THEATRE PARTY GIVEN

By Vivian Smith

The Junior class of Brevard entertained the Seniors at a theatre party at the Co-Ed theatre Wednesday evening. Bob Brannon, president of the Junior class, was master of ceremonies.

The welcome to the seniors was given by Frances Walker and the response by Buddy Tankersley, president of the senior class. A patriotic musical program given by a chorus of Junior boys and girls was presented. The choruses wore red, white and blue costumes and the music was by Alfred Neumann. The program was divided into three acts; past, present, and future. In the past songs of World War I were sung by the chorus and a solo and two duets were sung. The solo was sung by Mary Ann Daniels; the song was "The Rose of No Man's Land." The two duets were by George Simpson and Carolyn Sluder; the songs were "Till We Meet Again" and "You Were A Tulip." The songs by the chorus were "Over There," "K-K-Katy," "There's A Long, Long Trail" and "Pack Up Your Troubles." The Junior superlatives were introduced by Bill Shamblin. The Senior class will be given by Ben Thomason. Then the present act was presented. An all girl chorus sang "White Cliffs of Dover" and an all boys chorus sang and acted out "This is The Army." Johnny Doughboy was sung by Jimmy Newbury and Doris Ahrens. Four couples sang and danced to "Don't Sit Under The Apple Tree," "I'm Getting Tired" was sung by Lorraine Redden and Jimmy Newbury. The chorus sang "Remember Pearl Harbor" and "When The Lights Go On Again." The Senior superlatives were introduced by Bill Shamblin. The class prophecy was given by Melba Siniard. The screen play was "Let's Have Fun," a musical comedy.

Everyone enjoyed the entire program. Light refreshments were served after the program.

PLAY IS PRESENTED

A capacity filled house attended the presentation of the Brevard high school senior class play, "Plane Crazy," a three-act comedy, at the school auditorium last Friday night.

Judging from the frequent outbursts of laughter and applause on the part of the audience, the play was enthusiastically received and was generally pronounced a success. The ease and naturalness of manner of all members of the cast were said to reflect credit upon the performers and their director. The three leading characters, Charles Cantrell, Jim Kanipe and Jean Hardin were especially commended for the portrayal of their respective roles, as were also Melba Siniard, the maid, and Bradley Wyatt, stunt flyer.

Other members of the cast were James Charles, Taylor Norton, Doris Wilson, Rosemary Dunlap, Nelle Gallamore, Hicks Scruggs and Barbara Bobst, and nine boys and girls of "the gang." Mrs. W. E. Turner, teacher of English, was director.

HERE AND THERE

At this time of the year all that is in the air is the senior play, the junior-senior, and last but not least, graduation. The junior-senior party, probably causes more gossip than any of the others.

Not only have there been plenty of dates flying around in thin air, but the practices of the choruses for the party have really helped some of these dates along.

Hank Mc asked Dottie W. to go to the party, but she hasn't said the word yet. We're all just wondering which way the wind will blow!

Lorraine R. still has all the hopes in the world, but the time is drawing near, and the one she is waiting for hasn't broken down yet.

A new romance has broken at B. H. S. It has been in the making for some time, and everyone believes that there is going to be something to it. This romance includes Bill Siniard, and that blonde siren, Lavonne O.

Betty Jo W.'s heart-throb, Rol and Mill, is back in town once more. Of course, when he left, she thought he wasn't coming back, and she strung a few other males along and now the poor girl finds herself in a predicament.

FLASH! Mrs. Josey (the former Miss Johnson) now receives two letters a day from her husband, but she wants three!

This is indeed the most mysterious place in the world. You can't find out anything you want to know. For instance, what did George S. say to Jeanette Mc. in the note he wrote her the other

In Merchant Marine

N. L. PONDER, JR., is taking special training in transportation and supplies in the merchant marine. After completion of this course in another week, he expects to be assigned to some ship. He is now at Sheephead Bay, Brooklyn, N. Y., and has been in service since December. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Ponder, of Penrose.

day in geometry class?

