

LYDAY HOSPITAL TO CARE FOR CCC BOYS

Local Institution Given Recognition By Officers of United States Army

Lyday Memorial hospital has been given official o. k. by surgeons of the fourth corps area United States Army, and is now taking care of patients for the three CCC camps in this immediate section of Western North Carolina.

Inspection of the local institution was made this week by surgeons of the army staff, and report of the medical officers after checking over the hospital, equipment and records was very favorable. Contract was immediately entered into, and the hospital is now being used by the army for its CCC enrollees at Gloucester, John's Rock and Mills River.

Patients from these camps were formerly carried to Atlanta, Ga., and Oteen hospital at Asheville for treatment and surgical attention, and the fact that the United States Army has given the local institution preference is regarded as a great boost for the manner in which the Lyday Memorial is conducted.

Facilities of the hospital have been enlarged within the past few days, contract of the army calling for a guarantee of 24 available beds at all times for use of the CCC camps.

At a meeting of the trustees held last Thursday, financial report submitted by the treasurer of the hospital was to the effect that the financial condition of the unit was the best it has been since the hospital was opened three years ago, with a surplus reported despite the fact that the hospital gave 753 free days to indigent patients during the year just ended.

Contribution toward expense of operating the hospital is made annually by the Duke Foundation, this amount being varied in keeping with the number of charity patients admitted.

Many S. C. Campers Are In This County

Nearly five hundred South Carolina boys and girls will be camping in Transylvania county by the first of next week, the first group arriving at the camp on T. J. Wilson's property last week.

The following item is taken from Sunday's Greenville News in regard to camping in Transylvania by South Carolina groups:

The camping list will be further swelled on July 1 the following Monday, when 200 boys enter Camp Greenville, the Y. M. C. A. camp on top of the Blue ridge. The Y. M. C. A. camp is the largest of four operated by Greenville organizations and annually attracts boys from as many as 10 or 12 southern states.

W. B. (Monk) Mulligan is director of Camp Greenville, M. G. Boswell is director of the Boy Scout camp, Miss Edith Lawton is director of the Girl Scout camp, and Miss Ethel Simpson is director of Camp Burgess Glenn.

AT THE CLEMSON THEATRE

"Charlie Chan in Egypt," with Warner Oland will be shown at the Clemson theatre Friday and Saturday of this week. For sheer suspense and ingenuity the newest of Charlie Chan mysteries tops all its predecessors and Oland once more registers heavily in this most celebrated role.

"Pat" Paterson gives unusual support to Warner Oland and Stepin Fetchit creates many comic situations.

On Monday and Tuesday of next week "Calm Yourself," with Robert Young and Madge Evans will be the picture of how embarrassed he was when he found himself engaged to one girl and in love with another. Out of a job, but what of it! He had a brand new idea—to do other people's embarrassing jobs for them, but love was one job he was a flop at. Something new in fun fests.

ULYSSES ENGLISH IS AUTO WRECK VICTIM

Will Moore, Negro, Freed of All Blame In Connection With Accident

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon for Ulysses English, 20-year-old son of Robert J. English, who was fatally injured in an automobile wreck late Saturday night in Brevard.

A coroner's jury held Tuesday that young English came to his death from wounds received in an automobile wreck which was his own fault, and found that Will Moore, who was being held pending the hearing, be free of all blame.

Witnesses at the hearing testified that the wreck happened at crossing of Oakdale and South Caldwell streets about ten o'clock Saturday night. Testimony showed that the negro had driven his car into Caldwell and was half or more over the center of the street and had started up the street on the right side when the English car traveling at a high rate of speed cut to the left, struck the Moore car in a glancing manner and turned over completely several times, landing on its wheels a hundred feet down the street.

