SEEKING LOCATION FOR MAIL SERVICE

Postoffice Department Asks Bids on Building For Local Office

The federal government is seeking location for the Brevard postoffice effective May 12, of 1936, according to a bulletin received by The Times through Postmaster T. C. Galloway here.

The office has been located in the Lawrence building on Jordan street for ten or more years, but it is known that numerous complaints have gone into the department, asking that the office be moved to a more suitable location, some of the complainants that have been heard to discuss the matter here stating that the office is hard to get to by reason of the narrow street on which it is located, and the further fact that there is not adequate adjacent parking space.

Following is the bulletin received from the department:

Little River People Are Using Library

The Little River Community Library has taken on new life with the opening of the public school. When the library is open on Friday, from 2 to 5, the school children go down in squads to change their books so as not to overcrowd the room.

A nice gift of 51 books came in from Mrs. Jesse Allen of Piedmont, S. C. She was interested through her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Flora Allen, who is a member of the club which conducts the library. Madame Allen also gave the first dollar toward a community house to house the library which is now in the home of Mrs. Roscoe McCall, who acts as librarian.

For the winter months so as to give the school children better service the Misses Louie George, Amelia Merrill, Gladys Shipman and Dola McCrary are helping Mrs. McCall. The Woman's Civic club, Mrs. Wake Kilpatrick, president, had its first meeting for the season on the 19th. The program was planning for the year's work and so enthusiastic were the members that all of the time was taken up in the discussion. Plans for the library's growth took up a greater part of the planning.

Annual Celebration To Be Held Sunday

The annual celebration of Davidson River Day will be held on next Sunday, September 29 on Davidson River, at the old Davidson River church.

It will be noted that this is one week earlier than in the past. Last year the date was changed from the first Sunday in October to the last Sunday in September, advancing the date one week.

It is needless to tell the people of Transylvania county about this long observed event, the home coming day of Brevard-Davidson River Presbyterian church, together with the friends and relatives of the members of this congregation. Suffice it to say that the services begin at eleven o'clock, and include the usual Davidson River day picnic dinner at noon.

College Is Chief In President's Life

PRESIDENT E. J. COLTRANE is highly pleased with the enrollment of Brevard College which opened for its second term Monday morning.

Twelve, fifteen, and oftentimes up to twenty hours per day has been the schedule of President Coltrane since his election as head of the college on March 5th of last year, and with the cooperation of his splendid corps of assistants and work of friends of the college in many sections, he has been able to see fruits of his labors surpass even the most optimistic expectations.

Three hundred and fifty boarding students, overtaxing the dormitory space and necessitating the utilization of the Wallis Home and Virginia Lodge, have entered the college this year. With the additional day students that are reporting to the college this week for admission it is believed that the high mark of 450 or more will be attained.

President Coltrane is widely known as an educator of note, and prior to his selection as president of the college here was connected with the national committee on education with headquarters in Washington. He has served as president of the North Carolina Education association, and has otherwise been active in state and national affairs pertaining to education.

Since coming to Brevard, President Coltrane has taken a very active part in community and church affairs, and is now president of the Brevard Chamber of Commerce, a director in the Kwanis Club and a member of the board of stewards of the Brevard Methodist church.

Mr. Coltrane was educated in the Randolph County schools and graduated from Guilford college in 1907. He obtained his M. A. degree at Columbia university in 1925, and also did graduate work at Cornell, Harvard, Virginia and North Carolina universities.

He was superintendent of the Randolph county school system from 1907 to 1910 and principal of Jamestown high school from 1910 to 1919. He also has taught in the summer schools of the North Carolina College for women, Duke University, and Catawba College.

Football Games To Hold Center of Stage For Brevard Fans This Week

Coach Ernest Tilson's crack football eleven will play its first game of the season here Friday afternoon at three-thirty with Bryson City high school coming to Brevard for the event.

Two weeks of hard training has been given the local squad, nearly thirty strong, by Coach Tilson in effort to get the boys in shape for the first game, and observers are of the opinion that the 1935 aggregation is by far the best team Brevard high has had in several years.

Coach Tilson has not announced who his starting line-up will be composed of, with more than two teams ready for the fray.

Tickets will go on sale Thursday for the game, with student tickets selling at a dime and adult at twenty-five cents. Season tickets, calling for five home games, are also on sale for $1.00 each, and several fans who are also supporters of the crack eleven have already made their purchase.

Notorious Outlaw Shoots Way To Freedom From Transylvania Home

Ray Bailey, notorious outlaw, shot his way to freedom Sunday night, leaving in his wake a second South Carolina victim of his gunfire.

Surrounded while he lay sleeping in the home of Anderson Chandler of the Bohawey section of upper Transylvania, the desperado who is wanted for the slaying with a machine gun of Policeman A. B. Hunt of Greenville in 1932, did not bandy words when officers attempted to enter the house in which he was sleeping, but instead opened fire with automatic pistols, one of the shells shattering the wrist of Deputy Sheriff C. A. Batson, of Greenville county, and as officers returned his fire fled through the back door of the Chandler home, ran the gauntlet of shotgun and pistol fire and escaped through the dense wood surrounding the place where he is reputed to have been hiding out for some time.

Tipped off to the fact that Bailey was at the Chandler home, Sheriff Wood notified Greenville officers, and accompanied by seven men went to the house where he was reported to be stopping. Arriving about one o'clock in the night, Sheriff Wood divided his party, some of the men going to the rear of the two-room shack while the sheriff knocked on the front door and called to the inmates.

While Chandler was making as if to open the front door Bailey turned a barrage of pistol fire through a window at the front of the house toward the officers. Deputy Sheriff Batson, struck in the left arm, manipulated his sub-machine gun with his right hand and sent a full-salvo of shots in the direction from whence the pistol fire was coming.

Officers stationed at the rear of the house dashed around the building, thinking that Bailey was standing battle, but the wary fugitive had evidently contemplated just such a move and broke through the back door of the shack and fled. Deputy Sheriff J. H. Granger of Greenville opened up on the fleeing man with an automatic shotgun and Policeman W. N. Stroup of Rosman added to the din with a pistol, but the man was covered up in the foggy darkness in less than half a minute, leaving a trail of blood splashes as telltale evidence that he had not entirely escaped the gunfire, but still being able to travel rapidly—minus his clothing.
