Marine Recruits Buy $4,472,077 Worth Of Bonds

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C., June 14 — (Special) — Although they soon will be fighting with bullets and bayonets, U. S. marine recruits here battled with their money, too, last month when they put nearly one-fourth of their pay into almost five million dollars worth of war bonds.

Col. Arthur C. Small, war bonds officer, revealed that embryo Leathernecks, here for recruit training before taking to the field of battle purchased $4,472,077.00 worth of bonds in slightly less than 30 days.

The average recruit, Col. Small said, is turning exactly 22.6 per cent of his pay back to the government in the form of war bond purchases.

CARRIER PIGEON IS VACATIONING IN COUNTY NOW

Bird Landed At Home Of Mr. and Mrs. James Staton At Rosman

A banded pigeon, apparently a bird of the carrier type, alighted at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Staton, in Rosman, on Sunday, June 6, and has taken up his abode there since that time, Mrs. Staton said. The pigeon is of variegated color, with white predominating.

Two bands were around the pigeon's leg—one a white metal band on which was inscribed "Aug. 42, WJC 671," and the other a green rubber band on which was "A-240."

Mrs. Staton said that she and her little boy fed the pigeon when it first arrived and that it appeared very hungry and thirsty. It was allowed an opportunity to fly away again, but refused to leave the place for any length of time and also refused any association with other birds in the neighborhood.

"The only interest I have in keeping the pigeon," Mrs. Staton said, "is that I want its owner to get it back, since it might have carried a war message of some sort."

Perhaps the bird is spending a vacation in "The Land of Waterfalls," some one aptly pointed out. However, Mrs. Staton is afraid the pigeon is in military service and that it will overstay its leave and be placed in the AWOL class.
