and briefly outlined the health and welfare program that is being carried on in the county at this time.

"From time to time we need additional money that is not earmarked to take care of health and welfare needs," Mrs. Patton said.

"In the past when conditions of this kind arose, I have gone to a number of local citizens with specific requests and they have contributed generously, but I know this is a nuisance to them and that it is not the best way to handle the situation," she explained.

"I think the Community Chest proposal would be fine and I would like to see it carried out," she said.

Financial campaigns that may be merged into one drive include Boy and Girl Scouts, Red Cross roll call, P-T-A needs, T. B. campaigns, Salvation Army, etc. A committee will be appointed to make a study of budget requirements.

Under the constitution and by-laws adopted at the meeting Tuesday night, all agencies that participate in the Chest will agree not to make other solicitation during the year among contributors to the Chest.

Mrs. Patton stated that the county welfare department now has 40 families on the aid to dependent children program, 200 on the old age assistance program, 10 aid to the blind, 12 to 18 that get general relief and 10 families that receive other financial assistance, 25 crippled children and a number of tuberculosis cases.

The federal state and county governments are doing all they can, but there are still a number of families who need assistance and we do not have such assistance to give, Mrs. Patton stated.

In the future, all persons who contribute money or volunteer service will be members of the Community Chest and all institutions that contribute will be members.

Charter members will be representatives of all organizations and churches who have co-operated in the formation of the Chest and all other organizations and churches are eligible to become members.

The Chest will not have any paid workers.

Organization of the Community Chest was proposed editorially by this newspaper a short time ago and the Lions club here sponsored the movement, with Ed McManahan as chairman.

condition, except it needs a gutter on the outside. The jail is clean, inmates well fed and well cared for.

"We recommend that the toilets in the upstairs department of the courthouse be so fixed that water will be carried to them by pipe line so that they may be flushed and eliminate what is now an unhealthy, unsanitary and unsightly condition"

"The entire jury body visited the men's toilet in the rear of the courthouse and found it to be one of the most unsightly and offensive places in the entire county. We recommend that this toilet be closed to the public and not be reopened until such time as proper replacements have been made to take care of the sewage disposal and eliminate the terrible stench which premeates the entire court building from this unsanitary toilet. We believe that public toilet is necessary for the convenience of the public, but we also believe that the present equipment is beyond repair and recommend that modern facilities be provided. If these recommendations relative to toilets both upstairs and downstairs are not carried out immediately, we fear that an epidemic of typhoid fever may result from this source."

Mrs. Pansy Parker, County's First Lady Mail Carrier, Is Busy Person

Mrs. Pansy Parker, of Wolf Mountain, should be an inspiration for the Transylvania "work or fight" committee recently appointed by the governor, and too she should be a model for some of the "don't care" people who seemingly don't give a whoop whether Uncle Sam and his children win the war or not.

Mrs. Parker, wife of Aaron Parker, who is a logger and woodsman by trade, looks after her husband and three children in their attractive home at Wolf Mountain, and in addition carries the mail six round trips each week from Wolf Mountain to Balsam Grove, a distance of 12 miles.

Transylvania has many women doing their part and more in the effort to keep as many men available for the fighting forces as possible, but to Mrs. Parker goes the distinction of being the first lady mail carrier, and patrons along the star route over which she delivers mail each day are highly pleased with the type of service Mrs. Parker gives.

Work to Mrs. Parker is nothing new. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Luther Owen, of Wolf Mountain, and the family is noted for being thrifty and good

Tighten Regulations On Gas Supplements

Unless an occupational need is considerably changed, the expiration date is now the earliest date at which B and C ration supplements can be renewed, it was learned today from the rationing board.

Persons who run out of coupons prior to the date of the expiration are in danger of going without gasoline.

HOLDERS of these coupons may continue using stamps until they are exhausted. They are not required to apply for renewal of their ration at the date specified on the cover of the coupon cover.

neighbors. Mrs. Parker was taught to work when she was a youngster, and she told a Times reporter this week that she was happiest when busy.

Mrs. Parker said she started the 12-mile (24 round trip) daily delivery on June 21, and while neighbors and friends were adamant in their assertion that she would be tired of the job in a week, she purchased a car this week for the mail route, and says she intends to stick with her work.
