Hospital Day Will Be Held Sept. 18th

Mrs. Thorvaid Berg, Publicity Chm., A cordial invitation is extended to one and all to attend the tea and miscel-laneous shower to be held at Lyday Memorial hospital on Friday afternoon, September 18, from 3 to 6 o'clock. This event is being sponsored by the Wo-men's Civic club, and every effort is be ing made to achieve a most pleasant and profitable afternoon—pleasant for the guests and profitable for the hospital.

There are few organizations in our locality which are so valuable as the hospital, and it is felt that the majority of the citizens are only too glad to have the opportunity to show appreciation in some tangible way. There are many things needed, so a list accompanies thi notice, in order that you may be planing just what you want to give.

Any of the following articles will be reatly appreciated: Drinking glasses small dishes suitable for trays, kitchen itensils, stew pots, double boilers, etc., able napkins, tea towels, wash cloths owels-medium size, bureau scarfs, bed spreads, sheets, pillow cases, night electric pads, blankets, staple foods, anned foods, and of course—CASH DO-

Stock Sold To Brevard People—Joines Building Is Leased

Announcement is made through the office of Judson McCrary, Brevard realtor, that the Joines building on the corner of Main and Caldwell streets has been leased to A. W. Wheeler & Son, Inc., who will install hoslery manufacturing machinery in the large brick structure immediately, and begin the manufacture of full fashioned silk hoz-

The plant will employ between 75 and 80 people, according to A. W. Wheeler, of Hendersonville, who was contacted over long distance telephone by The Times Wednesday morning, and Mr. Wheeler said that his company plans to be ready to start operations by the mid-dle or last of November. Machinery for the plant has been bought, Mr. Wheeler said, and will be shipped here as soon as the building is gotten ready.

The building, which is one of the best in this county, was erected several years ago by S. R. Joines, of brick, concrete, and steel, and is especially suited for the hosiery plant, Mr. Wheeler said, and a lease has been signed by the company for a period of three years, with option to buy incorporated in the lease. Judson McCrary said yesterday that the new company had already paid one year's rent on the building in advance. and that no stock in the new company had been offered for sale. It was not learned who the stockholders are other than A. W. Wheeler and his son, George W. Wheeler. The building is owned by the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance company, of Greensboro, which concern is represented here by Mr. McCrary, who handled the deal.

While complete details of starting and operating the new concern are not ready for publication, Mr. Wheeler told The Times in his telephone conversation yesterday, that the plant would manufacture a high grade of full fashioned silk hosiery for ladies, and that local labor would be employed in the plant It will be necessary, he said, at first to oring in supervisors and some skilled workers to start the operations and train workers, but that his company would employ all local labor as soon as

Mr. Wheeler said that his son, George W. Wheeler, would be in charge of the new plant, and that the younger Mr. Wheeler would move here immediately with his wife and two children to supervise remodeling of the building, and the placing of machinery. Mr. Wheeler said that he would also spend several months here, assisting in getting the plant started.

The superintendent and stockholder in the new company, George W. Wheeler, is experienced in the manufacture of silk hosiery of the better grade, and was associated with his father for some time in operation of the Shipman Hoslery Mills at East Flat Rock, which was sold to the Shipman-LaCrosse people in 1929. Mr. Wheeler also has interests in other hosiery concerns in the South and North. He is a native of New York, but has been residing at Hendersonville for several years.

Erevard business men are elated over the prospects of the new plant opening here which will provide high type employment to the large group of workers, and are especially elated over the fact that the new concern thinks well enough of the Brevard location to begin operations without the usual stock selling to local people.

Further details as to opening of the plant and the hiring of employes will be made through The Times.
