

GLAZENER OFFERED COUNTY AGENT POST

County Commissioners Make Contract With State For County Extension Work

Position of county agent was offered Julian A. Glazener, teacher of vocational agriculture at Brevard high school by the county commissioners in meeting Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Glazener took the offer under consideration and will give the board his answer within the next few weeks.

In any event, Mr. Glazener stated at the meeting at which J. W. Goodman, district agent for State College was in consultation with the commissioners, he would be unable to assume duties of the county agent's office before the first of May, as he could not afford to break into his program of work at Brevard high school where he has nearly sixty boys enrolled in agriculture classes.

District Agent Goodman told the commissioners and a dozen or more representative farmers who attended the meeting, that he would recommend for his department, either Mr. Glazener, W. D. Smith of Haywood county, Gerald Patton of Rutherford, or G. D. White, all of whom had been asked for as agent by one or more people interested in establishment of county agent work here.

Selection of an assistant county agent will be made after a farm program has been approved by a properly constituted county-wide organization, Mr. Goodman said. This organization meeting will be held in the county court house at 1:30 on Saturday afternoon of next week, February 16th.

Mr. Glazener told the commissioners that his hesitancy in accepting the work was due in part to the fact that several people had told him that they would like to have Gerald Patton of Rutherford county, and that knowing the work Mr. Patton had done in Rutherford and the fine type of man he was, he would not consider taking the work until after Mr. Patton had been offered the place. However, he stated, it was not because of his lack of interest in farming and progress of the county that he refrained from at once accepting the place offered him by the board. Several of the farmers present joined with the commissioners in asking the district agent to give his o. k. of Glazener for the job, and Mr. Goodman stated that so far as he and his department was concerned, they would prefer having the Brevard man take the place.

Salary of the county agent is set at $2,400 per year and travel expense. One-half of the salary is paid by the county, with the state paying one-half of the salary and all the travel expense. In the matter of the assistant county agent or TVA supervisor, the state and federal government take care of all his salary and expenses.

Among those attending the meeting Tuesday afternoon in addition to the commissioners were Porter Morgan, M. O. McCall, E. Carl Allison, E. R. Galloway, V. B. Waldrop, Gaston Whitmore, Mayor J. C. Wike, W. E. Brees, Julian Glazener, Jerry Jerome, Randall Lyday, J. B. Jones and C. M. Douglas.

Brevard Golf Course May Be Run By Town

Effort is being made by interested citizens to have the town of Brevard take over operation of the Brevard Golf course for the season, providing necessary repairs and construction work can be procured through the FERA.

It is pointed out that practically all expense of getting the course in shape would be for labor, and that this can very probably be arranged through the local FERA offices. Expense of operating the course during the summer will be taken care of by green fees, hence there will be no actual expense to the town in operation.

In bringing the matter to attention of the city officials, proponents of the idea of city operation of the golf course point out that maintenance of the course is vitally necessary to a tourist town, and that only through municipal operation can work for the project be secured through the FERA.

Commissioners Trying To Build Fair Grounds

Effort is being made by the board of county commissioners to secure funds through the Federal Emergency Relief or allied setup for erection of suitable buildings and doing necessary work on fair grounds for the county.

The county owns an ideal plot of land for construction of a fair ground at the County Farm, and this is also practically in the center of the county, adding to its value for such purposes.

Marine Picture To Be At Clemson Theater

Bob Steele in "Tombstone Terror" will be shown at the Clemson Friday and Saturday of this week. The plot shows Bob, as Jimmy Nixon, chased by Mexicans over the border, escaping by a ruse which succeeds, but leaves him horseless in the desert to trudge a weary way to the nearest ranch, which happens to be owned by his father. Apart from its decisive thrills, the picture depicts human interest, romantic appeal, comedy and plenty of laughs.

"Devil Dogs of the Air," with James Cagney and Pat O'Brien, will be the screen feature for Monday and Tuesday. The complete cooperation of the United States marine corps has made it possible to provide this production with nearly a billion dollars worth of authentic equipment and gives the screen the marines' fearless flying forces for the first time. Daring airplane stunts will be shown in a laugh-packed thriller of the fighting corps of Uncle Sam's leathernecks in action, with just the proper romance thrown in for good measure.

FISH HATCHERY AIM LOCAL KIWANIANS

Town and County Cooperating In Move To Have Plant Built Near Brevard

Chamber of Commerce work and securing of the federal fish hatchery were chief matters of interest taken up at the meeting of Brevard Kiwanis club last Thursday.

