

TWO FARM SALES GO ON COUNTY RECORDS

Clough Farm, C. F. Woodfin Place Sold To Outside Business Men

Two outstanding property transfers were recorded in the register of deeds office last week, entailing over $50,000 and nearly 2,000 acres of farm land.

W. R. Smith, prominent business man of Marion, and former Brevard furniture dealer, purchased the Clough Farm northeast of Brevard, and lying along the French Broad river for a price said to be in excess of $10,000.

Mr. Smith has not announced his plans for the development of the property, but he is expected to move here this last of this year, and will probably build a home on the property. He has business connections in Lenoir and Marion.

The Clough farm is regarded as one of the best pieces of farming land in Western North Carolina, and is in a high state of cultivation.

Henry S. Randolph of the Farm School, Swannanoa, has purchased the C. F. Woodfin place at Penrose comprising approximately 400 acres of land.

This property also lies well bordering on the French Broad, with excellent water and pasture land.

Professor Randolph plans to develop his property, and will probably build several cottages there this year. Mr. Woodfin has moved to Campbell, S. C.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY BE GIVEN FRIDAY EVE

Brevard High School Grads Present Annual Drama On April 16th

The senior class of Brevard high school will present "The Hearted Herbert," a comedy of home life, on Friday evening at eight o'clock at the high school auditorium.

The play, which represents one of the most ambitious undertakings of this high school group, is the story of Elizabeth Kalness, a quiet, refined woman, who wants her children to have the best of advantages, and Herbert Kalness, her wealthy manufacturer-husband, who believes that what was good enough for him in his poverty-stricken childhood is good enough for his children. Elizabeth has managed through the years to save enough from the house money to make their home comfortable and attractive. Herbert, however, not realizing these little comforts, believes with pride that he is living in the scanty plain manner of the former years.

The children do not understand their father's miserliness nor his tyrannical ways and are unwilling to accept his ultimatum on their future careers.

How Elizabeth brings Herbert to recognize and respect other people's wishes and be more of a father and less of a tyrant, is the theme of this highly entertaining comedy of character.

The cast of characters includes: Nina Lou Rustin, as Elizabeth Kalness; Earl Ashworth, as Herbert; Kathryn Fulton, as Alice, their daughter; Roy Carter, as Junior, their son; Lewis Earl Jackson, as Robert, their youngest child; Charles Allen, as Andrew Goodrich, Alice's fiancé; George Souther and Ruby Derrind as Andrew's father and mother; Jane Yongue as Amy Lawrence, Elizabeth's wealthy sister; Billy Nicholson as Jim Lawrence, Amy's husband; Richard Enloe as Mr. Havens, Herbert's best customer; Irene Tinsley as Mrs. Havens; and Mary Holden as Martha, the laundress, who helps Elizabeth once a week.

Alvin Moore, Mrs. Melvin Gillespie and the high school Glee club will render musical selections between the acts of the play.

Declines To Run

Former Mayor J. C. WIKE asks The Times to state for him that he is not a candidate at this time for mayor of Brevard.

Mr. Wike said that a number of people in Brevard had asked him to make the race, but that interests which he is now connected with will necessarily take him away from Brevard for a considerable part of his time during the next two years, and further, that he does not want to oppose the re-election of Mayor A. H. Harris, who has announced for the office.

"Mr. Harris served under me as a member of the board of aldermen and mayor pro tem while I was head of the town government in 1934 and '35," Mr. Wike said, "and I regard him as a highly efficient man and especially fitted for the place of mayor."

Further, Mr. Wike said, "I do not want to jeopardize in any way the very favorable debt settlement plan which the mayor and his board are working on. I appreciate the fact that there are so large a group of people in Brevard who would like to have me elected mayor, but taking all things into consideration, I think it unwise at this time to make a change."

County Agent Urges Corn Contest Entries

(J. A. Glazener, County Agent) As we think of corn planting time, may we think of planting at least one acre of prize winning corn. Transylvania farmers just got too much pride and determination to lose a good thing after once they have won it.

Just one way to hold the production corn growing record over our friends in the neighboring county and that is to produce more corn per acre than they do and at a lower cost per bushel. The more farmers we have in this contest, the more good we will get out of it; a finer spirit of cooperation will be shown and last but not least, our chances for winning will be better.

Select your best piece of ground, see that a good seed bed is prepared. Use the very best seed corn available of an adapted variety. Fertilize well using the kind and amount recommended by the experiment station for this section. Do a real job of cultivation and if you don't win a production prize, you will greatly profit by your increased yield.

At least 100 farmers is the goal that has been set for Henderson county entries, according to information from the county agent, with a large group already signed up.

Transylvania Girls Attending NYA Camp

Five Transylvania county girls who have been on the National Youth Administration rolls the past winter have been selected to attend the NYA camp for girls at Futherford college.

Flave H. Holden, in charge of the work in this county together with leaders in the various groups, made selections of the girls who are to attend, and the fact that the NYA in Transylvania county has been doing outstanding work is given by district leaders as reason for five girls being allowed to go to the encampment in this county. Other small counties have only been allowed one and two girls each.

Girls who left here Tuesday for Camp Eleanor, which was named in honor of the nation's first lady, are: Daisy McCall, of Balsam Grove; Willa Rae Plisher, of Quebec; Etta Mae McGaha, of Brevard; Annie Neill, of Brevard; Alice Landreth, of Eaton, one of the five girls chosen, was unable to go at this time.

In addition to the girls who will be in camp, Miss Willie Kate Waters, who has been assistant to Mr. Holden for the past year in the work of the NYA here, has been appointed assistant project superintendent for the three-months school camp.

Miss Clara Barnett, of Pisgah Forest, has been named assistant to Mr. Holden during the time Miss Waters will be aiding in conduct of the state camp.

Fire Burns Home of Mr. and Mrs. Varner

Fire of an undetermined origin did several thousand dollars damage to the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Varner shortly after noon Sunday. The entire upper section of the large frame house known as the Jasper Orr place, was damaged by the blaze which had gained considerable headway before the firemen arrived.

The fire apparently started from a spark on the west side of the shingled roof, and the wind whipped the blaze across the large structure rapidly.

The Brevard fire department made a record run to the home, and had water on the blaze exactly four minutes from the time the fire siren sounded.

But for the quick work of the Brevard fire fighting corps, the entire house would have been destroyed. A Times reporter checked on the time it took the local department to get to the fire and have water going, and when the first hose threw a stream of water on the building it lacked just a few seconds of being four minutes.

As usual, there were many people soon congregated at the scene of the fire. While a few people helped the firemen in dragging the hose up the incline to the house, and others assisted in carrying some of the furnishings from the building, majority of the people were more or less in the way.

Chief Bromfield states that he expects to have five deputized firemen check car numbers and assist in identifying the people who race to the next fire. A town ordinance prohibits going into the block where the firemen are engaged in fighting a fire.

It is understood that Mr. Varner's loss was covered by insurance.
