To Discuss Plans Here Tonight For Organizing Community Chest

MEETING OF ALL AGENCIES TO BE HELD CITY HALL

Lions Club Invites Representatives To Meet And Map Out A Program

ORGANIZATION NEEDED

Plans to organize a community chest for Brevard and Transylvania county will be discussed at a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at the city hall here of representatives of practically all organizations and clubs.

The Brevard Lions club has taken the lead in the movement to establish a community chest to replace the various individual drives that are conducted here at different times throughout the year.

This plan is in effect in most cities and larger towns in the state. The Times advocated the adoption of the community chest plan here and the Lions club approved the idea a short time ago and agreed to take the leadership in perfecting an organization.

The community chest program provides for consolidation of all charitable and other worthy drives into one campaign and thereby saves time of solicitors and contributors.

E. H. McMahan and John Ford were appointed by the Lions club to promote the movement and representatives from all organizations here have been asked to attend the meeting tonight.

JULY WAR BOND QUOTA $35,829

Public Urged To Cooperate. June Sales Exceeded High Quota

The county's war bond quota for July is $35,829.00, Chairman E. H. McMahan announces.

"This is slightly higher than the average monthly quota and I urge that you do not allow vacations to interfere with your bond-buying program," Mr. McMahan said.

True to its long established record, the county went over the top in June with sales totalling $46,687.50, or $1,462.50 in excess of quota.

The June quota was $30,150 and then the Treasury increased it by one-half in order to reach the annual goal.

June sales were as follows: Pisgah Forest post office, $21,450; Brevard Federal Savings and Loan, $13,387.50; Transylvania Trust company, $7,987.50; Brevard post office, $2,787.50; Transylvania Tanning company, $587.50 and Rosman post office, $487.50.

A meeting of the county war savings staff will be held at the courthouse here next Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

In addition to the public drunk cases, Bill Volrath, of Rosman, charged with stealing a 1943 license tab off a stored car was bound over to superior court, and James Dillon Hall was bound over on a charge of drunk driving.

Courthouse Filled To Capacity For Rally. Harry Straus In Charge

"Americans ought to be happy to work, since we have been in this war 18 months and yet no bombs have fallen on our country and no invader has set foot on our soil," Ralph Ramsey said at a "N. C. Day of Dedication" meeting held at the instance of Governor J. M. Broughton in the courthouse here Monday evening. The meeting was called and presided over by Harry H. Straus, who was appointed by the governor to head a movement in the county to cope with idleness.

After F. S. Best had read the Governor's proclamation, Mr. Straus expressed the belief that there were but few loafers in Transylvania county. Since there are more jobs than people to fill them, he said, there was no excuse for anyone to be unemployed. "Not to work today is to show an unpatriotic attitude," he said. Transylvania county, he stated, has no war industries but there are other essential activities, particularly farming, where additional labor could be used. "On this occasion," Mr. Straus said, "all of us should take a solemn pledge not to let the boys in the service down."

Organ Generator At Baptist Church Here Removed From Bldg

Officers are still puzzled by an unusual incident that occurred here last Saturday night at the First Baptist church and are continuing to make an extensive investigation to get at the bottom of it.

One or more unknown persons entered the basement of the church after choir practice last Saturday evening, removed the generator to the pipe organ and left it out on the lawn of the church. The removal was not discovered until Sunday morning just before Sunday school convened and caused a good deal of excitement.

Officers this week said their investigation disclosed that the generator can only be used in a limited number of places and thought that might have been the reason why it was left on the church lawn.

BANK DEPOSITS OVER A MILLION

Transylvania Trust Company Assets And Deposits Continue To Climb

For the first time a published statement of the Transylvania Trust company shows deposits in excess of a million dollars, the exact figure being $1,011,791.43, as of June 30, 1943. Deposits in the local institution have reached this level before, according to Ralph Duckworth, vice president and cashier but not at the time of a call.

Deposits in the bank a year ago were $754,596.44 and on Dec. 31, 1942, they amounted to $899,073.36.

A comparison of the current statement with that of a year ago shows that the bank has made substantial progress during that interval. Investments in U. S. Bonds rose from $72,553.69 to $283,084.94, indicating that a greatly increased ratio of the wealth of this county is going to finance the war and other government activities. Loans declined from $231,885.57 to $166,158.86, a drop of $65,726.71. Investment in state bonds and other listed bonds remained the same, but there was

President H. Straus Stressed The Importance Of Independence Day

Approximately 2,500 employees and members of their families attended the big annual Ecusta picnic at Camp Sapphire Monday and a large percentage of them participated in the many contests that were held, and enjoyed the free refreshments that were served.

The event, like the one last year, was an overwhelming success and it was not interrupted by rain. Strange as it might seem, rain fell in Brevard and Pisgah Forest, but not at Camp Sapphire.

In a brief address, President Harry Straus told the picnickers that he was not only delighted for them to work together, but also to play together and expressed the belief that this would promote a greater feeling of understanding and friendship.

Mr. Straus said that he hoped the picnic program would become an annual event.

Stressing the significance of Independence day, Mr. Straus declared that our nation is fighting to preserve the freedom and liberty that it won 167 years ago and urged every one on the home front to continue to do his or her part to win the war. He paid tribute to the company's men in service

COUNTY TO HAVE SAME TAX RATE THIS YEAR, 1.55

Budget Estimate Is Tentatively Adopted By County Commissioners

WILL MEET TODAY

During the fiscal year of 1943-44, the Transylvania county commissioners plan to save around $6000 in operating expenses over the past fiscal year and to apply the savings effected to payment of county bonded debts, as provided for in the refunding program, it was revealed Tuesday when the commissioners tentatively adopted an estimated budget submitted by Mrs. Dorothy Mitchell.

The new budget estimate, which is published elsewhere in this issue and which will not be finally adopted until the latter part of this month, calls for a savings of $3,839 in general operating expenses.

Because the commissioners plan to sell the county home property, they are setting up a saving of $1,598 in the "upkeep of county buildings and property fund." The appropriation for the welfare department has been cut $180.

The estimated school fund appropriation is $6,900 more than it was last year, but this is due, commissioners state, to the fact that the county has to make a debt service payment due the state school fund during the next twelve months and to the fact that the nine months term will cost a little more.

In accordance with provisions of the refunding program, the county's debt service requirements this year are $770 higher than during 1942-43.

The county's valuation remains the same, $6,000,000 and the budget estimate calls for the same tax rate, 1.55.

The total budget requirement this year is $151,310 and the estimated revenue to be available
