LIONS HEAR OSCAR REETHOF AT MEET

Former Resident in England Tells About War Time Conditions There

Speaking at the regular meeting of the Brevard Lions club last Thursday evening in the NYA Hut, Oscar Reethof, Czechoslovakian who recently came to Transylvania to take a position with the Transylvania Tanning company, told the members of the organization that the popular conception that the Germans or the English, or the Russians for that matter, would deliberately bomb hospitals and schools and other non-military objects is erroneous. He said the conception was arrived at due to the fact that in attempting to bomb railroad stations and other military objects bombs were often dropped on hospitals and schools by accident.

Mr. Reethof, who spent some time in England before coming to this country, described war-time conditions in that country. He said the English were not grumbling about the inconveniences which war had placed upon them and that they are standing up splendidly under the siege of warfare, which has been considerably lightened for them within the past few months during the Nazi-Russian conflict.

At the meeting honor was paid Robert F. Thomas, local attorney and past president of the Lions Club who left Monday for the army induction center at Fort Bragg. Numerous tokens were presented him, and the Club as a whole presented him with a useful gift.
