

The Times Is Highly Praised For Winning Second Place In Nation

W. K. Hoyt, of Winston-Salem, president of the North Carolina Press Association, writes:

"Congratulations to you and The Times on the fine recognition you received at recent NEA meeting. I was delighted that two members of the North Carolina Press Association received NEA awards."

"It appears that the N. C. Press Awards have possibly offered a stimulant which has been partially responsible for the winning of these national awards . . .

"In any event, I am delighted that you have won this national honor. Keep up the good work!"

John B. Harris, of Albemarle, vice president of the North Carolina Press Association, wrote:

"Allow me to extend congratulations on the NEA award. It seems to me that the judges certainly picked the right paper for the award."

J. Marvon Saunders, secretary of the General Alumni Association of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, writes:

"Congratulations upon the news I have about The Transylvania Times. It is indeed a splendid recognition—not only for the Andersons and also for Brevard and, in fact, all North Carolina . . . Here at the University we are proud of The Times."

Hugh Boyer, of Charlotte, manager of the Caskie Paper company, stated that he wanted to add "our congratulations to the many you have received on winning second place for general excellence from N. E. A. This is a real accomplishment—a salute to you, Sir, and more power."

Hugh McGilvar, publisher of The News-Times, Forest Grove, Oregon, stated, "We wish to congratulate you upon your rating in the general excellence in weeklies over 1,000."

Under the title of "Congratulations," the following editorial appeared in The Elkin Tribune, Elkin, which won first place in the NEA community service contest:

"The Transylvania Times, Ed M. Anderson, publisher, has been awarded second honor in the National Editorial Association's contest in the "General Excellence" division for weekly papers with circulation of more than one thousand. We congratulate the Times, and Mr. Anderson, along with the loyal, talented workers who have been putting their hearts and souls into the production of one of North Carolina's finest papers.

"General Excellence means just that. Excellent in every particular. And those of us who have been following Ed Anderson's papers, (he publishes several) particularly the Transylvania Times, are so sold on its excellence that we wouldn't know whether to use it on the score card or use the score card on it.

"Winning recognition for his papers is nothing new for Ed Anderson and his charming wife (who we have reason to know has as much to do with their excellence as Ed himself). His papers have been placed up front by the North Carolina Press Association, and deservedly so. But we've a notion that these evidences of the approval of his fellow journalists are only incidental. The chief joy of the Andersons comes from the knowledge that they are serving satisfactorily the people of their communities. And that they are.

"We congratulate The Times on the honor that has come to it. But we reserve our heartier congratulations for its family of readers who are so fortunate in being served so well—so generally excellent."

The following editorial appeared in The Mocksville Enterprise, of which O. C. McQuage is editor:

"It is with much genuine pleasure that we congratulate two of our fellow North Carolina editors on the signal honors they won last week at Cincinnati, Ohio, at the 57th annual meeting of the National Editorial Association.

"Harvey F. Laffoon, editor and publisher of the Elkin Tribune, won first prize for the best community service and Ed M. Anderson, editor and publisher of the Transylvania Times at Brevard, won second place in general excellence.

"It is notable that these contests embrace all of the weekly newspapers of the United States who are members of the association, about 5,000, including smaller dailies. It is national competition in the keenest sense and this year there were about 400 entries from the various states.

"This is the first time that a North Carolina weekly newspaper has copped a first prize and reflects deserved national recognition for the brilliant work Mr. Laffoon did for more than a year in securing the opening of the lime mine in Yadkin county by the state. It shows, moreover, that the newspaper in the small town is the only agency that could accomplish such results and reminds us again of the good that can be accomplished in a community through the power and influence of the press.

"The high opinion held by the judges of Mr. Laffoon's entry, which won the North Carolina Press Association first place last year, may be seen by the fact that only third place went to a weekly in Columbia, Mississippi, which fostered a farm edition that attracted nationwide attention, including a visit by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard.

"In winning second place for general excellence, Mr. Anderson, who publishes five weeklies, showed that the North Carolina weekly press can compete successfully

M. B. Waters and son, Jim, and son-in-law, Van Whitmire, left yesterday to build a railroad in Tennessee, with headquarters at Rogersville. The work may last until August, although they expect to finish their contract before that date.

