The state engineering officer of WPA has estimated, Coan said, that "before the end of October we can allocate the $9,000,000 to the eight state districts in such a way that something like 800 to 1,000 projects can be undertaken."

North Carolina's quota, he said, is 35,000 workers and the WPA administrator feels that sufficient funds will be available to take care of the entire 35,000.

Glasses Found Quickly Through Times Want Ad

It pays to advertise.

The statement is old, but like the Bible, it is true, and oft repeated only adds to its emphasis.

An example of the proof of the assertion is cited as follows: Early last week someone brought a pair of glasses to The Times office, hoping that through the paper the rightful owner could be found.

Thursday's Transylvania Times carried a three line advertisement in the Classified column, and Friday morning Mrs. A. B. Michael called at the office for her glasses.

Motorcade Promises To Pay Big Returns

Editor, The Times:

It has been evident to some for a long time that it was going to be necessary for this county, generally and Brevard particularly, to make a strong bid for more of the tourist business coming from the north and east; the deep south already knows what we have, and unless handicapped by something like we have had this season, we will get our share of that patronage.

Thus, when the opportunity came last week to entertain the motorcade from the north and east, sponsored by the Carolina Motor Club and Carolina, Inc., some of our harding fellows got to work and handled the situation very nicely, and the Mayor wishes at this time to voice the appreciation of the citizens of Brevard to these men and women who contributed time and money in the effort to make the reception a success.

We wish particularly to thank President Coltrane and the faculty of Brevard College for the fine way the visitors and our town people were handled on the campus, for the excellent lunch provided, and to thank those of the student body who assisted in serving the food, and in enlivening the occasion by some excellent singing.

Also wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Carrier of Rockbrook Camp and Miss Fannuel Harrison of The Outdoor School who planned the further entertainment and "dessert" course following the reception at the college.

And last but not least, a tribute to "Doug," "Jerry," "Harry," and others who assumed the responsibility of making the plans, and then saw that they were carried out.

A few visits like this will put us "on the map" to those from the north and east who only think of North Carolina as just another cotton and tobacco growing section of the Southland, and who know nothing of the wonders of our mountain scenery and climate.

Very truly,
A. H. HARRIS, Mayor.

INCREASE NOTED IN AGRICULTURE HERE

Gain Shown in Number Farms, Cattle, Hogs, Grain and Other Products

The same upward trend that has characterized the other counties in the mountainous section of North Carolina during the last five years is clearly in evidence in Transylvania county from the preliminary figures of the 1935 federal farm census as released by Director William L. Austin, bureau of the census, department of commerce.

The 1,078 farms reported in 1935 represent an increase of 43 per cent over the number in 1930. That many of these new farms are small is indicated by the decline in the average size from 86.1 acres in 1930 to 53.3 acres in 1935.

Land from which crops were harvested totaled 14,013 acres in 1934, or an average of about 13 acres per farm. Corn increased from 6,749 to 9,331 acres, and the 1934 production of corn for grain exceeded that of five years earlier by more than 40,000 bushels. Rye almost trebled, increasing from 545 acres and 3,089 bushels to 1,580 acres and 11,141 bushels. The acreage and production of both Irish and sweet potatoes more than doubled during the last five years.

Farmers in Transylvania county had 74 per cent more cattle in 1935 than in 1930. The gain in number of cows was almost 900, or an average of about one per farm. Hogs increased from 1,930 to 2,444.

Preliminary figures, which give selected items only, for other counties and the state may be secured without charge, from the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C.