Young English was taken from the car, and doctors called, but was so crushed about the head and body that death was almost instantaneous. Witnesses examined at the inquest included Glenn Shipman, Marshall Loftis and Leon Scruggs, who saw the wreck; Jeff Lance, Tom Cantrell, Guy Mull, Special Policeman Eck Sims, and Dan W. Merrill. Coroner C. S. Osborne had as jurors W. A. Wilson, J. E. Loftis, George Shuford, Dr. G. B. Lynch, A. E. Hampton and Lem Brooks. W. E. Breese appeared at the hearing for Moore with Judge D. L. English appearing for the state.

Funeral services were held at English Chapel in Pisgah National Forest with Rev. Will Warren, pastor, in charge. Interment was made in the Oak Grove cemetery, North Brevard. Pallbearers were Orville Simpson, Bill Nicholson, Jess Owen, Albert Liverett, James Mills, Henry McCall. Flower girls were Reba Nicholson, Josephine Bryson, Dovie Scruggs, Frances Bryson, Blanche Hamlin, Mary Barnette. Kilpatrick Funeral home had charge of arrangements.

Two Counties Go Wet By Ten To One Vote

Wilson and Edgecombe counties voted nearly ten to one in favor of repealing the eighteenth amendment last Saturday, with plans being made to open liquor stores there the last of this week.

Fifteen other counties in the eastern part of the state will vote on the liquor question, with four elections to be held on Saturday of this week, and others before July 10.

Cale K. Burgess, leader of the North Carolina dry forces, is making an appeal to people in all counties of the state for funds with which to fight the wets, requesting that people in Transylvania make donations at once, direct to his office in Raleigh or to Rev. J. K. Henderson or A. E. Hampton at Brevard.

Rabies Vaccination Law To Be Enforced

It is expected that the county commissioners will take steps Monday to set up machinery for enforcement of the new state laws requiring anti-rabies vaccination of dogs and contagious abortion tests for cattle.

The new dog law as passed by the 1935 legislature requires all dogs over six months of age be vaccinated either by township inspectors or by private veterinarians. The dogs must be vaccinated every year, the state law sets out.

Penalty provided in the law for interfering with the provisions of the act is a fine of $10 to $50 or 30 days in prison. All rabid dogs will be killed, and any unvaccinated dogs found running at large, after a reasonable time after the vaccination period has been set, will be killed, the law provides.

There seems to be quite a bit of opposition in this county to the law, but it is mandatory that the commissioners set up the enforcement organization and carry out the provisions of the bill.

Many matters of interest are scheduled to come up at the regular first Monday meeting of the board of commissioners to be held here next Monday.

Tentative budget for the 1935-36 levy will be presented to the board by County Accountant Ralph Lyday, and will require considerable attention of the board.

The matter of cooperating in a health unit composed of Henderson and Transylvania counties, and supplemented by state and federal funds will probably be further discussed, the matter having been taken up at a previous meeting of the board.

Anti-rabies vaccination for dogs as provided under the 1935 legislature's bill, and other matters will be before the board for consideration.

Lazy People Caused Lengthy Legislature Says Senator Ramsey

The legislature really worked only three and one half days per week, and consequently spent much more time in the 1935 session than was necessary, Senator Ralph H. Ramsey told the Brevard Kiwanis club in meeting last Thursday.

Senator Ramsey said that it was the usual custom for legislators of the eastern section to go home on Fridays and return to Raleigh on Mondays, with only a brief session of the two bodies being held on Saturday mornings for passage of strictly local bills by a handful of men, mostly from the western part of the state who remained in the capitol over the week-end. Few sessions were held on Mondays, the senator said, making for a long-drawn out session.

Eastern representatives and senators are in the majority in both houses, Mr. Ramsey said, hence there was no such thing as overriding them when such a matter as passing rules came up.

Two thousand one hundred sixty Ellis went through the hopper of the legislature during the session, and naturally considerable time was required. Length of the session could have been cut at least one-third, in the opinion of Senator Ramsey had the fellows all had a mind to work at their job.

Pasture Meet Will Be Held On Monday

(By J. A. Glazener, Co. Agt.)

F. R. Farnham, one of the North Carolina Extension specialists, will spend next Tuesday and Wednesday with the county agent in assisting with the trench silo and pasture program.

