one of them have contributed 100 per cent. "Of the ones whom we have contacted so far, there are only five firms in which the employees and managers have not given 100 per cent."

Block leaders in Brevard are expected to continue their canvass until every home in the town has been contacted. In the county, members of home demonstration clubs are said to be working hard and initial reports from them are anticipated before the end of the week.

Solicitation in the industrial plants is well underway and should be finished within the next few days, a check-up yesterday revealed.

Mail in Contributions All persons in the county who have not been contacted are urged to send or mail their contributions to the co-chairmen or to The Transylvania Times.

"Don't wait for someone to see you; we need a lot more money and the co-operation from every person in the county is needed to put this important campaign over the top," Messrs. Jerome and Douglas declared.

All out-of-county readers of The Times are also invited to make contributions by mail. List of 100 Per Cent The following firms and offices

Plans For A Big Rabbit Show Next Jan. Being Made

Plans are being made for a rabbit show, sponsored by the North Carolina Rabbit Breeders, which will be held in Charlotte early in January, it was announced by R. W. Pace, licensed registrar for the American Rabbit and Cavy Breeders association. It is urged that all rabbit breeders in Transylvania county and Western Carolina begin now conditioning their rabbits for this exhibition, and Mr. Pace said he would be glad to assist any one in selecting their best specimens for the show.

EXTENSIVE PLANS

Girl Scout program," she explained. "While this program remains basically the same as always, since Pearl Harbor its application has been tremendously broadened to meet war conditions." Mrs. Pooser pointed out that during the past year membership in Girl Scouts in the nation has reached a new high record of 807,704, including both girls and adults. There are three troops in Bre-

ENJOYABLE PARTY

Credit for the impressive lighting arrangement and the sound effects which added so much to the enjoyment of the program is due to Wayne Conn, who in this way has contributed materially to previous parties. Square dancing was enjoyed both before and after the singing. The Ecusta string band furnished the music. Quite a few of the guests came dressed in costume and several of those present elected to play bridge instead of dancing.
