BATTERY F REUNION MEETS IN BREVARD

Barbecue and Business Session Will Be Held At Breese Mill

Over a hundred members of the F Battery, 113th Field Artillery of the 60th Division American Expeditionary Forces are expected to attend the an-nual reunion which will be held at Breese's Mill off the Greenville highway Thursday (this) afternoon.

While the business session of the bat-tery is not scheduled to start until 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, a number of the soldiers are expected to arrive in Brevard early Thursday morning, and a few had already arrived here Wadnesday night. The battery personnel was recruited largely from Transylvania, Mecklenburg, Iredell and Cabarrus countles, and delegations from these counties have already notified Eck L. Sims, p.ogram chairman, of their intentions to he here for the gala occasion. Main business session of the convention will be held in the grove be-tween the Breese mill and the spring, and will be presided over by the presi-dent, Charles C. Sellers of Charlotte. Wm. E. Breese of Breyard and Ashe-ville, who is assisting in making the af-fair successful one, will make the welcome address. The Maiden Hair Mill property is being turned over to the Battery for the occasion by Mr. Breese, as well as the barbecue and picnic facilities at the spring near the mill which has been utilized on numerous occasions for outings of like nature. Following the business session, and a general get-together meeting of the war buddies, Sam Allison-Brevard's barbecue artist supreme-will have the mess call sounded, and will put the fin-ishing touches on the community's hospitality with barbecued pig, lamb, and other "fixins" which Sam excels in pre-

The town of Brevard is co-operating with Mr. Sims in making the day enjoyable for the ex-service men who will attend the reunion, and free use of the municipal swimming pool is being offer-ed to the visiting soldiers for the day. Members of the Brevard Boy Scout will act as guides for the veterans who come by motor, and Scouts will be stationed at the square in Brevard and on the Greenville highway to direct the cars to the Breese mill pienic grounds. Major A. L. Fletcher, of Raleigh, commissioner of labor, will be here for the day, as will Major L. B. (Pete) Crayton of Charlotte, Other officers of the battery who will attend include Lt. Eugene Allison, of Forest City, former-ly a Brevard resident, and who organized the Transylvania unit of the tattery at the outbreak of the World War; Capt. Reid R. Morrison and Lt. George Morrow of Mooresville, where the or-ganized battery was stationed for sev-eral weeks after it was organized; and Lieutenant Dodge of Raleigh.

Mobilized in Mooresville in August of 1917, the battery went in training at Camp Sevier, near Greenville, and later sailed for France where the part the 30th division and Battery F made history that is recorded in the annals of the victory which the American, Doughboys insured.

All members of the battery who reside in Transylvania county are exnesday, and assist in making the visitors feel doubly welcome here. The reunion is only for those who were members of the F. Battery, Mr. Sims
