

HE Can't Do Any More- But Here's How YOU Can!

Join The WAC!

We have only just begun to win this war, but already many young soldiers from your own State have died on the field of battle. What these men have sacrificed fills you with a deep indignation that never quite leaves you—day or night. You've wanted to do something about it—and there is something you can do—must do!

The War Department has issued a call to every State in the union for more WACs. The need is so urgent—that your State must not fail to meet its quota. And it won't fail—if you, and scores of your patriotic State sisters—join the WAC NOW. Here is your opportunity to help in a way that's real and vital. Your chance to take over an essential Army job—to release a soldier for combat training—and help speed victory. Do it now! Make your State and your country proud of you.

More WACs.....or More FATHERS--

Says the government. By enlisting in the WAC you will not only be releasing a soldier for combat duty, but will help obviate the necessity of doubling the number of fathers drafted for military service next year. A statement has recently been released from Washington to the effect that unless more WACs are enlisted soon, the quota of married men with children will be doubled.

Any Wednesday At Patterson's*

Cpl. Nomi Jaramillo of Los Angeles, Calif., age 23, before entering the service January 8, 1943, was assistant underwear buyer for the Marathon Underwear Corp. in Los Angeles. She was selected for recruiting duty and reported to Fort Bragg, N. C., in March of this year. On Sept. 7, she was transferred to the U. S. Army Recruiting Station, P. O. Bldg. Asheville, N. C.

If you are ineligible for the WACs because of age, health or family responsibilities—take over the job of an eligible woman and free her to join the WAC.
