

2 FOOTBALL TEAMS PLAY GAMES DURING THANKSGIVING WEEK

High School Meets Asheville Here Friday—College and Mars Hill on 30th

Two more football games are slated for Brevard this season—Friday afternoon of this week and Thanksgiving day.

The Brevard high squad will play Millard High of Asheville on the high school field Friday afternoon of this week for their last game of the year, and following their hard fight against Hendersonville last week, a good attendance is expected.

Big college game of the year will be Thursday of next week—Thanksgiving (the one we observe here) Day, when Coach Christenbury's boys tangle with Mars Hill.

Still feeling good over their win from Lees-McRae, the Brevard College eleven is working out every day, and promise to give the fans a treat here when they play their final conference tilt with their age-old enemy—Mars Hill.

Parent-Teacher Group Has Big Enrollment

One-hundred and thirty-nine members have been added to the enrollment of the Brevard Parent-Teacher association as result of the membership drive which has been in progress the past few weeks.

Miss Bill Alken's room won the prize for securing the largest number of members to the P.T.A. during the campaign.

The P.T.A. organization is reported to be getting well started for the year's work, under the leadership of Mrs. C. E. Buckner. Mrs. Ralph Ramsey was chairman of the membership drive.

Western Visitors Are Here For Brief Stay

Eulen Moore of Kemp, Texas, his mother Mrs. J. L. Moore, and Ransom and Ira D. Galloway—all visitors from the west, paid calls at The Times office last week.

Ransom Galloway was called home from Glouster, Ohio, on account of the illness of his father, Vance Galloway of Lake Toxaway section, who was injured last week while hauling corn. The elderly man is reported to be improving. Ira D. Galloway, former register of deeds for Transylvania county, and who also resides in Ohio, accompanied Ransom Galloway here.

Mrs. Moore was born in the Little River section of Transylvania county, and is visiting at the home of R. L. Capps, and members of the Merrill family.

All People Will Be Asked To Contribute To Hospital Fund By Thanksgiving Day

Thank Offering Opportunity Offered For People To Help Unfortunate

Effort will be made to offer every person in the county opportunity to contribute to the Transylvania Community Hospital fund by Thanksgiving. It was decided at a meeting of chairmen of the committees with Harry H. Straus, chairman of the finance committee, last Saturday morning.

Reports from various committee chairmen signified that interest in the move to build a new community hospital here was exceptionally good, and that several groups and individuals had already made contributions to the $25,000 fund which will be required to match like amount from the Duke Foundation.

The group decided that plans should be drawn immediately for the building, and that details of the building, and operation of the new hospital should be decided upon and given to the general public so that people who contribute to the fund will know for what and how their money will be spent.

Soliciting committees in the business section of Brevard reported that they were meeting with fine response, and several of the schools, as well as Sunday School classes, clubs, and fraternal organizations were expected to make reports of actual cash paid in during this week.

Under the Duke Foundation plan, all funds raised locally will be matched dollar for dollar for construction of building and equipping the community hospital, and in addition, one dollar per day will be paid by the foundation for each strictly charity or non-pay patient.

At close of the meeting Saturday, Chairman Straus summed up the drive for funds with the expression that "This is a chance for all people to have a real thankful Thanksgiving, by giving a thank offering to an institution which will not only serve the people who are making the community hospital possible, but will be a thank offering to be used for those who are less fortunate in all the years to come."

SPECIAL FIRE MAIN PROTECTS COLLEGE

Water Line Will Be Used For Fire Protection Only—No Taps Allowed

A six-inch water main now connects a steamer type hydrant on the Brevard College property with French Broad avenue mains, and gives the college buildings adequate-plus fire protection.

Installation of the main was completed by the water department last week, and the large hydrant was placed at the south-rear of the administration building, from which four lines of hose could be used in case of fire at any of the college buildings. In addition, a six-inch main also protects the eastern section of the property from North Broad street.

The French Broad-College main will be for fire use exclusively, and no general taps will be allowed on the main, leaving this water supply at all times ready for use in case of fire.

MACHINE SHOP BUSY DOING REPAIR JOBS

Sid Barnett's Plant Now Has Ultra-Modern Machines—Employs 11 People

One of the busy spots in Transylvania county is Sid Barnett's Machine Shop at Pisgah Forest where mechanics are turning out big jobs and little jobs on the improved machinery which has been added by the firm during the past year.

Repairs to heaters, trucks, tractors, 10-ton road machinery, gears for an out-of-date machine which is no longer on the market, putting a new piece on a machine that has given way under strain of load or long wear, cutting gears on a wheel that requires several men to lift—it is all in a day's work at Sid Barnett's.

New lathes, gear cutters, planing mills that whittle down steel and iron just like a fencer does in a wood shop, acetylene and electric welding, or cutting a two-inch steel plate—there are different jobs going on at all times all over the machine shop, with the 11 employes busy every day, and sometimes far into the night when a rush order for repairs to a machine comes in.

