A sawmill and shingle mill is being installed in the W. W. Croushorn building on Depot street by the NYA, and will start cutting timber immediately for use on school buildings and repairs.

The saw mill and shingle outfit will serve a double purpose—that of providing needed lumber and roofing for school buildings, and at the same time teach young boys how to operate machinery, and the handling of lumber.

F. H. Holden, supervisor of the National Youth Administration, is in charge of the lumber cutting projects, and has between 20 and 30 boys under his supervision.

Mr. Croushorn is allowing the boys use of his building for their shop, and O. V. Summey is permitting them to use some of his heavy machinery for dressing and sizing lumber.

The state administration of the NYA has purchased the shingle mill and saw outfits, and they will be permanent property of the county NYA group.

The boys have been cutting shingles some time, and roof repairs on school buildings has been going forward for the past year.

Shingle timber is being secured through Pisgah National Forest office, at no cost except cutting and hauling, and the NYA has its own trucks for this purpose.

James G. K. McClure, president of the federation, presided, and the opening prayer was offered by the Rev. Walker McGuire.

J. A. Glazener, county agent, spoke of the importance of friendly cooperation for farm progress, and the need for more gatherings of the nature being held Tuesday.

The Rev. Dumont Clarke, religious department director of the federation, explained the setup of the "Lord's Acre" movement, and stated that many churches throughout the territory had found the plan to be of great value. Mr. Clarke has just returned from a trip through the Middle West where he was called to explain and start the "Lord's Acre" plan in a number of communities.

Stream improvement, reforestation, and the building of good roads to points of interest inside the forest boundary during the past past ten years have all added to the beauty of the forest, and the trip was pronounced one of especial enjoyment by the large group that made it two weeks ago.

South Carolina Visitors Will Be Allowed Entry Here—No Restrictions

Announcement was made by the board of health Tuesday that ban put into effect several weeks ago against visitors coming here from infantile paralysis areas in South Carolina and Georgia had been lifted, as of August 1st.

Dr. G. B. Lynch, health officer, stated that he had checked with health officers in South Carolina and Georgia, and was convinced that the epidemic stage of "polio" had passed.

The health officer pointed out that restrictions in most of the counties in South Carolina had been lifted, except for children 12 years and under, and that in many of the counties the younger children were allowed entire freedom, due to passing of what doctors and health officials there considered the danger period.

Statement from Greenville county Tuesday was to the effect that not an active case of polio was in that county, although there had been 15 cases during the earlier part of the summer.

Other Upper South Carolina counties also report through their official health departments that the disease is on the wane, and that no further outbreak is anticipated.

Children 12 years of age and under, who come from sections regarded as "epidemic" areas will be required to remain in quarantine for two weeks after coming into Transylvania, the health board ruled, but those over 12 will not be under restrictions.

The quarantine and ban order was put into effect in June by the Transylvania health board, as a precautionary measure against the disease, and due to this ruling it is believed that many people from sections not affected have visited here this summer.
