SENSE AND NONSENSE
 Don't trouble trouble until trouble troubles you. This seems to be our motto for the week and also Mae and June's. I wonder if a certain movie was involved, and of course who else?

What's cooking? Oh, nothing more than a hike to Hogback Sunday. Nice going Festus, and don't let anything happen to Lela Mae. It surely does look as if the Banther-Owen romance is getting serious. Is that right R. M.?

Junior T. is quite sure he will succeed in getting a girl's picture. What about it Annie, did you give it to him or did he take it? June Lee is singing a different song since she went to town the other day. Could it be something about a "Banner"? I'll bet Mae could give us the answer.

Earl G. seems to like Bonnie W. better every day. Don't let such a beautiful romance hit the rocks!
 Madrie G. seemed terribly worried the other day when the fire signal sounded. She must have thought Leon was going to be burned.

Why so happy Edith? Could the boy you saw Monday have caused you so much joy?
 There must have been some cause for Nettie G. chasing R. M. all over study hall Friday afternoon. R. M. just doesn't like the idea of another boy writing to Nettie.
 Kathleen seemed mighty anxious to go to Brevard the other day. Was it because of some one who is leaving for the army or for some where else.
 Troy W. and Wanda G. seem to find it quite enchanting to discuss old times. Well who would not?

Have you noticed how Burlin M. believes in standing in with the family. The other day he was seen talking to Frances H. and her little sister.
 North Carolina was fourth in peanut production last year, with 402 million pounds. Georgia led with a billion pounds, and then came Alabama and Texas.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has estimated that the supply of protein feeds will be 16 percent greater in 1943, with an increase of 15 percent in livestock. The protein situation is "tight."

SELECTIVE SERVICE

at 44, where it stood last year until President Roosevelt lowered it in his executive order stopping voluntary enlistments in the armed forces. The order provides that men 38 through 44 who continue in non-deferable jobs will be drafted like younger men.

The announcement specifically said that the services will be asked to issue waivers whereby non-compliants, both 4-F's and men 38 through 44, may be taken into service for general or limited duty. Men previously deferred for physical disabilities would be drafted for limited duty.

The announcement meant that 4-F's and average men will be subject to the same qualifications for deferment, regardless of dependency, as those in the present inductionage bracket of 18 through 37.

Men whose dependents would suffer hardship or whose physical disability unfits them for military service or work other than the kind in which they are now engaged, however, will be exempted from strict application of the order, it was said.

A hint of a change in the statute of the average group had been given last month when draft boards were instructed to reclassify all 4-H men according to occupation and dependency. Boards were ordered to reclassify those engaged in agricultural occupations first and all others beginning May 1.

 Registrants in the 18-through-37 group had been given until April 1 to take steps toward getting out of designated non-deferable jobs. Those in the 38-through-44 category who are in the non-deferable occupations will, under the new order, have until May 1 to do the same thing. They will, however, be given a further 30-day period of grace provided they have registered with the U. S. employment service for a farm or other essential job and have notified their draft board of the registration. Otherwise, they will be classified as available for military service.

Other points in the announcement included:

1. Draft boards will cooperate with the agriculture department's state and county war boards in persuading 4-F's between 18 and 45 to return to dairy farm production if they are not in an activity essential to the war effort.

2. Draft boards will cooperate with war boards in getting men over 45 who have had dairy or general farming experience to go back to dairy farming, if they now are engaged in a non-essential activity.

3. The selective service system and the war department have agreed that no men in service who attained their 38th birthday prior

PHILLIP PRICE SAYS:

SINCERE THANKS TO ALL
 I have now been operating the news stand which the Brevard Lions club presented to me for four weeks. Many have been kind enough to ask how I was getting along. The purpose of this ad is to answer their inquiry.
 I want my friends to know that I am catching on to the business rapidly, that I am more content than I have ever been since I lost my sight and that trade is much better than I or the Lions expected. To all who have bought even the smallest item from me during these weeks I extend my deep and sincere thanks. Those who haven't are invited to call, even though it may be just a social visit.