In order to give more of the farmers an opportunity to discuss feed questions with Mr. Farnham, a meeting will be held in the assembly room of the county agent's office next Tuesday evening, July 2, at 8 o'clock. I realize it is a very busy time but I also realize that the time to start some good pastures in the county is here and that a great number of farmers are interested in the pasture program for Transylvania county. Farmers, may I urge you to stop just a little early Tuesday evening and come to the meeting and lend a helping hand in this great and important piece of work which will mean much to the progress of our county.

Nothing Official On Pisgah Forest Road

No official word has been received in Brevard concerning the contract for building a five-mile stretch of the Pisgah National Forest highway, designated as No. 284.

Contract for the short stretch in the 14-mile project was let several weeks ago by the state highway commission, the contract refused by the low bidder, and again let three weeks later, bid off again by the same company at a much higher figure, and no word as to when work will start.

Brevard and Transylvania county residents are wondering just when this important link will be let, and work started. First survey was made a year ago, next survey several months later, and various changes at odd times since the second survey.

TVA FARM PROGRAM MAY EXPAND HERE

Land Owners May Get Federal Aid In Carrying Out Stipulated Work

(By J. A. Glazener, Co. Agt.)

At a meeting held in the assembly room of the county agent's office Monday afternoon R. W. Shofner, farm management supervisor for the TVA in Western North Carolina, and L. B. Altman, district agent, explained to the 30 or more farmers present the plan of expanding the TVA farm program in Transylvania.

There is a possibility of having a great number of TVA demonstration farms in the county provided the farmers are interested to the extent that they will make farm plans and request that their farms be made demonstration farms.

Farmers in the different communities who are interested in taking advantage of the opportunity now offered them, would do well to begin right now to make rough drawings of their farms. These drawings should show the general outline of the farm and the different fields with the present crops, and crops desired along with the present pasture and future pasture plans. To make a long story short simply give your crop rotation for the different fields along with pasture improvement. These plans will first be acted upon by the already elected local committee and then on down the line until passed or refused by the TVA officials.

It seems to me that the farmers now have one of the greatest opportunities ever offered in this county to get assistance in developing pastures, crop rotations, soil building and soil conservation. I truly hope that a great number will avail themselves of this opportunity.

TVA Dam Will Not Be Built On The French Broad River--Morgan

Erection of a dam on the French Broad river in the Western North Carolina area is not contemplated by the Tennessee Valley Authority within the next few years, according to a statement issued from Washington last week.

Funds for construction of a dam in the Nantahala section, known as the Hiwassee project, were cut from the allocation for the fiscal year, and in the hearing on this project the statement was made that the French Broad dam was not in the program for two or three years.

WASHINGTON, June 25—North Carolina's chance of becoming an active part of the Tennessee Valley Authority program at an immediate date was wrecked last Thursday when the house appropriations committee struck from the TVA appropriation a $6,500,000 item for getting under way this year construction of the Hiwassee dam.

The budget bureau approved the allocation for the Hiwassee dam, the estimated total cost of which is $12,000,000, and Chairman Arthur E. Morgan of the TVA, urged it when he appeared before the house appropriations committee considering the second deficiency appropriation bill. He said it was essential to flood control and after the dam was constructed power units would be installed as the market for power in that section developed.

Chairman Morgan also told the committee that study had been made of the French Broad river and a dam on this stream is not in the program for the next two or three years.

Brevard Is Mentioned For Federal Building

Hopes for a new post office building for Brevard were raised last week when official announcement was made from Washington by the house appropriations committee that Brevard was one of twenty towns in North Carolina on the list submitted by the committee to the postmaster general and secretary of treasury for study as to necessity and comparative urgency.

Interested citizens of Brevard and public officials of the county have been working for some time through Congressman Zeh Weaver in an effort to secure a federal building here for the postoffice.

Tentative offer of the Brevard Bank building has been made by the county commissioner to the government for use as a postoffice, this building now being owned by the county, and regarded as an ideal site for the postoffice.
