—for— Transylvania and Brevard HOMEMAKERS

What's What And Who's Who

Several families, it seems, have already started using this weekly Times quiz as a family game, and each one of the children tries to see which one can best remember what was in last week's paper, or else they save last week's paper and look it up from the page numbers given in the quiz answers. Here's the quiz for this week: 1. How is James Dickson setting a good example? 2. What are the remaining days for the income tax office to be open in the post office building? 3. How are Transylvania county service men to be honored through this month? 4. Was it twin roosters or a rooster and a hen in the Farmers Federation advertisement, and did you count how many eggs there were in the basket? 5. How much money was raised from the Christmas seal sale? 6. What new doctor opened offices in Brevard last Monday? 7. Who were the man and lady looking at the new house in the Brevard Lumber company advertisement? 8. What was the amount of war bonds sold at the Brevard high school rally? 9. When were Miss Fannie Sitton and James E. Waters married? 10. Who was honored at Madrie Galoway's party?

No More Lipstick

Hurry up, girls! No more lipstick imprint will be allowed on V-mail letters to sweethearts and hubbies in overseas service after February 22. It causes too much confusion and smearing of the letter content for post office officials to be willing to contend with it much longer, is the reason given for stopping this war favor. At least, government authorities might be credited with enough romance and sentiment not to curtail this privilege until after Valentine's Day.

Drink Your Milk, Dear

"Drink your milk, dear," is a command or entreaty often heard in families where there are small children. Every one should have milk, fresh, evaporated or dried, in some form, and there are many ways to get the milk in the diet if one does not like the taste of milk to drink by itself. If you can't drink your milk portion eat it in cream soups, milk puddings, creamed dishes, ice cream, hot chocolate, floating island, frozen custards, baked custards and numerous other ways.

Matrimony Vs. Romance

Interesting facts were gleaned from questionnaires sent out by certain investigators in different sections of the country, in which the husbands and wives were asked to tell how they rated each other after 15 years of matrimony. The replies showed that nearly twice as many husbands were satisfied with their wives as there were wives satisfied with their husbands. Perhaps it all boils down to the different views men and women take of marriage. A man, it appears from the different replies given, considers his marriage a success if he can settle down to it in comfort and is satisfied with his wife if she makes him a good home and is easy to live with; while women expect marriage to be a never-ending romance and for their husbands to be always thrilling lovers. But who knows, do you?

Douglas Wants To Know

Little Douglas Page, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Page, was very much interested in watching the firemen at work when the fire alarm was given at the Baker home last week. After the firemen had gone, Douglas' baby curiosity got the better of him, and he questioned his mother. Douglas: "Mommie, where does the fire go when the fire goes out?"

MACHINERY FOR INCREASED FOOD

The food production goal announced for 1944 is the highest on record. It calls for the largest planting program in the nation's history—the planting of 380,000,000 acres, an increase of 16,000,000 acres over 1943.

"This vast production program will require the efficient utilization of machinery in planting, cultivating, and harvesting the farm products needed," says J. D. Blickel, extension agricultural engineer at State college.

Although more new machinery will be made in 1944 than in 1943, it may not be available in large quantities when it is needed. Also, the quantity of new machinery probably will not be sufficient to meet the increased crop acreage and for replacement of worn equipment. This means that it is highly essential to have every usable machine now on the farms properly repaired and maintained for use in 1944.

"The machinery needs include inspection, checking, ordering parts early, repairing, servicing, and maintenance. The machines, both new and old, must be used efficiently. Efficient use may make it necessary to include in the program some plan of sharing so that each essential machine will produce to its maximum capacity," Bickel points out.

Timely Hints For Farm Homemakers

BY RUTH CURRENT

"A good farmer must know more than a doctor, a lawyer, a mechanic, or an industrialist. He must know soils, be a veterinarian, an agronomist, a botanist, a chemist, a mechanic, a forester, a biologist, and a horticulturist," says Louis Broomfield—a farmer.

It's garden planning time. Plan your garden so you will have a continuous supply of a few vegetables all through the growing season. The green leafy vegetables are especially important, and it's wise to have one or another of them from earliest spring up until freezing time.

Dr. Hazel Stiebeling, assistant chief of the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics, says that as a nation we need to double our supplies of green and yellow vegetables.

High on the list for food values are: tomatoes, cabbage, chard, kale and beet greens. All these are easy to grow. Other good vegetables for nutrition are limas, snap beans, carrots, green lettuce, spinach and turnips.

ways, just before taking a pie out of the oven, sprinkle a little sugar on the plate she was going to put the pie on. It was placed on the oven rack until thoroughly hot. The pie and plate cooled together, thus avoiding sweating of the pie and a soggy bottom.

Whole wheat is a good food. For good nutrition, each person requires one or more servings of a whole grain cereal each day. Whole wheat provides energy for the body. It contains some protein for body building and repair.

LIMITED NUMBER BUSES TO BE BUILT FOR CIVILIAN USE

War Production Board Sees Need For Transportation In Helping War Effort

In permitting the manufacture of a limited number of buses in 1944, the War Production Board has given further recognition to the importance of highway transportation in the war effort, according to Arthur M. Hill, president of the National Association of Motor Bus Operators.

WPB has set a tentative quota of 6,960 integral type buses to be built for civilian use in the next twelve months. Indications are that 1700 will be allocated for intercity service.

Mr. Hill stated that more than 4,000 of the nation's 22,000 intercity buses are over eight years old, the life expectancy of such vehicles. Although highway buses are now carrying triple the number of passengers of any pre-war year, no new equipment has been made available for over-the-road use since 1942 and there is an acute need for replacements.

Many buses are being driven 10,000 to 12,000 miles a month to meet wartime transportation demands. Older models are kept operating only because the industry has developed more intensified methods of maintenance, repair, and conservation.

While the number of new buses promised the intercity lines is far less than the annual requirements in peacetime, even the limited quantity will help by replacing the carriers which have reached the point where overhauling and repair work is impractical for dependable operation.

Feeding troops overseas demands great amounts of concentrated, processed foods. It takes 270 days' supply of food, stored in advance, for each man in overseas operations.
