Paul P. Smathers has purchased the Cash and Carry super-market building located here near Brevard College from Lewis Osborne and R. M. Hawkins and will convert this building into a modern machine shop, it was announced this week.

On the first floor, he says, there will be display rooms and offices upstairs, as well as the engineering department. He also purchased the lot adjoining the property and has plans for developing it.

Sale of the property also involved a trade, with Messrs. Osborne and Hawkins buying Mr. Smathers' farm property, consisting of approximately 50 acres of land, a dwelling and other buildings. ### Commended Local Chapter On Work That Is Being Done Here Now

Paul B. Rains, of Nashville, southern area director of Save the Children Federation and Dr. Frank Foster, former president of Asheville College and now state SFC director, were in town Tuesday, visiting with members of the local welfare SCF chapter, and offering suggestions as to how the work of the chapter in this county could be expanded and improved.

They pointed out that the local organization is making progress and is doing fine work among the underprivileged children.

Besides supplying these needy children with clothes, the federation is interested in the hot lunch program, health service, recreation for children, books, garden seed, etc.

In 1942 the SCF spent $15,198 in this state on its various humanitarian programs.
