INTERESTING CHAPEL PROGRAM

By Pat Griswold
 Mrs. Trantham's ninth grade boys entertained the student body with a delightfully amusing chapel program at the weekly period last Wednesday. A comic skit, "Ten-fifteen", was presented by Ray Cheek, a station agent, and Dorothy Osborne, a fussy old woman. "The Tragedy," a very dramatic piece, was given by Allan Eberle, Dorothy Osborne and Lawrence Brown.

The last thing on the program was "The Dummy," a one-act play that really made a hit with the students. The characters were Mary Ann Ramsey, A. B. Matheson, Lawrence Brown and William Pooser.

GLEE CLUB COSTUMES SELECTED

By Lucretia Campbell
 A meeting of the girls' glee club, Les Chanteurs, was held last week in Mrs. Reschke's room for the purpose of deciding on costumes for the girls.

Several good suggestions were offered, but after much discussing it was decided by the girls that they should wear navy blue skirts and white blouses. They will have a monogram, B. H. S., in blue on the blouse.

ANNUAL STAFF APPOINTED

By Vivian Smith
 Mrs. W. E. Turner, faculty adviser for the annual, has announceed the staff for the annual. The following students are members of the staff: Editor-in-chief, Vivian Smith; business manager, Julian Glazener; picture editor, Bill Shamblin; advertising editor, Bob Norwood; assistant advertising editor, John Ford; art editor, Spalding McIntosh; literary editor, Pat Griswold; humor editor, Jimmy Newbury; circulation manager, Gene Franklin; assistant circulation managers, Marguerite Scruggs, Douglas Brown, Carl Barton and Carolyn Sluder; and the student adviser, Frances Walker.

There will be a contest for the name of the annual and the winner will be presented with a prize. There will also be a contest for informal snapshots which will be put in the annual. Everyone in the student body will be eligible for these contests. Further information about these contests will be announced later.

HERE AND THERE

By Dot
 Johnny S. seems to look forward to the five minute periods between classes. Could it be those conversations he carries on with a senior student council member? They must be interesting!

It's rumored that a certain "freshie" is interested in Spalding Mc. How about this, Ruth A? Has it been confirmed?

All the seniors are curious to know what Marguerite Mc. and Sue R. found so amusing about Bob N. in economics class.

If you haven't already guessed who Polly H.'s "latest" is, I'll give you a gentle hint. His first name is Bruce.

Paul P. wasn't having a bad time when he was so surrounded by girls at noon one day recently. How do you rate, Paul?

Our well known junior Romeo seems to be making quite a bit of progress with Mary Ann R. Eh, William?

We girls surely do envy Frances G! Getting all those letters. (nearly from a certain sailor). Can't you let us in on your technique, M. P.?

Everybody's wondering if Marie T. still "holds the torch" for Charlie H. It's a possibility!!! Just ask Ray Cheek and Frances Loftis.

What's all this about your romance at grammar school? Come on, Sam, out with it! Betty Jo W. and Jean V. are simply dying to know.

Well, that's all I have got written in my little black book, but I'll promise you there'll be some more by next week. So long!

ALL COUNTIES IN REGION TEN EXCEED QUOTAS

Bonds Bought in Third War Loan Drive Average $30 Per Person.

The people of North Carolina Region 10, comprising Transylvania and 14 other counties, bought $10,556,504 in war bonds during the Third War Loan drive, overbuying the region's quota by more than three million dollars, figures compiled and made public by J. Gerald Cowan, regional chairman of the War Finance committee, revealed.

The region as a whole was 43 per cent over its quota, the final and official figures show. Each of the 15 counties also went far past its assigned goal, the averages ranging from 13 to 334 per cent.

The region's quota was $7,363,000. The sales amounted to $10,556,504, or $3,193,504 in excess of the quota.

The total purchases represent an average of $30 each for each of the approximately 350,000 men, women, and children in the 15-county area.