W. D. Gash, chairman of the club's public affairs committee, together with Harry Patton and Pat Kinzey were appointed by President Jerry Jerome to go into the matter and report at the next meeting of the club.

Official correspondence from the club to Congressman Zeb Weaver was read by Mr. Jerome in which attention was called to the fact that a bill was passed in the 1932 session of congress appropriating money for building a hatchery in the Pisgah National Forest in 1935, and stressing the fact that an engineer sent into the national forest by the federal bureau of fisheries had checked the Grogan's Creek site and found it ideal in every respect for operation of a hatchery and rearing pools.

It was decision of the club that a Brevard representative should be sent to Washington to confer with Congressman Weaver and Senator Reynolds in regard to erection of the hatchery in this section. Mr. Jerome was asked by the club to take up the matter of defraying expense of the representative with the town board and such other people as were interested. The aldermen in meeting Monday night of this week voted to pay a part of the expense, and the commissioners in meeting Tuesday afternoon also agreed to help out in the matter. It is expected that County Attorney W. E. Brees will go to Washington within a few days for conference with officials.

More People Employed Here Than In Peak Season of Nineteen-Twenty-Nine

"We have more people employed at present than at any time during the peak season of 1929," was the reply of Jos. S. Silversteen, head of the county's largest block of industries when questioned as to business conditions.

The Transylvania Tanning company and Transylvania Leather and Belting plants at Brevard, the Toxaway Tanning company, Gloucester Lumber company, and Rosman Tanning Extract company at Rosman are all on full time, with a complete crew at each plant.

In addition to the employees in the several plants under the management of Mr. Silversteen, there are also a large number of men employed in the work of getting out logs, extract timber and bark.

Products of the Silversteen plants are shipped to all parts of the country, while much of the leather produced at the Transylvania Tanning company is utilized by the finishing plant in manufacturing leather for belting of all grades as well as leather for the textile industry.

The Galloway bill becoming effective December first, 1934.

TWENTY BUILDINGS HERE 50 YEARS AGO

Two Stores and Two Boarding Houses—Wells Used For City Water Supply

Fifty years ago Brevard was a thriving city with a total of twenty residences, according to Frank Jenkins, and as a trading center boasted two mercantile establishments that carried most anything from horse shoe nails to silk brocade and musical instruments.

The hall of justice was a wooden affair located where the Macfie Drug store now stands. Mr. Jenkins says in his reminiscence of the "good old days," the block where the Waltemire is now located being a grove of trees and shrubbery native to this country.

The water system for the town was a town well with an accommodating bucket that had only to be let down into the well and drawn up in order to get a fresh drink of water. Of course, most of the twenty residences had wells on the premises.

For hotel accommodations there were the well known Gash House and the Henning Inn, both of which were noted for their hospitality of the real southern brand and the good food they served.

No barrooms graced, or disgraced the town, as the case might have been, Mr. Jenkins remembers, and there were very few drunk people—partly due to the fact that the population was less than it is now by quite a number, and the further fact that local option did not permit whiskey to be sold within a certain distance of any regularly constituted church, hence the closest barroom was on the Greenville road about where the city limits now extend to, and the sidewalks were not nearly so nice as they now are.

As best his memory serves him, Mr. Jenkins gives the following as the complete roster of dwelling houses:

WILL ORGANIZE TVA UNIT IN THIS COUNTY

Supervised Farm Practices Is One Aim—Federal Funds To Pay Expenses

Organization of a TVA farm unit for Transylvania county will be perfected at a meeting of farmers and business men to be held in the county court house on Saturday afternoon of next week, Feb. 16.

Under the plan that has been adopted in some of the other counties of this section of the state which have set up similar organizations during the past few days, a program of farm practices as best suited for the community is outlined, and organization of community groups to further these plans is also done. One farm in each community is selected by vote of the farmers as a demonstration or test farm, and a supervisor furnished for these projects by the Tennessee Valley authority, which is interested in furthering farm rehabilitation, soil erosion and reforestation in all sections which are located on headwaters of the Tennessee river.

All costs of supervision are underwritten by the TVA, it is explained, the supervisor working with and under the county agent. It is absolutely necessary that this organization be perfected before the county can benefit under the TVA plan, it was explained here Tuesday by District Agent Goodman.
