

TEACHER TRAINING SCHOOL WILL OPEN HERE AUGUST 26TH

Hundred Women To Be Given Four Weeks' Instruction At Brevard College

Officials of Brevard College have just closed an arrangement with C. E. McIntosh, director of the National Youth Administration for North Carolina, whereby one of the four schools for the training of teachers for community schools will be held at the college beginning Monday, August 26 and continuing through Saturday, September 21.

Mr. McIntosh has indicated to President E. J. Coltrane that approximately 110 teachers will attend this school to Brevard College arrangements were made to close the summer school Saturday, August 24. It was necessary also to change the opening date for the fall quarter of the regular college year from September 16 to September 23rd.

The National Youth Administration is being directed by Aubrey Williams from the Washington office. It is a part of the movement launched by President Roosevelt and is in direct line with the efforts made by the National Administration to provide various types of relief projects. The teachers being brought to Brevard College will be trained in the organization and conduct of community schools for adults. These community schools have been in operation for the past several months. They will now assume somewhat different direction. The first move in the new organization will be the training of teachers. A similar school for white teachers will be held in Eastern North Carolina at a point in Craven County. There will be two schools for negro teachers in different parts of the state.

College officials are elated at the prospect of having this school in Brevard College. Mr. McIntosh made a visit to Brevard College in April and was quite pleased with the spirit and plan of the institution.

Milan Nicholson Is Hit By Stray Bullet

Milan Nicholson, employe of the Citizens Telephone company, was shot in the chest Monday morning at eight o'clock by a stray .22 calibre bullet.

Nicholson was working near the plant of Brevard laundry when the bullet struck him and he was immediately taken to the office of Dr. H. J. Bradley, where examination disclosed that the bullet had struck the man in the chest, ranged to the right and imbedded in a muscle between the ribs. After receiving treatment Nicholson was allowed to return to his home, and reports Wednesday were that his condition was very good.

Chief of Police B. H. Freeman, who is investigating the affair, states that C. E. Tinsley, Jr., admitted that he had been shooting a rifle a couple of hundred yards away about eight o'clock, and it is believed that the ball which struck Nicholson was fired from his gun.

Careless Gun Toting

Gerald Sitton, city mail carrier, reported Wednesday morning that he was struck by stray shot while working at his home on Maple street late Tuesday afternoon. While not painfully injured, Mr. Sitton states that he would just as leave people quit shooting firearms around his home.

College To Open Fall Term Sept. 21 With Enrollment of Four Hundred

The opening of Brevard College for the fall quarter has been changed to September 21. As indicated elsewhere in this paper, this change became necessary because of the school to be conducted at Brevard College under the direction of the National Youth Administration. Present indications are that the college will be filled to capacity.

Arrangements have been made to accommodate 275 students in the dormitories, and President Coltrane has just announced that applications at the present time run well beyond 350, and they are coming in daily. With the large number of day students expected from the Brevard, Rosman, Etowah and Mills River high schools, the enrollment should go well beyond 400. Last year the enrollment was 402. The high school department of the college has been abolished and all students entering this year will be classed as college students.

A new arrangement in the college provides that students who carry business subjects, like typewriting, shorthand, bookkeeping and commercial law, will receive credit on such courses toward graduation. This will mean that students can receive a diploma from the college and likewise prepare themselves for commercial positions by spending two years in the institution. Those who take the commercial courses without

Verner Develops New Blight Proof Tomato

A new tomato was brought to The Times office this week by S. P. Verner, grown by him in his garden. Five red ripe tomatoes, all of uniformly large size, are growing on the same stem.

The tomato has been named the Olive Dargan variety, in honor of the noted authoress who has just completed her latest book. Mr. Verner has developed his variety of tomato to over a period of years, and has perfected it to a high stage of blight and rust proof.

Listing With County Agent Pays Farmers

Farmers of the county who have large crops of cabbage, beans or other like produce to sell, would do well to list same with the county agent's office.

This fact was clearly demonstrated Monday when a truck driver came through the county Monday morning, spent over two hours in the county looking for a load of cabbage, and failing to find what he wanted drove into Henderson county, and again failed to make contact.

From Georgia, the trucker came through Brevard after going into Henderson county, and decided to make one more trial. He asked someone he chanced to meet on the streets just who would be apt to know where a load of cabbage could be found, and was referred to the county agent's office.

In a short while the man had a whole truck load of cabbage, had contracted for another load for Thursday and was on his way to Cracker State after leaving a neat sum of money with the cabbage grower.

One of the functions of the county agent's office is marketing, and farmers will do well to remember this.

Work Starts On Highway 284 Thursday Morning of This Week

Contract has been given official o. k., and workmen are starting on the five-mile Looking Glass stretch of highway 284 Thursday morning of this week.

J. C. Grice, resident engineer for the state highway department with offices in Brevard, stated Wednesday that he would start work Thursday morning with his force and that additional men from the engineering department were being assigned to him in order that the work may be speeded up.

Thomas McWeekins, who will be in charge of bridge construction for the Rickenbacker Construction company on the project, has already moved to Brevard and is now residing on Broad street. He expects to start his crews as early as possible, and is now engaged in erecting tool sheds and making other preparations for the bridge work. The bridges were let to Rickenbacker on bid for $50,391.50.

