BOARD ORDERS ACTION TO CURB MENACE OF DOGS

Emergency Said To Exist By Brevard Board In Ordinance Adopted

To meet what was described as an "emergency," the board of aldermen at their regular meeting Monday night adopted an ordinance providing that during this month and next the owners of all dogs in Brevard shall keep them confined, unless they have been vaccinated against rabies and are muzzled. A fine of not exceeding $50 is prescribed for lack of compliance with the ordinance.

Alex Kizer, city clerk, also called attention to another ordinance, now in effect, which provides that dogs found running at large on which taxes have not been paid shall be impounded, kept for 48 hours and, if not reclaimed, killed. Owners may repurchase such animals by paying taxes due, plus costs of impounding and agreeing to have them vaccinated as required by law.

"We wish to inform all dog owners that this ordinance will be rigorously enforced. We do not wish to destroy anyone's pet but we cannot, in view of the peril to our children, permit dogs to roam at will over the town. Enforcement will begin at once and will be continued without abatement until this menace is removed," Mr. Kizer asserted.

The people of the town in addition to this publicity, are also being notified of the board's action by means of circulars placed in their homes.

The board also ordered that all local people who have not paid their privilege license tax for the past year be brought before the mayor for trial, probably next Monday night. Warrants will be served the latter part of this week on about a dozen people, who have not paid this tax, Mr. Kizer stated.