In business at Pisgah Forest for years, Sid's place has been the general repair shop for the county, and has grown from year to year until he has had to add new space for shop room and a new building recently for his stock of supplies.

Bolts, screws, nuts and washers, piping and pipe fittings, brass, copper, and even parts for plows and farm machinery, are all carried in the new stock rooms that have recently been added to the main building.

Stove bolts one inch long, or leg screws ten inches, they all have specific places in the Barnett stock room. Washers big enough for a youngster to use as wagon wheels, and then some small enough to use in the penny gum vending boxes.

A trip through the shop is an interesting two hours, and no visitor is allowed to get out until he has admired the new 300-amp portable electric Westinghouse welding machine which has been built at the shop, and which is to be carried to jobs in any section of Western Carolina where welding needs to be done on the job on heavy machinery that cannot be moved to the shop at Pisgah Forest.

Stacks of steel in the back of the shop, an acetylene generating plant, supplies for welding, brazing, and for making gears or drive shafts, and hundreds of other items that are all "dutch" to the average layman but have a specific place in the daily work of a machine shop that fixes this, that and the other for a complete business that enables Barnett's place to say "We repair anything."

Exposition of Light Will Be Seen Friday

A demonstration of the magic of light comparable to what was shown at the New York's World Fair is promised in the Exposition of Light to be held at Brevard College Auditorium—Friday evening, November 24th, at 7:45, according to J. M. Gaines, manager of the Duke Power Company who has arranged for Brevard College to have the show.

The general public in addition to the student body is invited to see the invisible made visible—to witness astounding magic without the usual tricks of the magician, and to enjoy the striking and beautiful effects with the latest types of light sources. The Colorama demonstrates how easily it is to paint with light. The very latest types of light sources such as the fluorescent—sodium—mercury vapor—black light are all used in the demonstrations.

The exhibit is one of the most complete ever assembled for showing in the south. More than 25,000 people have witnessed these scientific demonstrations during the past few months that the exhibit has been on the road. Brief demonstrations have been given at the Kiwanis and Lions Clubs here, and proved highly interesting and instructive.

The exposition will be in charge of Paul T. Tysinger lighting supervisor of the Duke Power Company. The exposition is made possible through the cooperation of the Illuminating Engineering Society—the General Electric Company and the lighting division of the Duke Power Company.

No charge will be made for viewing the demonstrations, and there will be no sales talks, or anything of a commercial nature at the meeting. People interested in the future of lighting, and in higher electric mechanics will enjoy the show.

FEDERAL MARKINGS ASSURED FOR 284

Highway From Laurens, S. C. To Waynesville Will Be Officially Marked US 276

Official notice has been received by the Brevard Chamber of Commerce that federal marking, US 276, will be continued on highway 284 through Brevard to Waynesville.

Federal markings are now on the highway from Laurens, S. C. to Brevard, but from Brevard to Waynesville the route is now designated as NC 284.

The Waynesville and Brevard Chambers of Commerce have been working on the project for the past two years, in connection with the North Carolina State highway department, and the official announcement states that the markings will be continued through to Waynesville, from where the NC 284 will continue as now to Newport, Tenn.

Commissioner E. L. McKee has notified the Brevard Chamber of Commerce that effort to have the parkway service take over that part of 284 which goes through and adjoins the Great Smoky Mountains National Park between Waynesville and the Tennessee line is receiving favorable consideration, and it is aim of Commissioner McKee to secure a paved route to the Tennessee line where a surfaced road already connects with Newport, and will when the North Carolina line is completed, give a hard-surfaced road that will tap traffic from Knoxville and Morristown.

Annual Pisgah Deer Hunt Expected To Start Monday

While complete plans for the annual deer hunt in Pisgah National Forest have not been officially sent to headquarters in this county, it is expected that the hunt will be started Monday of next week, and continue for four weeks.

Ranger Jack Fortin said Tuesday that he had not received definite instructions as to conducting the hunt, but that announcement had been made from the office of H. B. Bosworth, supervisor, that the hunt would be held.

Federal Judge I. M. Meekins ruled last Saturday that the federal government has exclusive jurisdiction over game in Pisgah National Forest, and granted the United States a permanent injunction restraining North Carolina from interfering with the national park service in supervision of game in the 97,000 acre tract.

The decision was rendered following a suit brought by the federal government against the game department of North Carolina, which group, the federal men alleged, had interfered with operation of the game preserve, and especially the shipping of live game from the Pisgah area to other national parks.

Agents of the forest service were arrested by state authorities when they attempted to ship deer out of the forest to another area, the state officers alleging in their warrant that the act of shipping game was a violation of the laws of the State of North Carolina.
