first move to Tennessee, then to Asheville, and on to Greer, S. C., where he was arrested by Deputy Tommy Wood.

At a hearing before Magistrate Henry Erwin Wednesday morning the negro was bound to court under $3,000 bond which he was unable to make. Bus Walker testified at the preliminary hearing that after Carter had shot Canton Red, he forced him (Walker) to go to his home and get his clothes. Carter changed clothes sitting on the bridge over the creek, and as he got up, Walker said Carter shot him in the shoulder with his shotgun, knocking him into the creek and after he fell into the water the negro again shot at him and missed.

NURSERY SCHOOL IS IN PRIVATE BUILDING

(CONTRIBUTED)
The unexpected has happened to the Nursery School! It has to vacate the primary building which has been condemned and will move this week into a rented private dwelling, the Johnston house on Jordan street.

The moving expenses, rent and heat will fall heavily and the teachers are showing their faith in the community by undertaking it on their own rather than lose the school which is caring for a group of 30 or more little children who greatly need the care and balanced feeding provided by the government. No other provision is made for expense, as it is expected that the community will meet that.

The rent, coal and other necessary expenses will run to $20 or more a month and if those who have manifested a good intention will come to the rescue and tide this project over this season it will be most timely and greatly appreciated. The town offers water free. There is only one heater in this house but it is hoped some one will find a way to lend another before the next hard cold weather. Certainly, we want to keep the school.

The nursery school received visits from Mrs. M. G. Scarborough, state supervisor, and Mrs. Marion Faison, state dietitian on Tuesday and it turned out to be a glad day, although it was also moving day. Mrs. Scarborough was greeted by a good group of parents and interested adults to whom she said that without hesitation Brevard was set down as an A-1 school in the state. It met the requirements of 24 or more average attendance, equipment and teaching force and had peculiar interest and cooperation.

Mrs. Scarborough also placed her seal of approval on the new home of the school on Jordan streets and feels sure the public will like it and stay with it. Mrs. Avery Galloway loaned a stove. The nursery mothers offered to turn in and help clean up. The town sent a truck and moved the school Tuesday afternoon, due to the courteous offer of Clerk Harry Patten. Mrs. Grady Kilpatrick contributed a dollar in cash. Mrs. John Kilpatrick and Mrs. A. W. Cuff sent clothing and Roy DeLong painted a sign.

Superintendent Says County Schools May Have To Stop One Month Early

An emergency in operation of the school now exists according to Superintendent G. C. Bush, that looks as if it will force the county schools to end their term one month prior to schedule or at least will stop transportation of pupils by bus, which would materially cripple the attendance. Following is a statement from the county superintendent's office:

WANT TO SELL BEST CATTLE TO FARMERS

ASHEVILLE, Nov. 19—Congressman Zeb Weaver and T. L. Gwyn, who is in charge of the FERA drouth relief cattle in Buncombe and surrounding counties, are in Washington attending a conference on the proposal to sell the best of the cattle to southern farmers instead of slaughtering them for relief depots.

For several months there has been wide-spread agitation for a scheme by which the south could exchange native scrub cattle for high-grade western stock brought south for pasture and feeding.

Long deficient in high-grade beef cattle, Western North Carolina has shown a lively interest in the proposal and when Mr. Gwyn telegraphed Congressman Weaver from Washington Thursday asking him to come to the capital for the conference with FERA officials, Mr. Weaver accepted at once.

As pointed out some weeks ago by The Asheville Citizen editorially, both the government and the south stand to benefit by such a plan according to County Agent A. W. Nesbitt, very few of the drouth relief cattle are fat enough to slaughter this winter while the native cattle are in fine shape.

The native cattle are not, on the whole, of nearly so good strain as the cattle brought from the drouth stricken states and by exchanging their fat scrub stock for the lean western cattle of the better strains now, and feeding these through the winter, southern farmers will greatly improve their beef herds and make more progress towards raising the standards of southern livestock in one year than could be made in a number of years under normal conditions.

In selecting drouth relief cattle for slaughter at the Asheville cannery, FERA officials have kept this end in view, and have slaughtered the scrub stock shipped here from the west and the poorer specimens of the blooded stock, leaving the fine cattle in the pastures for possible sale or trade to farmers in this territory.

According to Mr. Nesbitt the average quality of the drouth relief cattle is high, although the government has brought some exceedingly low-grade stock here from the west. Some of the western cattle are dairy breeds—with the quality here ranging from first class animals to scrubs also.

NEW HUNTING LAW IS NOW IN EFFECT HERE

Hunters Are "In the Dark" As To Status Under Bill of 1933 Legislature

Hunters of Transylvania county now have the privilege, under the bill as passed in the 1933 legislature, to kill any and all game found in the county, taking into consideration, of course, the fact that no license is granted to hunt on property without permit from the owner.

The laws as passed by the 1933 legislature and made applicable to this county allows taking of "game" with no restrictions as to kind. It is not known just how state regulations as to bag limit and types will apply, inasmuch as the attorney general's office ruled several months ago that the local bill was o. k.

Following is copy of the law as passed by the 1933 legislature:

"That the open season during which game may be killed in Cumberland county, Transylvania county, Harnett county and Nash county shall be from the twentieth day of November to the twentieth day of February, inclusive; provided, however, there shall be no closed season on hunting of foxes with dogs."

Under state department of Conservation and Development regulations the deer season runs from October 15 to December 15, while the quail season runs from Nov. 15 to Jan. 1.

REMODELING NEEDED IF TOWN IS TO GROW

Northern Visitor Points Out His Idea For Improvements in Brevard

Brevard doesn't make a very good first impression on visitors, according to Dr. A. D. Ballentine, of Wolfboro, New Hampshire, who spoke at the Brevard Kiwanis club last week.

The people are fine, in fact, the doctor said he had never been treated better in any town he had ever been in, but the surroundings are not in keeping with the cordiality of the people who make up the community, he said.

Need for more lights on the streets at night, remove some unsightly trash from back lots, clean up store fronts in the business section, use brighter colored paints than the black, brown and dirty white now in existence, stop folks from spitting on sidewalks, and throwing litter on the streets, are some of the things Brevard stands in need of if it is ever to make an attractive place for the visitor, the doctor asserted.

Dr. Ballentine was a guest of C. M. Douglas at the club. J. W. Williams was a guest of Coach Ralph James.

Committees were appointed to look into the matter of a Christmas tree for indigent children and a full time health officer for the county schools.
