NOTED VIOLINIST TO GIVE RECITAL HERE

Mark Wollmer to Appear Saturday Evening at College Auditorium

Mark Wollmer, NBC concert violinist, will present a program in the Brevard College auditorium Saturday night, April 27 at 8 o'clock. Mr. Wollmer made his American debut in Town Hall, New York City, in 1929, at which time he received a contract from National Broadcasting company. The artist has been heard regularly from WEAJ on the International Music programs sponsored by NBC and announced by Milton J. Cross. For two years Mr. Wollmer has given weekly concerts at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York. Last week he gave a concert under the auspices of the Pan-American Union and Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D. C. Last September he played Mozart's A Major in Concerto with the accompaniment of the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra.

Wollmer, a German by birth, received his musical education in France and is, as Le Matin says, a brilliant representative of the modern French school of violin, having been a pupil of the famous J. Thibaud at the Ecole Normale and Bauchereil at the Conservatoire de Paris. He is also a composer of violin and piano music. Wollmer's concerts in Paris were received with the greatest enthusiasm, followed by numerous engagements by the American colonies of Paris, Deauville and Monte Carlo. Following an extended tour through Europe, Central and South America, he was acclaimed as the coming outstanding master violinist of this generation.

The following comments appeared in the leading New York papers: Herald Tribune: "unusually brilliant;" World Telegram: "assurance and authority, won the enthusiasm of his hearers by his poetic feeling, his clean and sensitive phrasing, his smooth and unruffled tone;" Morning Telegraph: "A great artist, fine emotional understanding;" New York American: "his playing has dash, fire and poise."

The public is cordially invited to attend.
