WAGES BE GIVEN TO THE HOSPITAL

President Straus Of Ecusta Works Out Plan For Contributing Wages

The finance committee of the Transylvania community hospital announced this week that a plan is being worked out in the various industrial plants of the county whereby each worker might subscribe one hour a week of his wages for twelve weeks to the hospital building fund.

The plan was originated by Harry H. Straus, president of the Ecusta Paper corporation, who announced that the some 1500 workers of the corporation were being granted the privilege of making their contribution to the hospital fund in that manner. He said he believed the plan would meet with general approval among workers in the county and would not prove a burden to anyone.

The finance committee adopted the plan and urged plant officials throughout the county to cooperate with the workers in making the system of donation possible. Employees in stores and business houses will be granted the same privilege, it was stated.

Outside canvass in the second campaign for the community hospital, with a goal of $15,000, was completed over a week ago, but in most instances the industrial drives are just now getting under way. Committee members expressed confidence that the goal would be easily reached when the industrial drives are completed.

URGE DESIGNATE CALDWELL STREET AS STATE HIGHWAY

Garbage Contract Is Awarded At Meeting Of Board Of Aldermen

The Transylvania county board of commissioners and the city board of aldermen in regular meeting this week both passed resolutions urging the State Highway and Public Works commission to designate Caldwell Street as U. S. Highway 64-A immediately and to post signs to that effect and maintain it as such.

The resolutions pointed out that by designating Caldwell Street, from its intersection with North Broad street to its intersection with the Rosman road or U. S. Highway 64 on the west, as an alternate route for U. S. 64 traffic a good deal of the traffic congestion over Broad street would be relieved.

The city board of aldermen pointed out in their resolution that the matter of the State taking over Caldwell street had been previously taken up with officials of the State Highway and Public Works commission during the year 1940, and that the officials had agreed to designate Caldwell street section mentioned above as a by-pass of U. S. 64, but that so far no action had been taken in that respect.

Copies of both resolutions were sent to L. B. Prince, chairman of the State Highway and Public Works commission.

In their meeting this week the city board also awarded a city garbage hauling contract to A. J. Williams at $218 per month. The contract calls for picking up trash and garbage in the business section of Brevard every morning and trash and garbage in the residential sections twice a week. Plans are now being worked out, it was announced, for business firms in the town to pay a pro-rata levy for the service of garbage and trash collection from their places of business. However, no definite figures had been arrived at on Wednesday.

In his dedicatory address Dr. Ormond paid high tribute to the rural churches of America and declared that they were a national institution. The announcement was favorably received by the board members, and immediately a motion was put on the floor to pass the resolution which called for operating and developing the college at its present location, in view of the fact that Brevard citizens were doing everything possible in behalf of the institution.

The chamber of commerce committee, headed by S. E. Varner, reported to the board on Tuesday that $40,000 had already been pledged in the five-day old campaign, $10,000 of which was promised by J.
