SUNDAY SHOWS TO BE SEEN HERE AT CLEMSON THEATRE

Schedule Announced for Three Pictures June 4th—Many Requested This Move

Announcement is made by the Clemson Theatre that shows will be given at their place on West Main street Sunday afternoon and evening, and that Sunday shows will be scheduled throughout the summer months.

Shows will start at 2 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and at 9:15 in the evening, according to Verne P. Clement, manager. No midnight Saturday shows are planned.

Mr. Clement stated to a Times representative that he had been seriously considering the step of conducting Sunday shows for several months, and that many of his patrons had made innumerable request for Sunday shows in Brevard.

"It is a known fact," Mr. Clement said, "that many Brevard people go to Hendersonville and Asheville each Sunday afternoon and evening to attend shows, and it is to give service to these people, and to provide entertainment for people here this summer that the Clemson is putting on Sunday movies."

The Clemson has been operating here for 13 years, under management of Verne P. Clement and his father, Frank D. Clement, the present theatre taking place of the old "Auditorium," which was operated 14 years prior to erection of the new modern theatre.

Next Sunday's show will be "Tell No Tales," featuring Melvyn Douglas and Louise Platt. The story is of a newspaperman who solves a mystery, saves a young school teacher from prison, and captures a gang of kidnapers.

In addition to the feature picture, a musical number entitled "Tempo of Tomorrow," a Grantland Rice sport short, "Good Skates," and a Popular Science magazine short, will also be shown.

Dr. Loomis To Teach At Mars Hill College

Dr. and Mrs. Burt Loomis will leave Brevard Monday for Mars Hill, where Dr. Loomis will again be member of the summer school faculty of the Wake Forest-Meredith schools.

For the past five years Meredith College, of Raleigh, and Wake Forest College, of Wake Forest, have brought a large number of their faculty and students to the campus of Mars Hill College for the summer term.

Last year, 350 students were enrolled in the school, which combines the opportunities of a four-year college and the recreational facilities of the mountain climate. The combined summer school is under the direction of Dean D. B. Bryan, of Wake Forest, and Dean B. Y. Tyner, of Meredith College, with Dean I. N. Carr, of Mars Hill College, as associate director.

Dr. Loomis will offer courses in psychology and educational measurement. The nine weeks' session is from June 6 to August 5.
