To Train Workers at Ecusta Paper Corporation Plant

Above photo shows a group of cigarette paper experts and technicians who arrived at Pisgah Forest Friday from Troyes, France, to assume their duties as instructors in the Ecusta Paper corporation's new plant which will soon be in operation.

The group is stopping at the Patton Home near Ecusta, and are all seemingly well pleased with the new country and the new plant in which they will act as instructors to train workers.

Mr. Bollore, Mr. and Mrs. Cartel are stopping at the Walnut Inn, Brevard. Mr. Bollore is head of the Papeteries Rene Bollore in France, and also a director in the Ecusta corporation. He has been here for several days on this trip, and has also been here several months ago. He expects to return to France this summer, but will bring Mrs. Bollore here for a visit.

Mr. Bollore said Tuesday that he was well pleased with the new plant here, and the community.

Construction of the plant has been going on for nearly a year, and is now nearing completion in all departments. President Harry H. Straus who is spending most of his time at the plant, said Tuesday that within a few weeks he hoped to have machinery going.

Mr. Straus plans to make Brevard his home, and expects to erect a home here in the near future.

When in operation, Ecusta will manufacture fine cigarette paper which will be used by most of the large cigarette manufacturers in America. Much of the paper will be used by North Carolina plants. Heretofore, most of the fine cigarette paper has been imported.

The program on this occasion will be the same as that rendered by Mr. Wollner at the World's Fair in New York City last week. He is said to respond to all encores, two numbers of which will include, "Russian Dark Eyes," and an old negro spiritual, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I See."

This will be Mr. Wollner's third concert before a Brevard audience, which he has heretofore felt was particularly appreciative of his musical talent.

Flame Azalea Gardens Open For Inspection

Ranger John B. Fortin announces today that the Forest Service will open the Davidson River Road on weekends to tourists who are interested in seeing the flame azalea in bloom. The scenic route as outlined by the U. S. Forest Service includes the drive up the French Broad River from Rosman to Balsam Grove. At Balsam Grove tourists should take a right turn to the Davidson River road and drive to the Daniel Ridge road, a distance of approximately nine miles. The Daniel Ridge road leads to the Davidson River Trout Rearing Station where seventy thousand brook, brown, and rainbow trout are being reared by the Bureau of Fisheries.

Returning to the Davidson River road, a short drive takes the motorist to the John Rock CCC Camp. This camp is rated as excellent and visitors are welcome to inspect the camp. The school room and work shops are really of interest and Lt. Batson, Commanding Officer, or Educational Adviser Whitaker will be glad to show you through the buildings.

From the camp, tourists are recommended to take the Headwaters road around Lookingglass Rock. Here the azalea bloom in profusion and the orange and red of these blossoms mingle with the new green foliage of spring. Vistas opened up along this road afford views of that majestic mass of solid granite Lookingglass Rock.

The Headwaters Road ends in the Pink Beds and connects up to highway No. 284. Tourists have a choice of taking No. 284 to Mt. Pisgah, camping at the Pink Beds Campground, or returning to Brevard by way of highway No. 284. However, as the surfacing of this road has not been entirely finished the tourist may prefer to return by way of the Headwaters Road. Information on this highway can be obtained by telephoning the Ranger's office at Pisgah Forest or G. G. Page, the Resident Engineer.

The flame azalea belongs to the rhododendron group of plants which is so popular in this region. This entire group is in the Heath Family or Ericaceae and as other species of the family come into the flower, the U. S. Forest Service will announce the dates and advise tours over areas where these flowers can be seen.

Assistant Ranger.

HEALTH BOARD WILL DISCUSS QUARANTINE

Group Will Meet Thursday To Consider Steps To Combat
Possible Infection

Meeting of the Transylvania county board of health has been called for Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at which time the matter of quarantine or preventive steps to counteract any possible danger from the infantile paralysis epidemic now said to be in lower South Carolina.

Dr. G. B. Lynch said Wednesday afternoon that there was not a case of "polio" in the county or in Western North Carolina that he knew of, but that in his opinion some sort of a quarantine should be set up to prevent any possible danger of infection from the infected areas.

In the Charleston, S. C., area infantile paralysis has reached a near-epidemic state, and Dr. Lynch, as county health officer, makes request that any children under 15 years of age who are known to come into the county from that section be reported to his office at once.

Speaks Here Friday

DR. KENNER C. FRAZER, of the University of North Carolina, will speak at the Brevard Methodist church Friday evening of this week at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Frazer, who is executive secretary of the Southern Council on International Relations, will speak on the topic—"Democracy in a Crisis." He is coming to Brevard under auspices of the Civic Club.

Dr. Frazer is Professor of Political Science, University of North Carolina; president, Southern Political Science Association. He was educated at University of North Carolina, Johns Hopkins University and Institute of International Relations, Geneva, Switzerland.
