

SIMS WITHDRAWS FROM 2ND PRIMARY

Melvin Gillespie Democratic Nominee for Register of Deeds Under Ruling

Eck L. Sims makes announcement that he will not be a candidate for register of deeds in a second primary.

To the citizens and voters of Transylvania County:

When I filed my call for a second primary in the Register of Deeds Race, everybody expected a State-wide second primary in the race for Governor and Lieutenant Governor.

Since there will be no State-wide Primary Election, I do not feel that I should be the one to put the County to expense and trouble of holding a second Primary Election just for my contest.

I wish to thank all of my friends and all of the Democratic voters for the support they have given me in the past.

Respectfully,

ECK L. SIMS

P. S.—Ready to go to war.

War Preparation Brings Training Units To City

United States attitude toward the World War and its potential dangers to this country are being forcefully brought to attention of this community with possibility of establishing an aviation training unit and "army production camp" at Brevard College.

In addition to the fact that negotiations are now being carried on here looking toward establishment of these two units for army training, the Army's "Mobile Recruiting Station" will be in Brevard Friday and Saturday of this week, seeking recruits or volunteers for vacancies in the 4th Artillery, and the 8th Infantry.

Possibilities are that a 15-man or larger aviation school will be set up at Brevard College within the next few days, with Professor Grady Campbell in charge as instructor.

The boys will be housed in the college dormitory, and transported the 19 miles to Hendersonville for flight training, under the tentative plans now being considered.

Negotiations are also going forward between college officials and the National Defense Board for location of a 50-man unit for training of youths at Brevard College in production and preliminary army technique.

This group will be under supervision of the National Youth Administration, and will be along lines of training the young men in pushing production for army supplies and defense materials.

Official statement for publication could not be secured by The Times from the College or the federal authorities concerning the two proposed training units.

However, it is a known fact that contact has been made by officials here, and possibilities are that both units will be established before the end of June.

NYA officials made contacts here Monday for possible site to house 200 to 500 youths for training along lines of production in the national defense program during July and August.

The following official statement was received Wednesday morning by The Times from office of the Charlotte Recruiting District in regard to the coming of the mobile recruiting station to Brevard on Friday and Saturday:

"Sleep in the Deep" is title of the pageant which was written by Miss Dot Tolleson. The dramatic presentation will be given on and around beautiful Camp Carolina lake, and a general invitation is issued to the public to attend.

Restrictions will necessarily have to be placed on automobiles, Director Ray Eaton said Wednesday, due to the limited parking space, and all cars will be required to park out on the highway, and the visitors walk the 300 to 400 yards into camp.

The pageant will begin at twilight, about 8:15 o'clock, and will last for an hour and a half. Properties and lighting arrangements are already being built for the pageant which is expected to draw 5,000 people.

Several flotillas of boats and canoes will be used in the production, along with a hundred mermaids, ballet dancers on both water and land, diving, and swimming, and acrobatics, all tied in to make a complete story.

Extra highlight of the evening's entertainment will be diving by Katherine Rawls Thompson, world champion swimmer and diver. Mrs. Thompson's performance will also be tied in with the pageant, and this treat alone is expected to bring many people here from great distances.

Newt Perry, of Ocala, Fla., star of Grantland Rice's underwater movies, will also perform during the evening's program, adding further brilliant talent to the evening's entertainment.

Another session of the aquatic school will be held August 23 to September 2, in order to properly accommodate the large number of students who come here. This is the second year the school has operated two sessions.

Getting underway Tuesday morning the school has a student enrollment of 180, representing 15 states, and the District of Columbia. Classes will be continued through next Thursday.

NEW BAPTIST PASTOR TAKES CHARGE HERE

Rev. B. W. Thomason Will Have Charge of Morning Service at Church Sunday

The Rev. B. W. Thomason, new pastor of the Brevard Baptist church, arrived on Tuesday with his wife and three children, Jean, Benjamin and William. They are getting settled in their new home at the parsonage.

Mr. Thomason will preach his first sermon here as pastor Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, and again at the evening hour of worship at 8 o'clock.

The new pastor comes to Brevard from Edgefield, S. C., where he has served as pastor the past 10 years and eight months at the First Baptist church. As a token of esteem and appreciation for his years of efficient service at the Edgefield church, his congregation presented him and his family with a farewell present of a chest of Community silver and other valuable gifts. He was held in high esteem in the South Carolina city, by the church and the community, both in the capacity of pastor and citizen. Attesting to his popularity in Edgefield was the extensive entertainment accorded himself and family by members of the church and community two weeks before their departure for Brevard.

The pastor and his family were given a cordial welcome on their arrival in Brevard Tuesday afternoon by a committee at the parsonage to greet them. The pantry shelves had been filled with a variety of eatables, and ladies of the church had made preparations for serving them a hot supper.

PISGAH FAWN PLANT TO OPERATE AGAIN

Smaller Unit Will Be Maintained at Request of Chamber of Commerce

Fawn rearing station at the Pink Beds in Pisgah National Forest will be carried on this season, though in smaller way than the past two years, it has been announced by H. B. Bosworth, forest supervisor.

The auxiliary fawn rearing station will be located near the residence of John Y. Eller, which is opposite the highway from entrance to the original large fawn rearing unit.

Following is letter received Wednesday by the Chamber of Commerce which had requested Supervisor Bosworth to continue the fawn plant on at least small basis for benefit of summer visitors:

One of the most interesting features of game management, fawn rearing at the Pink Beds Fawn Plant in Pisgah National Forest, will be discontinued this year due to lack of funds. This does not mean that the more important studies conducted on feeding, diseases, and habits of the young deer will have to be discontinued because it is planned to operate on a small scale at the Pink Beds Warden Station where six or eight fawns will be placed in new portable wire runways for a comparison with the old system of semi-wild pastures.

All work on fawn rearing will be carried on by qualified game wardens who have spent years on wildlife studies. Fawn catching permits will not be issued this year as the few needed will be picked up by the wardens in their rounds of the forest.

It is known that a large number of visitors to the forest will be disappointed when they find the old Fawn Farm closed; however, they will find the new location handler and they can still witness the care and feeding of these interesting forest babies. Warden John Y. Eller at the Pink Beds Warden Station will again be in charge of the project.

The fawns are quite delicate when first brought in and they must be handled carefully. They are bottle fed whole evaporated milk warmed to body temperature four times daily: 6:00 a. m., 12:00 noon, 6:00 p. m., and midnight. Their physical condition is carefully checked each day to see that they are not sick. Highly nervous animals, the deer are easily frightened and visitors are cautioned against loud talking or sudden motion when approaching the cages.