The W. H. Anderson Construction company, of Asheville, was awarded the contract for building the five-mile stretch of roadway through the Looking Glass section, and they expect to start work as soon as they can transfer machinery and equipment to the job. The contract calls for starting work within twenty days after final execution, but it is expected that the work will be started before the time limit expires. The Anderson company is completing a job in the Rocky Mountains National Park, which is said to be the largest single road contract ever let in North Carolina. The road contract calls for $131,263.00, exclusive of bridges.

Local labor will be used on the job, with supervision being furnished by the contractors.

Ethiopia Is Favored By Brevard Residents

A checkup of sentiment pro and con in the Ethiopia-Italy situation here this week reveals the fact that 17 out of 22 persons contacted are sympathetic toward the Ethiopian cause.

Two of the number casually contacted in a manner that led them out without revealing that a consensus of opinion was being sought, were for Italy for the simple reason that "nigger" did not appeal to them in any sense of the word, and the other three were undecided in their views as to who was the real aggressor in the original flare-up and clash between troops of the two countries in December of last year, and around which the present near struggle is pending.

Most of those contacted also expressed the belief that Italy would be badly fooled as to actual strength of the Ethiopians, taking into consideration the natural terrain of the land.

Sugar Sack Dresses New Fad In Brevard

Utilization, beauty and economy are all contained in the new dress fad that is making its appearance in Brevard, with sugar sacks playing most important role.

Plan is to take three or four sugar sacks, as the size may require, boil them out with a lye solution to take the printed letters off, bleach, press and cut out as a seamstress would any dress.

Several girls in Brevard are wearing the dresses, and they are drawing very favorable comment.

It is very probable that someone will soon "go the gang one better" and strut down the street with a dress decorated with "Dixie Crystals, the sweet sugar," conspicuously showing, as this brand of sugar seems to be selling pretty good here.

Autos Take Big Toll Of Life In Carolina

North Carolina has the highest average auto death rate per one thousand population of any state in the union, members of the Brevard Kiwanis club were told by Mrs. Carl McCrary at the meeting last Thursday.

Just whose fault this sad state of affairs is, Mrs. McCrary said, must be either the law enforcement agencies, the public, or both. Safeguards for the motorists have been provided for in legislation, the speaker emphasized, yet there seems to be a laxness on the part of the citizenry in general toward enforcement of laws and assistance rendered to officers in prosecution of violators.

Lieut. A. P. Nesbitt, commander of NC P-66 CCC unit was a guest of Brown Carr at the meeting. Ike Salm and W. M. Shear of Evansville, Ind., were visiting Kiwanians.

Price, and report on cooperative program and discussion of the mission and benevolent work by Rev. J. E. Burt. The afternoon session closed with an address on Christian stewardship by R. H. Ramsey Jr.

An interesting program was given by the young people at the Wednesday evening service, with Karl Bosse, leader in charge, assisted by members of the different unions of the association.

Featuring Thursday morning's session will be a talk by L. P. Hamilton on Fruitland Institute, discussion of women's work, Mrs. Eli Huggins and miscellaneous business. The afternoon's program, following dinner, will include a report on the Sunday schools by D. H. Orr and report on temperance and public morals by Rev. J. K. Henderson. Annual Dahlia Show To Be Staged In Brevard August 24—Prize List Given

Plans are being completed this week for staging the annual dahlia show here on Saturday, August 24, when several hundred growers from Transylvania and other sections will have their best on exhibit.

Arrangements are being made to care for large individual exhibits and for the grower who has only one specimen. Those who expect to enter a large exhibit are requested to notify officials of the club several days in advance so that proper accommodations may be arranged.

The large Harris building on West Main street has again been secured for the show, this being one of the most suitable places in the town for the event. Plenty of room and plenty of light with a large glass front all add to the appropriateness of the location.

The dahlia show is one of the major attractions offered here each year, and draws people from many sections, some of whom enter dahlias in the professional classes.

Competition for prizes and ribbons is open in three classes, including—Section A, open to all exhibitors; section B, open to anyone in the county; section C, for those who have exhibited little, if any, before in flower shows. BUILDING PROJECTS OF USEFUL NATURE TO BE SUBMITTED

Secondary Roads First WPA Projects—Streets and School Building

Chairman W. L. Aiken of the county commissioners stated Tuesday that it was intent of the board to make up projects covering repair work on the court house, new plumbing in the county jail, and possibly other needed construction and repairs on county buildings, at once.

The commissioners have been in consultation with Ernest H. Webb, district highway engineer, in regard to several road projects in the county, and Mr. Webb assured the board members that he stood ready to render any assistance possible in the working out of secondary roads in the county. All road work will be under the direct supervision of Mr. Webb's office, with the federal government paying for all labor and major part of the materials used, and the state furnishing the equipment.

The board of aldermen is making plans to do considerable sewer work, laying of the North Broad street sidewalk, and other street work under the WPA setup, with possibly other projects to be asked for later.

Superintendent J. B. Jones is having estimates and plans forwarded for approval for construction of a unit of the Brevard elementary schools to displace the old "white" building on the corner of Caldwell and Morgan streets, which has been condemned.

WPA Director W. E. Breese states that his office is anxious that some work be started immediately in order to furnish employment to local people and at the same time provide projects of lasting and beneficial nature to the county.

A meeting will be held in Asheville Friday afternoon at which time officials of counties, towns, and public spirited citizens are expected to attend. A general discussion of projects which could and should be started will be held at this time.
