Grocery Prices Are Continuing To Rise

Check-up by The Times of grocery prices Wednesday with those of ten days previous shows a decided up trend in most staples.

Meat in some instances up 25 per cent, sugar the same, and other staples following in the wake with from two to 15 per cent rise.

Merchants contacted say the wholesalers and jobbers have raised prices and they have to follow along—jobbers in turn (two who were contacted) say their supply source going up and they have to do the same.

In addition to the general trend upward caused by the flurry of excitement when the world war was announced the first day of the month, housewives in all sections of the country are said to have started buying heavily immediately in anticipation of a rise of foodstuffs, and this has caused the demand to be greater than usual.

Announcement was made in Washington Monday that a commission was being set up to combat rising prices, and the further announcement was also made that there is a surplus in most commodities, and that meats and fats production in the United States was materially up for this year, which should offset the cut in importation of these articles.

Charlie Wilson Rites Held Here Monday

Charlie Edgar Wilson, 81, died at Mission hospital, in Asheville last Saturday where he had been ill for the previous week.

The body was brought to Brevard Saturday and remained at the Osborne-Simpson Funeral home until Monday afternoon.

Funeral rites were held at the Osborne cemetery in Little River, with the Rev. Yancey C. Elliott, pastor of Brevard Baptist church, in charge. Pallbearers were old friends of the deceased—J. M. Allison, S. F. Allison, R. L. Gash, Judge D. L. English, C. K. Osborne, and Joe H. Pickelsimer.

Mr. Wilson was well known in this county, where he was born and raised, and later went into business for himself. At one time he was regarded as the leading merchant of the county.

The huge stone store which formerly stood at Grange, was erected by Mr. Wilson soon after he opened a store in that section of Little River. Later he sold his general business there and opened a mercantile establishment in Brevard where the Wheeler Silk Hosiery mill is now located on West Main street.

For several years the deceased operated here, and then sold out in Brevard and moved to Hendersonville where he built a business building for his large store there, and also a hotel which he operated for sometime.

Later he sold his business in Hendersonville and moved to Idaho where he was in business until three years ago, when he returned to his native Western North Carolina and made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Mary Wilson Shock, in Asheville.

Surviving are the daughter, and two half sisters, Mrs. Bessie King, and Mrs. Daisy Mackey of Brevard.

DEER DISEASE SAID TO BE DIMINISHING

Farmers Advised To Vaccinate Cattle Along Pisgah Forest Boundary

Federal authorities who were here last week would make no statement for publication in regard to the deer disease situation in Pisgah National Forest, but unofficial checkup shows that the death rate has materially lessened within the past few days.

People here are particularly interested in the matter of the annual deer hunt, and the officials see no reason why the hunt should not be held, and especially is this true if the epidemic is checked without serious damage to the herd in the forest.

Dr. J. E. Shillinger and Dr. D. R. Coburn of the U. S. Biological survey, discussed the situation with County Agent Glazener here last Saturday and advised the agent that vaccination of cattle against the disease, which has been identified as hemorrhagic septicaemia, was a good plan to follow.

The national biologist said he approved of the plan being carried out by the agents here of vaccinating cattle near the forest boundaries, and said that it was possible that infection could be carried from deer to cattle. Mr. Glazener said that many of the farmers in the sections adjoining the forest had already called on the county agents to help in the work.

The disease affects the bloodstreams of the animal, and soon causes death unless remedy is resorted to, and vaccination has been found to be the best method of combating the disease.

Forestry officials estimate that close to a hundred deer have died from the disease, a large number of these before it was definitely known what was affecting the herd.

CCC enrollees and forestry workers are cooperating in patrolling the forest and burying any dead deer, and in penning any they find sick. It is believed that the crest of the epidemic has been passed.

Two Drug Stores To Feature Named Items

Long's and Macfie's Drug stores are cooperating in "National Brands Weeks" during the period Sept. 15 to 25, and advertise in this week's paper that they can and do sell nationally advertised brands of drugs and products just as low as any druggists in the United States.

In a joint advertisement, the two Brevard drug stores list items and prices which may be checked against those of any city, the advertisement states.

Drug stores throughout the nation, as well as newspapers and radios, are cooperating in the special event in an effort to stress products of first line nature, and the two local stores are stressing the fact that best drug needs may be secured in Brevard at a price as low as any large city store features.
