Park Matter Before Secretary of Interior

Members of the Western North Car-olina Advisory committee have been advised that Secretary of Interior Ickes is studying the reports recently sul mitted by a group of surveyors and landscape architects, and that his recommendations for continuance of the work would be made within a few days.

Congressman Zeb Weaver wrote to members of the committee several days ago to the effect that following a conference between the secretary of the interior and Ambassador Josephus Daniels, that the retention of the original parkway routing was very favorable.

Secretary Ickes told newspapermen last Thursday that he was studying the reports from the park service, and would give no further comment.

sent. Followed by Will Gravely with four counts to his credit, and of course, Will was not present. Will is a good sort of a chap when it comes to working, and is said to be an exceptionally fine sawmill man, but he can't stay out of court. Too much of a desire for whiskey. Big family, too, that adds to the shame of the thing.

Sheriff Shuford and Deputy McCall made a night of it Monday, from supper time 'til breakfast, and they counted for twelve residents of the jail for breakfast, and made for clearing the docket Tuesday. George and Buck figured out just about where they'd find some of the chaps who failed to show up, and went after them.

Seems that Tom Bagwell persists in drinking Transylvania corn and getting in the toils of the law. He had four charges against him, all growing out of too much firewater. His attorney said that Tom had a job in South Carolina making pretty good money, and that he stayed on the water wagon down there. Judge Alley said he was in favor of letting him pay costs in the four cases and letting him go to South Carolina to his job-where it appears that the "government likker" doesn't tempt him

Nice looking young chaps and an attractive young girl-the chap about 20 and the girl about 17 (looked more like 13) charged with stealing clothing from a home in the Cherryfield saction. They had been in jail for several weeks, and His Honor let them off with a min-imum fine and the big cost bill, which was paid by a brother of the young chap, and they were allowed to go back to their homes in South Carolina.

Met an interesting chap in the court house. Editor M. C. Scofield, of Inverness, Fla. In addition to being a verness, Fla. In addition to being a newspaperman. Mr. Scofield is also mayor of his home town, and a law-ver—looks like he has a monopoly on things down in Citrus county of the Sunshine State. He is spending ton days at the Frank Patton home near Pisgah Forest, and just dropped by court "to see how things are done in North Carolina."

Folks walked about sort of on ne Folks walked about sort of on needles and pins. Janiter had recently put off on the bettleship linoleum which covers the floor, and while it was not reality dangerous, it had all the appearances. Suggestion is made that til be applied a fittle ahead of court next

Not so many cases on the docket at a kite in the court room Monday, there July-August term, and lots of them "ain't a dog in Georgia." No, he wasn't one of our local barristers. Some of our home town attorneys may take a drink occasionally, but they don't come to court lit up.

Another time when honesty really pays-young woman up for having whiskey for purpose of sale, and she tue to form....he did not have the admitted that was exactly why the 12 or 13 pints that Sheriff Shuford found stinued from the April term for a in her home were on hand for. Judge to bill of $5.85. This time he was told Alley took into consideration the fact that with the money not later than that she had told Lawyer Kimzey the truth about the matter, and the further fact that she has a small daughter in school, and let her off light.

Next five defendants "called and passes between the prosecuting attor-failed." three of them brothers, all about a client's lawyer when they whisper together before a case starts. Very probably none of a newspaper chap's business, also very probably a necessary thing to do, but people wonder about it just the same.

Whatta-man! Chap up before the Smallest Office in U.S. court got six months, and he smiled as he walked over to the group of prisoners who were either waiting to be tried or had already had justice meted out to Funny thing about Transylvania courts—there never are many negroes up. The same thing applies to mayor's court. There are always ten white fellows up to one negro.

'Judge Alley doesn't see anything so radically wrong with a man carrying a pistol in his car—what with the type of highwaymen one is apt to meet General conception around here ha been that a man has to have his pistol in plain view. Might be that ye scribe didn't understand it just right, but the conclusion was drawn that if a fellow is a decent sort, he isn't doing so awfully bad to have a pistol in the dash-board pocket of his auto.

The judge took time out to remark during the day about the "freight train trucks" that travel the highways. He had reference to the big boys that take up every bit of half the road, and lots of times this half right in the middle.

A fellow can't help feeling sorry for A fellow can't help feeling sorry for the unfortunate chaps who get in bad with the law. One should feel that justice abould be meted out for the protection of society, but then, there are lots of fellows who just gut by lucky and weren't caught. Must be anything but pleasant to stand up and hear the court read out—"Six months in the common jalls of Transylvania county, to be assigned to work under supervision of the state highway and public works commission."

Liked the way Solicitor Charence Ridings examined a trial jury—'If there is any reason why rendering a verdict of guilty in this case would be embarancing to you, you may be ex-cused." That's fair as fair can be.
