CANNERY WILL BUY BEANS, TOMATOES IN TRANSYLVANIA

Skyland Company Plans To Use Tomatoes and Beans
For Shipping, Canning

Farmers of Transylvania will be interested in the announcement by the Skyland Packing and Canning company that a plant is to be set up in Hendersonville, and that producers of beans and tomatoes in this county will be contacted.

H. G. Carlisle of Valdosta, Ga., widely known man in plant and vegetable business circles of the South, will be in charge of the new plant which has already purchased its building and part of the necessary equipment.

Mr. Carlisle was in Brevard last week and contacted several farmers and leaders here with a view to growing tomatoes and beans for the new plant. Mr. Carlisle said that he had appointed the B & B Feed and Seed company as Transylvania agents for the plant, and that dealings here would be either through that firm or with the plant direct.

Plans are to use all such green tomatoes as can be properly qualified for green wags, which will be packed and shipped to outside markets. Tomatoes that are unfit for wrapping or shipping, will be used in the cannery for tomato juice or regular cans.

The same rule will apply to beans. Mr. Carlisle said, and no farmer will be asked to contract his crop to sell to the cannery or shipping department.

A plan is being worked out whereby farmers who wish to, may have the seeds, plants, fertilizers, and spray materials furnished through the Board representative, for a share of the product grown. On this basis, there will be no contract to deliver the goods to the canning or packing plant.

The concern is now operating plants in Georgia and Florida, and have a large fleet of trucks in operation now in the southern areas. Arrangements for seeds and supplies may be made now at the B & B Feed and Seed company for planters in this community who wish aid in financing.
