ANNUAL DEER HUNT IN PISGAH FOREST

1700 Hunters Will Be Permitted To Kill One Buck Each in November

The entire area of Pisgah National Forest, comprising nearly 100,000 acres, will be opened for deer hunting during November, with 1700 people to be allowed to kill one buck each.

Applications for privilege to hunt must be made to the Asheville office of the forestry department before October 24, and after that date a public drawing will be held to select the 700 names from the applications. Four hundred alternates will be drawn to fill in for those who fail to take their places.

The entire area of the forest will be opened this year, the announcement from the forestry department states, in order to reduce the number of deer.

Ranger W. P. Duncan said Wednesday that checking stations would be established at the Mills River CCC camp and at Pisgah Forest, with the first week's hunt to use the Mills River checking station, and the second, Pisgah Forest, alternating each week. Mr. Duncan will have supervision over the two stations and the hunt in general.

Following are the general rules that will govern the hunt:

1. Citizens of the United States 21 years or over are eligible to apply for the privilege of hunting on this project. Applications from regular employees of the U. S. Forest Service or from employees engaged in activities directed by the U. S. Forest Service will not be accepted.
2. Applications must be made in writing to the Forest Supervisor, U. S. Forest Service, Arcade Building, Asheville, N. C., on or before October 24, 1936. No applications received after the close of business on October 24, 1936, will be considered. Blanks may be secured from the Ranger's office or the application may be made in writing direct to the Asheville office.
3. Seventeen hundred hunters will be chosen by lot at a public drawing immediately after the closing date for application.
4. A person may apply either for the privilege of hunting three days on a regular accessible area, or five days on the wilderness area, but the Forest Service cannot guarantee that selected hunters will be allowed on areas for which they have indicated a preference.
5. Each applicant must agree to deposit five dollars into a cooperative fund which shall be used for the development and research work connected with managing the wildlife on the Pisgah National Forest.
6. At the public drawing applications will be grouped in bunches of ten and selected in this manner. Therefore, if several persons wish to be chosen together they should submit their applications in the same letter, explaining their wish. No other grouping will be made.

After drawing, each successful applicant will be assigned a date on which he may begin to hunt. Any changing of dates must be made by the applicant himself by corresponding with some individual who is scheduled to hunt on the day desired. The Forest Service can not negotiate any changes nor recognize requests for chances. It will, however, send a list of the names and addresses of the hunters scheduled for the day in question.

8. At the public drawing to be held October 25, 1700 applicants will be selected as regulars. In addition, 400 alternates will be selected.

COOPERATIVE SALE BEANS PROFITABLE

Prices Obtained Were Above Individual Sales—First Step In Plan

(J. A. Glaesener, County Agent.) Our cooperative bean market established in September with the B & B Feed company, through the efforts of the County Agricultural Advisory committee has proven that such an undertaking can be made profitable and workable.

Although the market was open only a very short time, about 800 bushels of beans were handled for the farmers from all parts of the county. The beans were in 30 different lots representing that many different persons. The net price ranged all the way from 35 cents for the low grade up to 65 cents for the quality number ones, with a 60 cent average for all sold.

It is reported that at this same time a few persons from this county hauled beans to the Columbia and other markets and only received 40 cents. One can easily figure the advantage and profit to be gained by helping to build a good strong cooperative home market.

Recommendations To Be Made By Body To General Assembly In 1937

Several Transylvania county dry leaders are expected to attend the hearing of the commission to study the control of alcoholic beverages which meets in Asheville on October 30. The hearings will be held in the Buncombe county court house.

This commission, appointed by Governor Ethinghaus at the direction of an act of the 1935 legislature, has held public hearings in Raleigh, Wilson and Wilmington, and the purpose of the Asheville hearing is to give Western North Carolina persons an opportunity to present their views.

The commission, as a result of its hearings and investigation of liquor control in Eastern North Carolina and other states, is expected to recommend some type of control legislation to the 1937 legislators.

Chairman Victor S. Bryant's official announcement of the Asheville hearing follows:

"The commission to study the control of alcoholic beverages in North Carolina will have a public meeting in Asheville at 10 o'clock a. m., on Friday, October 30th. At this time any person desiring to appear before the commission will be given an opportunity to be heard."

"While the commission desires to limit the public hearings insofar as it may be possible to obtaining information, it will give consideration to the opinions or suggestions of any person who desires to write out his or her views and file them either with the chairman or with any member of the commission."
