

Brevard Tanners Take Thriller From Hazelwood Team, 2-1

Griffin was responsible for winning his own game here Saturday afternoon when the Brevard Tanners defeated the Hazelwood team 2-1.

Going to the mound in the beginning of the fifth inning, with the score 1-1, Griffin held the visitors to one single, and struck out six batters in the five frames.

Hammett had allowed but three safeties during four innings, and had four strikeouts to his credit.

In addition to near-blanking the visitors Griffin was responsible for both Brevard's runs, driving in Harry Clayton in the fourth inning, and W. Griffin with the winning tally in the sixth.

After scoring in the fourth, the visitors only threatened once—in the sixth.

Brevard played Enka here Wednesday afternoon as The Times was going to press and should the Tanners take the game here they will have the second half pennant practically sewed up. Last game of the season is scheduled to be played at Sayles Saturday afternoon.

Following last Saturday's game, Brevard was half game in the lead, with Canton following, and the bare possibility that Enka could cause three teams to be tied for top place after this coming Saturday.

GARREN REUNION HAPPY EVENT LAST SUNDAY

(By A Friend Of The Garrens)
The Garren Clan held their annual reunion at the home of Tom Garren of the Selica section on last Sunday, August 27, at which there were present more than seventy-five persons, most of whom were Garrens or Garren relatives. Several Western North Carolina counties were represented and one group from far-away Central Florida was present.

Most of the forenoon was spent in meetings and greetings among those who see each other only on these reunion occasions which are enjoyed by all.

A table, the length of which was measured in rods, had been prepared in the edge of the grove just back of the Garren home and about 12:30, a most unusual noise was heard emanating from that quarter of the lawn, and when the crowd, in response to the call of old man Tom Garren for everybody to come there, moved rather hastily around the corner, into the back yard, saw the predicament the table was in, and realized that the noise they had just heard was the groanings of the table, trying to support the good eats which had been stacked high from end to end. After thanks had been returned by Mr. James Garren, everyone fell to work in deadly earnest to relieve the table of its burden. For about three quarters of an hour this went on and it looked as if no table of fried chicken, cakes, pies and cookies, broiled steaks, pork chops, hot biscuits and coffee could long withstand such an onslaught; but at the end of about one hour the leader of the attack (who some believed to be Red Brewington) sounded the signal to retreat, which was promptly obeyed, leaving on the table, still untouched, more than enough good things such as only the women of the Garren clan seem able to prepare, to feed as many more.

Our regret is that the Editor of The Times was not present to partake of and enjoy this dinner. And, too, he could have written about it in more "journalistic" fashion.

String music for the occasion was furnished by Wallace Galloway, Bob Fulton and Red Brewington.

Next year's reunion will be at the same place and same time—Tom Garren's home; fourth Sunday in August.

This Month On the Farm

SEPTEMBER

—Bolivar Pigg, he sez, sez he:
"The Fair's a paying sort of spree.
It's fun to see the stunts an' stock
An' pick a horse on the Q. T."
—Sez Bolivar P., sez he.

There's a hint of fall in the air when September rolls around. Shorter days and cooler nights are reminders that summer is practically gone and that farmers must set themselves about their annual autumn tasks. Here are a few suggestions from State College specialists for the month of September.

PASTURES
John Arey, State College's well-known extension dairyman, adds his usual bit for pastures. September is the ideal month to plan pastures in North Carolina, because the seedlings made now will have a good start during the fall and winter. This will enable them better to withstand the drouths of summer, which is not always true of pastures planted in the spring. And here's how to put in pastures: Seed on good land; thoroughly pulverize the seed bed to a depth of three inches; fertilize with 300 to 400 pounds per acre of a high grade fertilizer mixture; use grasses and legumes suited to local conditions because other kinds may fail; and plant temporary grazing crops of the small grains mixed with crimson clover.

Youngsters Look To Grown-Ups As Guide

"The men of Brevard are teaching the children to stay away from church, because the young people follow in the footsteps of the business leaders," said the Rev. Perry Crouch at Brevard Kiwanis club last Thursday.

The Rev. Mr. Crouch, who concluded a series of revival services at Brevard Baptist church Sunday evening, was guest of the Rev. Yancey Elliott, and made an interesting 15-minute address along the lines of "believing in belief," and "acting on what one believes."

Oliver Art School Head Unable To Be Here For '39 Term

William Henry Oliver, who has taught art in Brevard public schools, and in private classes here for the past several years, stated Friday that he will not be able to re-open his school here. Mr. Oliver has been ill in Oteen hospital for several months, and while he had hoped to return to Brevard for opening of the school term, he said his condition would not permit proper supervision and teaching, and he would probably have to remain in the veteran infirmary for at least another month.

Mr. Oliver plans to sell his home here, and was here the last of the week storing his studio furnishings, and otherwise completing plans for closing his studio.
"I hate to leave Brevard," Mr. Oliver said to a Times reporter, "and I had hoped to make this my home, where I have many, many warm friends. However the fates have ruled otherwise, and while I will necessarily have to be away from the community most of the time, I shall spend my summers here."
Mr. Oliver had 37 pupils in his art class last year, and his work has been so well suited to the schools here that a place had been provided for his work in the school building.
Many of Mr. Oliver's pupils have been winners in district, state and national art contests, bringing honor to themselves, their teacher and to Brevard.

College Poultry Department, believes September an interesting month for poultrymen. Not only that, but it's a busy one. Soon pullets will be coming into production. This means plenty of work for the poultryman. Before these birds are brought in, the laying house should have a thorough cleaning and disinfecting. Then, too, sub-normal birds should be culled from the flock at this time. Don't change from growing mash to laying mash until the pullets are well in production. Holding them on growing mash until 25 percent production is reached is not a bad plan. Other suggestions which Professor Dearnstye offers are: Plant grazing crops to reduce the feed bill; secure good breeding males; practice rigid sanitation; keep records; and finally, don't compromise on balanced feeding.

SWINE
Many fall pigs are farrowed in September, so H. W. Taylor, extension swine specialist, advises growers to put the brood sow before she farrows in a field which has been cultivated since hogs ranged on it. Never let the pigs go to old hog lots or pens. Keep them on clean land until they weigh at least 100 pounds.