Brick for W. M. Henry's new cottage on South Caldwell Street is now on the lot ready for the builders. The brick was shipped from Fletcher and the freight cost was $1.30 per thousand. This freight might be saved by making our brick at home—why not have a brick plant and use it?

Misses Pearl and Pink Gash, of Etowah, are visiting Mrs. R. W. Norton this week.

Mrs. Melinda Garren is very ill at her home near Selica, and little hope is entertained for her recovery.

T. D. English went as a delegate to the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows at Goldsboro this week.

Baked redhorse! Well, yes we had dinner a few days since with LeRoy Ball and made the discovery that baked fish is one of the accomplishments of Mrs. Ball. We propose hereafter to fish more strenuously than heretofore—that is, if we can be assured that Mrs. Ball will do the cooking act.

D. L. English, Esq. went to Asheville on Monday to attend federal court.

It is seldom that one has the pleasure of listening to a better all-around preacher than is Rev. E. Allison, who is holding a series with the best. General excellence includes all phases of the paper—news, editorials, advertising, neatness of print, cleverness of make-up. Many newspapermen regard general excellence as the most-desired of all newspaper awards. Mr. Anderson won similar second place a number of years ago when he was at Reidsville and Miss Beatrice Cobb also won a second place with her Morganton Herald several years ago.

"Our hats are off to you, Brother Laffoon and Brother Anderson, two good newspapermen who do a swell job in your chosen profession!"

For fruit stains in wash clothing, stretch garment across a large saucepan or other container, and pour boiling water through the stain. For a stubborn or old stain, boil the garment in a solution made of one tablespoon each of soap chips and washing soda to one quart of water. After boiling, wash and rinse as usual.

of meetings at the Baptist church in our town. His sermons are all good and practical, but the one to which it was a pleasure to listen on Sunday was a real gem. He preached on the love of Christ, and the subject was ably and forcibly handled. He does not lack words and seems to be brim full of the spirit. He will accomplish lasting good.

Thursday night will be long remembered by Frank L. DeVane, J. W. McMinn, T. T. Loftis, W. H. Harris, Dr. Hunt, Dr. E. S. English and W. E. Brees, as on that night they were guests of Dr. Allison at Elk Lodge. The doctor had prepared a banquet of turtle soup, broiled mountain trout, berbecued venison, Brunswick stew and many other delicacies, and taken in connection with his gracious hospitality it was as enjoyable an occasion as could be desired.

Workmen have commenced removing the old brick building on the lot recently purchased by Dunn's Rock Building company. This has long been an eyesore to patrons of the Aethelwold hotel as well as to home people, and its removal will be welcomed by all.

A game of ten pins, after the meeting of the county commissioners last Monday, interested quite a crowd of on-lookers. Chairman Brooks and G. W. Wilson, representing the thin and thick elements of humanity, were the center of attraction. We haven't learned yet which party won the game.

Miller Finishes Course At Clemson

CLEMSON, S. C., July 2—Five North Carolina boys graduated from the Army Air Force 37th College Training Detachment at Clemson College, the Agricultural and Mechanical College of South Carolina, today and now move on to the AAF Southeast Training Center at Nashville, Tennessee, for classification as pilots, bombardiers and navigators.

At Clemson these men have completed a strenuous training program that included academic courses in English, history, geography, math, physics, physical training and ten hours of flight instruction. They will be in Nashville from ten days to three weeks for classification purposes, and proceed through the regular Air Force training schedule of Pre-Flight School, Primary Training, and Basic and Advanced Training.

Today's graduates are: Asa C. Edwards, Jr., Fifth St., Tabor City; Albert W. Dunn, 725 Burch Ave., Durham; Lawrence McF. Duncan, 94 Starnes Ave., Asheville; Brode R. Duke, Jr., Jackson; and Napoleon A. Miller, Jr., 400 Broad St., Brevard.

A shy young man once said to a young lady: "I wish dear, that we were on such terms of intimacy that you would call me by my first name."

"Oh," she replied, "your last name is good enough for me."