Buncombe county, with nearly a third of the population of the region, naturally led in sales, $4,863,671, or $1,310,671 over its quota, an excess of 37 per cent. Henderson county, with sales totaling $1,325,978, was second in total sales. The figure was $716,978, or 118 per cent, over the goal assigned that county. Haywood county, where the sales reached $1,088,722, stood in third place. That county surpassed its quota by $116,722, or 13 per cent.

Graham county topped the 15 counties in the percentage by which it oversubscribed its quota. It had a quota of $16,000, and actually sold $69,426, or 334 per cent over the amount assigned it. Clay county, which went over its quota by 159 per cent, stood in second place in this regard, and Henderson county, which was 118 per cent over its goal, ranked third.

Transylvania county oversubscribed its quota of $432,000 by $106,900.

Repairs Made On Rosman Methodist Charge Parsonage

Repairs to the extent of more than three hundred dollars have recently been completed on the Methodist parsonage in Rosman. Repair items include a new roof, new sills under the upper side of the house, two coats of paint outside, new back porch, new front steps and other minor improvements.

One hundred dollars of the total cost was secured from the Board of Missions of the Western North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Church by the Superintendent of the Asheville district, Dr. M. T. Smathers. The pastor of the Rosman circuit, Rev. J. R. Bowman, and the charge lay leader, J. E. White, of Rosman, raised the remainder by an every-member canvass. The repair work was done by C. R. Sharp, Brevard contractor.

In addition to the improvements on the parsonage, the Rosman Methodist Church annex is being painted and remodeled by the Gloucester Lumber Company in preparation for monthly clinics to be held in the annex for babies and expectant mothers, under the supervision of Mrs. Jessie Alexander Lollis, Transylvania county health nurse.

CEDAR MTN. NEWS

By MRS. MARY C. THOMASON

The work of the school here is progressing rapidly this year under the direction of Miss Amy Calhoun, of West Asheville, and Mrs. Mary C. Thomason, of Greenville, S. C. Through the aid of Mrs. Goode Loftis, president of the Brevard P. T. A., five coats have been secured for the use of the primary grades of the school; also through the courtesy of the town authorities a Red Cross first aid kit has been secured for the use of the school in the event of an emergency illness.

The Cedar Mountain school children have bought $100 worth of war bonds and stamps this month. At the war bond rally held at the school, under the direction of E. H. McMahan, $1,675 was realized from the community and school in bonds and stamps.

Application for the school lunch program has been sent to Raleigh to be approved, and as soon as it is returned, the teachers, with the co-operation of the mothers, plan to serve the children hot lunches. The lunch program has proved very beneficial to the children in the past, but this year, owing to war restrictions, the set-up will be somewhat different from that of previous years.

The new Cedar Mountain post office, now under construction, will soon be ready for occupancy by the postmistress, Mrs. Bunyan Robinson.

Mrs. Mattie Bishop is improving from a serious illness. Miss Annabel Teague, county home demonstration agent, visited the 4-H club girls at the school this week. Miss Teague also conducted an interesting meeting of the home demonstration club, which Mrs. Boyce Bishop entertained.

GETS PLACE IN ORCHESTRA

John Paul Jones, son of Supt. and Mrs. J. B. Jones, who is attending midshipmen's school at Notre Dame, was chosen recently as a result of try-outs to play the piano in the service men's orchestra at that place. He has been at Notre Dame about two weeks taking a course that will qualify him for a commission in the navy.

Enon Patrons Make Plea to County Board

The county board of education met on Wednesday of last week to consider a request from a group of patrons of Enon school district to prohibit children from that district from attending Pisgah Forest school, a step which they contended was necessary to maintain the daily attendance in Enon school and justify keeping three teachers.

The board decided to refuse the children involved transportation on the school buses, but agreed they could not forbid them from attending Pisgah Forest school if their parents were able to take or send them, Supt. J. B. Jones said yesterday. The board also agreed, he stated, to write letters to these parents urging that they send their children to Enon school.
