The Guilford College A Cappella Choir which appears in the Methodist church Saturday night at 8 o'clock presents the local program as one of the series in the annual spring tour of the noted southern choral group which is in its 12th season.

The choir is touring middle western centers this spring as the result of many requests from groups which have heard the well-trained organization.

Last year the choir carried its program to northern states from North Carolina to New England, in keeping with the desire to extend the influence of sacred music over a wide territory. For years the choir has toured many of the eastern states this side the Mississippi.

This spring the itinerary covers eight states from North Carolina to Illinois and includes concerts in Brevard, North Carolina, Friendsville, Tennessee, Williamsburg, Kentucky, Richmond, Carle and Marion, Indiana, Chicago (Stanton W. These programs are presented daily over a period of eight days, March 23 through March 31.

Membership of the choir shows an interesting geographical distribution of the personnel, which comes from 11 states and represents 15 religious faiths.

The choir is under the direction of Dr. Ezra H. F. Weis head of the music department of the college, whose excellent training, especially at Columbia and Northwestern universities, and his thorough knowledge and capable leadership, combine the talents of the 45 young voices. Dr. Weis was the third person in the history of Columbia university to complete requirements in his doctrine in the department of music.

The regular program consists of 17 numbers, with several special selections. Works are included from Bach Tschernokoff-Cain, Farrant, Nanino Bortninsky, and such American composers as David Hugh Jones, Carl F. Muller, P. C. Lutkin, and F. Melius Christiansen.

Progress of the choir this year has been notable in the extension of influence. Programs have already been presented to more than 10 audiences and far in excess of 5000 people. These programs have been presented to a wide range of audiences, including students and church groups, women's clubs, interracial organizations and radio.

"Ghost Train" Nets Hospital Fund $200

"The Ghost Train" netted in excess of $200 for the Community Hospital fund last Friday night, and at the same time gave an hour and a half of strict home-town entertainment.

Directed by William Jordan, the proceeds of the play were all left in the hospital fund treasury, and such articles of scenery and props as were necessarily bought for the production remain in the hands of the Little Theatre organization for further use.

Several new faces appeared in the cast of the "Ghost Train," along with former members of the revived Little Theatre group, and the combination of talent proved to be all that was expected, and more.

Alvin Moore, ill for several weeks, and unable to attend practice, was out in front with his portrayal of Richard Winthrop by reason of the fact that he carried on sans rehearsal. However, picking a star player was not attempted in the array of talent which performed so admirably.

Another play is being arranged for by the Little Theatre, and if attendance and enthusiasm at the Friday evening performance is a forecaster, the day of "outside direction" with its usual "take" of most of the cash proceeds, is over for all time.

Big Egg Contest Is Gaining Interest of People Over County

Hens that work overtime for indulgent owners will bring said owner one cash dollar per week in The Times big egg contest.

One young enthusiast is said to have already placed the pictures of an ostrich egg in front of the laying house for his biddies to look at, believing that the power of suggestion will enable his hens to produce larger eggs.

Will Price tried feeding his hens large balls of mash two years ago, and won a prize. However, this practice won't hold good, because Mr. Price failed to win last year.

Mrs. E. H. Mackey of Little River was winner of last week's dollar with an entry that weighed four and one-fourth ounces. Franklin Kerber who won the first week entered another egg Saturday but his entry only tipped the scales at three and one-eighth ounces.

Second high place for the week went to H. B. Lane of Wilson's Bridge section; third place was tied by entries made by William Jordan and Mrs. W. B. Daniels.

Egg entered by Mrs. Mackey to win the cash prize was laid by a white-leghorn hen. Mrs. Marcus Williams of the Camp Carolina section had second place entry—four ounce egg laid by a New Hampshire red; third place went to H. B. Lane of the Wilson Bridge section; and fourth place was tied by entries made by William Jordan and Mrs. W. B. Daniels.

Other entries were made in the following weight order—Burlin Owen, Lake Toxaway; W. R. Galloway of Balsam Grove, who won two weeks in succession last year; Bradley Wyatt, Brevard; LeRoy Davis, Brevard R-2; Franklin Kerber, Forest Hills; James G. Holden, Jr., Brevard; Mrs. Rufus Guffee, Brevard R-2; Mrs. Florence Orr, Brevard; Mrs. W. English, Horse Shoe.

One dollar is paid each week by The Times for the largest egg, so send the largest one you find in the hen nest each week, it may be the winner. . . . some weeks, three ounces is heavy enough to win.