There have been lots of rumors around here, but it so happens to be unpatriotic to believe them. Even so Bob K. taking "Rosie" D. to the junior-senior does sound quite logical, doesn't it?

Johnny M. asked Stella G. for a date, but the conclusions we drew were that Stella just wanted to be begged for a while. Why don't you break down Stella, and give the boy a chance.

For some time now Jean V. has been very interested in Hawaii, especially Pearl Harbor. It could not have anything to do with a certain person there, could it?

QUESTION OF THE WEEK:

Who is that dashing, flirtatious, handsome Romeo Buddy T. taking to the party?

Judge: "Can't this case be settled out of court?"
 Kelly: "Sure. That's what we were trying to do, your honor, when the police interfered."

Agnes: "Does this lipstick come off easily?"
 Anita: "Not if you put up a fight!"

"Don't you find that a new baby brightens up a home?"
 "I do. We have the lights on all night now."

WARTIME HINTS FOR Brevard and Transylvania HOMEMAKERS

—By Aunt Sawyer

A Modern Version
 Jack Spratt can eat no lean,
 His wife eats only 'round the joints;
 But both for dried beans are keen,
 And thus they save their ration points.

Meatless Cookery
 Now that wartime meat rationing has actually started, it behooves every housewife to learn and pass along as many different ways as possible of using meat substitutes that will be palatable and at the same time have the same or equal nutritive value as meat. Many housewives complain that they do not know how to plan meals without meat. This, however, will not be found so difficult after a little experience and experimenting. It is well to remember that one meat substitute or dish high in protein is sufficient for one meal, and if eggs, milk, cheese (also rationed), or nuts are used in one or more dishes, a special meat substitute will not always be required. The heretofore lowly dried bean will hereafter come into its own and be used as a good substitute for meat on meatless days when the meat points have been exhausted for that designated period. Here's a good substitute recipe for macaroni and kidney beans.

Macaroni And Beans
 Cook 1 cup macaroni in 2 cups boiling salted water until soft. Drain and let little cold water run through it. Prepare a cream tomato sauce by melting 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in saucepan, stir in 2 tablespoons flour, pinch salt and three-fourths cup milk, and cook until mixture thickens, then add one-fourth cup strained tomato. Add this to the thoroughly strained macaroni and 2 cups cooked kidney beans. When heated, turn in vegetable dish and serve.

Two Magnets For Him
 A class was studying magnetism. Teacher: "Robert, how many natural magnets are there?"
 Student: "Two, sir."
 Teacher (surprised): "And will you please name them?"
 Student: "Blondes and brunettes, sir."

Household Hints
 To cover chicken with crumbs for frying, shake the pieces of chicken with the crumbs in a paper bag. To give roast duck, turkey or chicken a glossy, brown look, sprinkle with a pinch of sugar after the usual rubbing with butter or other fat, salt and pepper. Crust in a tea kettle can be softened by soaking for a few hours with a half-and-half mixture of cider vinegar and water, then bringing to a boil. Use a bottle brush for the spout, and remove the crust by rubbing with steel wool or stiff brush. When making toasted cheese sandwiches try sprinkling with sweet paprika before toasting, or if you like cinnamon sprinkled a little of that.

Wise Savings
 Failures reveal the secrets of success. Sincerity is best manners. A right example is the best legacy. Yes, money talks, usually just enough to say good-bye. Read all the medicine ads and you'll feel all the symptoms. Couples must pull together or they will pull apart.

Lost His Head
 Once while campaigning in the home state of his opponent, William Howard Taft found his speech constantly interrupted by heckling from the gallery. Finally a cabbage landed on the stage and came to rest at his feet. Pausing in his address, Mr. Taft peered at the vegetable intently and then remarked, "Ladies and gentlemen, I see that one of my adversaries has lost his head."
