World Fair Designer Visited Here Sunday

Designers of the North Carolina exhibit at the World's Fair to be held in New York next year were in Brevard Sunday, studying camp life, and other features of this immediate community.

The party visited Rockbrook camp, entrance to Pisgah National Forest and Ecusta. They were accompanied by Mrs. Mary Jane McCrary, Mayor A. H. Harris and C. M. Douglas.

The party was comprised of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Jenter, and William Jenter of New York city; Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Roberts of the Carolina Motor Club, Charlotte; and D. J. Wilkinson of Asheville.

A tour of the entire state is being made by the Jenters, in order to get ideas for the large float which will be entered, and for the North Carolina permanent exhibit.

Parents' Day Scheduled for Sunday, October 16

All parents of Brevard College students are invited to be on the campus Sunday, October 16, which has been set aside as Parents' Day. Some exhibits and programs have been provided for this occasion. It is especially urged that parents of day students make their plans to attend at this time. In addition to exhibits of departmental work and the regular religious program of the day, there will be in the late afternoon a program designed for the parents with their sons and daughters. All parents of day students are invited to be on the campus especially for the afternoon program.

Biological Bob Car

Shot a few days ago by Dr. J. F. Zachary, dentist of the city, a large bob cat has been the object of a great deal of talk and work in the Biology department under the direction of Charles Schoenkecht, acting Biology professor in the absence of Jack S. Dendy, who is studying for a Ph. D. degree at the University of Michigan this year.

After the skeleton, the fur, and the other different parts have been cleaned and pickled, they will be mounted and displayed in an electrically lighted show-case.

First Cabinet Meeting of Student Christian Movement

Under the leadership of Bill Rock, president, and Professor John B. Bennett, chairman of the advisory committee, first meeting of the council of Student Christian movement was held in the Methodist church Monday evening, October 3, 7:30 o'clock.

It was the purpose of this meeting to discuss the various activities integrated into their new organization. Definite policies and plans were developed for the religious activities during the year.

Each of the committees has a student chairman and a faculty adviser. All of these together with the executive committee, were present to discuss this work.

Following this extensive study, some recreation composed of folk games and some refreshments closed the evening.

Olo-Delphi on 7th

Following the terrific beating given the Wofford Freshmen Friday afternoon the two boys' literary societies fought to a scoreless tie at touch football on Saturday afternoon. The game was exciting all the way through, with each member fighting for his society. While the score was 0-0, it was reported that the Delphiens held the slight edge over their opponents, the Clitophocs.

Cullowhee Game—Will Rogers Movie

Through the services of Rev. C. M. Jones it was possible for the Brevard students to see the Brevard-Cullowhee game in a movie Saturday night. Though the activities between the two teams were a little fast to be clear, the movie contained some scenes of interest to those who were unable to see the game at Cullowhee. In addition to the movie of the game, there was a comedy starring Will Rogers.

Faculty Fun

Leaving the campus at 4:30 Tuesday afternoon, October 4, the faculty members went to White Pine Camp for an afternoon of fun and frolicking to be followed by a picnic supper. This is one of the series of social gatherings of the faculty designed to initiate the new members and to provide fellowship for the old.

Cedar Mountain Section Praised By Newspaper

(By Charles H. Garrison of The Greenville News)

Cedar Mountain, thirty-odd miles from Greenville and a dozen miles from Brevard, is a resort town which has retained much of its original setting. The community has been extensively developed, it is true, but there is little of the commercial to distract those who wish to while away the days in a quiet, somewhat secluded spot. Other communities may have more to offer than has Cedar Mountain, but that fact has not lessened the popularity of the resort town just over the line in Transylvania county.

Cedar Mountain, where I had the pleasure of spending the week-end, is linked to Greenville by many ties. Originally, the land about Cedar Mountain belonged to the Gower family, the same of which A. G. and T. C. Gower of Greenville are members. Many years ago, however, it was purchased by the Stone family and Dr. Theodore Stone and Rivers Stone, probably more than any others, have been responsible for the development of the unique mountain community.

A spring, which once furnished water to those who visited Cedar Mountain or traveled along the country road, still bears evidence of the Gower ownership. Over the door of the springhouse is the name of "1889." Time and moss, however, have made the two initials of Mr. Gower indistinct and I am not quoting them for fear they would be incorrect.

Several hundred persons spend the summer in or around Cedar Mountain. Many from Greenville have summer homes in the Cedar Mountain community, while not far distant are the summer camps of Piedmont, Judeon and Victor-Monaghan mills, where officials and overseers of the various plants spend a portion of the summer.

Bunyan Robertson is the village store-keeper and also the operator of the adjoining post office. His store is, and has been for many years, the central gathering place of natives and the summer visitors. Bunyan's store is beside the highway and is also the stopping place for the Greenville-Brevard bus.

Due to the efforts of Dr. Theodore Stone and others Faith Memorial Chapel, an Episcopal edifice was erected during the past summer and is now in regular use. The Chapel, unique in its construction, is an open air place and provides an abundance of cool, refreshing breezes for those who worship there. The chapel has been used regularly during the summer but will be closed during the fall and winter, while the summer vacationists are away.

BEAUTIFUL FALLS

Five or six miles distant from Cedar Mountain, I would judge, although Joe G. Cunningham was at the steering wheel, and I did not watch the mileage, is High Falls.

For many years I had heard of High Falls but, like many others, had not gone there because the road is none too good. The last portion of the journey is a comfortable one, because CCC units have improved the roadway. The first part of the journey, however, is still rough for the ancient roadway has not been kept up to the standard of North Carolina roads. This however, is intended to be something about High Falls and not a description of the road leading there.

Transylvania county is famous for its beautiful falls but none, in my opinion, is more breathtaking than High Falls. I would not venture a guess as to the distance but the water rolls and tumbles and then plunges down a steep embankment of probably more than 100 feet—possibly twice that distance. The falls are steep but not perpendicular. Many visitors have come there in the years and have marvelled at the beauty of High Falls, located on Little River. If you have not visited this beautiful spot you will be well repaid, in spite of the rough road.

Stolen Car Found In Greenville Storage

Duckworth Motor company found their "Craig automobile" in South Carolina last week, and after paying six dollars for storage brought the car home, where it will be sold only to someone well known to the management or Salesman Patton.

A Gentleman (?) by the supposed name of "Mister Craig" bargained for the car nearly two months ago, took it to show to his wife, and kept going. The car was located in a storage place at Greenville, where "Mister Craig" had evidently left it and secured another to make the next lap of his journey.

Horse and Buggy No Longer Serves Folk On Rural Mail Route

Old Dobbin has nearly disappeared from the rural free delivery mail routes, and, according to Postmaster Coleman Galloway, there is no mail carrier in this section that depends on a horse and buggy to transport him on his rounds.

Following receipt of a report from American Automobile association headquarters at Washington to the effect that only two percent of all rural mail carriers now use horses and buggies Mrs. Mary Jane McCrary manager of the Brevard office of the Carolina Motor Club contacted Postmaster Coleman Galloway and verified the fact that all rural free delivery routes in this section are 100 per cent motorized.
