Griffin anticipates there will be between 100 and 150 more teachers on the pay roll during the next school year than there were last year. Their salaries alone will absorb some of the additional $1,780,000 voted by the General Assembly for the teachers. One hun-dred additional Class A teachers with no experience will absorb more than $70,000 during the year. Last year there were 23,766 teachers

Which classification is to receive greatest increases and which to receive less will be discussed and probably definintely decided at the commis sion meeting this week. At any rate all North Carolina teachers can count month next year.

Cash and Carry Plan Will Be Instituted In Mayor's Court

The "Cash and Carry" plan is being instituted in the Brevard police court, now, forthwith, and immediately, Mayor A. H. Harris announced Monday evening at the weekly session.

No more will there be any partial payments—half of the bill now and more on it "next Sat'dy," whenever that is. His Honor said that defendants in police court would hereafter pay, appeal and make bond on the spot, or go to jail.

The mayor has tried being len-ient with defendants in his court for over a year, now, giving those who said they could not pay the amount (usually around $8.00) of fine and costs for breaking town ordinances, a week or even a month to pay up the assessment. However, this has not panned out as it should, and oftentimes the feliows who were out on "honorable percie" have been back before His Honor for another violation, and part or all of the costs in the old case still unpaid.

The mayor said it would take a man at least an hour's average time each day to keep books on the town court, the way things have town court, the way things have been running for the past couple of months, and in addition, there was the extra trouble of the police-men having to be continually on the go to collect from the defend-ants who had been let off "to get the money in a few days.

Ordinary cases have been costing defendants $8.05—and this too, has been raised, the mayor said. Here-after a fine of $8.06, along with the costs will amount to $9.05—up one dollar. The extra dollar goes to the state treasurer, and is applied to the state bureau of law enforcement.

Police court, held by Mayor Har-his and Mayor Pro Tem Fred Shuford, has been hearing an av-erage of half dozen or a dozen cases erage of half dozen or a dozen cases each week, and the mayor is of the opinion that the new ruling of "pay as you go" will tend to cut this number down. Five cases were tried before the mayor Friday—all growing out of the usual trouble—whiskey.
