Transylvania and Brevard HOMEMAKERS

By AUNT SAWYER

Mrs. Allison Great Canner
Mrs. E. Carl Allison, of Brevard, Route 1, has done a really great job at canning this summer, and thinks she has enough and to spare for her family all through the winter. Mrs. Allison canned this summer 750 quarts, of which 550 are vegetables and 200 fruits, and plans to can 30 or 40 jars of meats a little later on. In addition to her canning, Mrs. Allison has put in her storage room 30 bushels of sweet and Irish potatoes and between 75 and 100 bushels of cabbage, and she sold around $44.00 worth of produce from her garden and farm. The Allison farm comprises 85 acres, the majority of which is under cultivation. All of the vegetables canned were grown on the Allison place and some of the fruit.

Aid to Busy Housewives

Busy housewives will find it a great help in their beauty aids and personal charm if they devise certain short cuts and a schedule of work when about their household duties. In other words, if you are going to preserve your all-important pleasant temper and find time for minimum personal care, you will simply have to observe a certain system and short cuts around the house. The best way to do that is to keep in a convenient place a notebook and pencil to write down your menus and shopping lists. If you keep your menus in the book, you have them handy for repetition at another meal when too rushed to plan something new. But don't allow your notebook and pencil to speed you up too much and overload your schedule. Do count in time for essential personal care and relaxation.
