A Record Crowd Attended Galloway Funeral Last Sun.

Mrs. Alfred Galloway, 21, died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Stewart, near Rosman last Thursday at 1 o'clock, following a brief illness of pneumonia.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Zion Baptist church. The Rev. M. E. Summey officiated. Burial was in the family cemetery.

Mrs. Galloway before her marriage five years ago was Miss Miriam Stewart. She was a member of Zion Baptist church, a Sunday school teacher, a member of Rosman W. O. W. circle and was employed at the Ecusta Paper corporation. One of the largest crowds in the history of the church attended the funeral. The great number of flowers was a tribute of the esteem in which she was held.

Surviving relatives are the husband; parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Stewart; and one sister, Miss Mariah Stewart, of Ypsilanti, Mich.

Pallbearers were Bill Erwin, Dewey Burton, Frank Duckworth, Frank McCall, Jr., Harry Morgan, Jack Fisher, A. M. Paxton, Jr., and Arthur Dishman.

Flower girls were Helen Mc-

Call, Helen Duckworth, Rosalee Ayers, Mrs. Beulah Galloway, Mrs. Ella Mae Sigmon, Mrs. Mae Collins, Mrs. Verda Nicholson, Edna Mae Willis, Dora Mae Stewart and Ester Galloway. Members of the W. O. W. and W. O. W. circle had charge of the services at the grave. Special music was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Harmon.

Osborne-Simpson, of Brevard, were the undertakers in charge.

MITCHELL-BARTON

Miss Faye Mitchell and Ulus Barton, Jr., were married at Pickens January 3rd. Probate Judge E. A. Lewis performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Barton is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Mitchell and the late Will Mitchell, of Rosman. Mr. Barton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ulus Barton, of Selma.

At the present the couple are residing at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Smathers Makes A Unique Attachment For Sawing Wood

The Smathers Mfg. company recently installed on a tractor belonging to C. W. Davis an original attachment that makes it possible to reach and saw up trees with greater rapidity and ease. Two steel beams were attached to the frame of the tractor extending to the front. On these a shaft was mounted with a 30-inch saw on one end and a pulley on the other. The latter is driven by the engine of the tractor. In front of this is a carriage mounted on rollers. On this carriage logs and limbs are placed and moved against the saw. Mr. Smathers explained that by having the saw attached to the tractor, the time usually required to move a saw and adjust it would be saved and the tractor could be driven to any spot desired.

The design for this device was executed by Mr. Smathers, who said that the cost was very nominal.

HITLER'S AIM TO MAKE SERFS OF ALL MANKIND

Prof. M. G. Pangle Heard At Regular Meeting Of Lions Club

"Goober Grabblers" was the subject of a speech, urging the purchase of war bonds, made by Prof. M. G. Pangle at the regular meeting of the Lions club at the Bryant house last Thursday evening. Lion Anthony Trantham was in charge of the program and presented the speaker.

The theme of Prof. Pangle's speech was exploitation, which he related to his topic by saying that often people who plant goobers, or peanuts, have them stolen by others.

From antiquity, Prof. Pangle said, there had been a tendency of a certain class of people to exploit others. Out of this trend grew cannibalism, slavery—which he defined as "absolute exploitation" — serfdom and finally wages. The exploitation of labor, he declared, was one of the "sad stories" of our age but he observed that in recent years labor had become more assertive. He thought that possibly the wage system would evolve into something else.

Prof. Pangle spoke of Hitler's philosophy of geo-politics and said that basically it was a scheme to enslave and exploit mankind. Remembering the atrocity stories of World War I, he said he was inclined at first to be skeptical of many designs imputed to Hitler. "At first," he remarked, "this war appeared to be only a quarrel between the peoples of Europe" but time had revealed it as the most ambitious scheme of conquest since the projection of the old Roman empire. It is, he declared, a continuation of the old struggle between autocracy and democracy.

Prof. Pangle recalled that the last world war was avowedly fought to end war. It didn't, and he wouldn't venture to say that the present struggle would be the last. He did say, however, without elaborating, that "if we will use our influence properly" there might be no more wars.
